LINER SINKS AND SEVEN OF CREW ARE LOST AFTER 177 PERSONS ARE RESCUED

Fatalities Occur During Efforts to Take Off by Life Lines Men Who Are Unable to Leave by Boat.

BOHEMIAN ON ROCKY LEDGE NEAR HALIFAX

After Passengers Are Taken Off Crew Tried to Save Vessel by Throwing Her Cargo Overboard.

By the Associated Press.

HALIFAX N. S. March 2.—Seven lives are believed to have been lost when the crew of the Leyland liner Bohemian abandoned the ship as she was breaking up on the Sambro Ledges this morning. Several others were injured.

The ship, which was bound from Boston to Liverpool, ran aground 200 feet from shore in a blinding snowstorm while endeavoring to put into Halifax harbor early yesterday morning. Sixty-four passengers were taken off in safety in the morning, but most of the 120 members of the crew remained on board all day.

Late last night a strong swell developed and the ship began to pound heavily on the rocks. Early this morning it was decided to abandon her. Three of the ship's boats got away safely but the remainder of the men were unable to take to the boats, according to reports.

The tug Roebling went as close to the stranded ship as possible and the transfer of those still on board was attempted by life lines. It is believed that the loss of life occurred during this operation.

The ship broke up quickly about 3 a. m., according to Fred Porter Jr., who had charge of the salvaging operations. The bow plunged into deep water under the ledges, while the stern, still held on the rocks, began to pound and break up. Just then the tug Roebling returned with supplies from Halifax and succeeded in getting alongside the wreck.

Each time the stern rolled toward the tug several men would swing from the davit ropes and flounder aboard the rescue craft. Several slipped and were caught between the two ship and badly injured or else fell into the water and were drowned.

Part of her cargo of cotton was cast into the sea last night to lighten the Bohemian soon after she struck the Bohemian.

For four hours after the passengers were taken off they waited in seven lifeboats near the steamship until the tug Roebling picked them up. Blankets were tossed from the ship to many who were in their nightclothes. Hot tea also was lowered from the Bohemian with a rope. Snow and cold added to the discomfort of the passengers, some of whom assisted the sailors at the oars.

Women and babies constituted a large part of the passengers and were put first into the lifeboats. The men said the behavior of the women was splendid.

The Bohemian struck at 2 o'clock and the boats were lowered at 3 o'clock. At Halifax the passengers were sent to hotels.

$383,000 PROPERTY FREED OF ALL TAXES

Building at Fifteenth and Washington Sold to Washington University Corporation.

The property at the northwest corner of Fifteenth street and Washington avenue, including the 10-story building occupied by the Roberts, Johnson & Rand Shoe Co., a branch of the International Shoe Co., for its main office and salesrooms, was made free of State and city taxes yesterday by its sale to the Washington University Corporation. The consideration named in the deed was $383,000.

The building has a frontage of 106 feet 11¼ inches on Washington avenue. In the last tax assessment the building was valued at $240,000 and the ground at $177,210. The last annual tax payment on the property was $9804.33.

The transfer of the property to Washington University was made by the Patriot Realty Co., a holding company made up of officers of the Roberts, Johnson & Rand Shoe Co.

Frank C. Rand, president of the International Shoe Co., today said the Washington University Corporation purchased the property as an investment and the shoe company will continue to occupy the building. It signed a new 20-year lease on the property yesterday. The terms of this lease were not made public.

The site was acquired by officers of the Roberts, Johnson & Rand Shoe Co. in 1905. The present building was erected in 1909 and was leased by the shoe company for 10 years.

BEDS USED FOUR TIMES A DAY, LODGING HOUSE KEEPER SAYS

Asks for Quadruple Depreciation Reduction in Income Tax on That Ground.

A downtown lodging house, in making its Federal income tax return today, asked permission to quadruple its deduction for depreciation on the ground that its beds are used four times a day. The management was informed that the local income tax bureau could not allow the claim and that the Commissioner of Internal Revenue at Washington would have to make a ruling.

The law covering the income tax of corporations and other business concerns allows a reasonable deduction for depreciation in machinery, fixtures and other equipment. In making allowance for such deduction the number of hours per day the business is operated is taken into consideration.

Last year a St. Louis printing house, under a special ruling of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, was permitted to triple deduction for depreciation on machinery on the ground that it had three shifts of men, each working eight hours, six days in the week.

APARTMENT BUILDING BOUGHT ON THE COMMUNITY PLAN

Six Chicago Business Men Unite to Escape the Payment of High Rents.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 2.—Six Chicago business and professional men today adopted a community plan to escape payment of high rents. The men contributed equally toward a fund of $27,000 to purchase an apartment building which, with their families, they expect to occupy. It was agreed a common fund should be established, out of which running expenses of the apartment would be paid.

Under a set of rules devised, each tenant was given authority to decorate, remodel or sublet his flat at his pleasure. Money which would have been paid as rents will go into the common fund to meet the cost price of the apartment.

One of the six men was made business manager and agent. Informal meetings of the "community" will pass on matters the agent cannot adjust.

FREE SEED DISTRIBUTION BY CONGRESSMEN TO END

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Acting on the recommendation of the new Secretary of Agriculture, the Senate Agricultural Committee today voted to eliminate from the annual agricultural bill the $240,000 voted by the House to continue the time-hallowed custom of distribution of free seeds to their constituents by members of Congress.

PASSENGERS DRIFT IN BOATS FOR HOURS, CRYING AND SINGING

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

HALIFAX, N. S., March 2.—A story of the experiences suffered by the passengers rescued from the steamship Bohemian was related today by Miss Dorothy Stoner of 2931 East Twenty-first street, Kansas City, Mo.

"It was just a little before 3 o'clock that I was awakened by a sudden jar of the ship," said Miss Stoner. "I dressed, not awaiting to add much of my apparel. As I came on deck I was told twice to return and put on more clothes, but refused.

"Shortly the women were lined up at the ship's rail to take our first turn at the boats. It was snowing very hard, the wind was bitterly cold, and it seemed that the snow pierced my clothing and hurt my flesh. Many were crying. It was exceedingly dark and none of us could see where we were going. Someone started to sing and the entire crew joined in. 'Lead Kindly Light' was first started, and then later, after all were safely in the boats, popular songs were sung. I sang through sheer hysterics. While we were all more or less terrified at first, there was no distinct confusion. Our bot was the last to be picked up and she had been drifting for more than six hours. The ropes on our boat refused to work and we hung about 15 feet in the air for half an hour, and were then cut down, the boat dropping 15 feet with a splash."

MAN WHO CARRIED $8635 TELLS OF "BOOTLEGGING"

Ex-Convict Says He and Another Bought Saloon and Have Been Selling Stock Surreptitiously.

DECLARES HE MADE "A LOT OF MONEY"

No Intoxicants Found in Place—Suspect Taken in Round-Up Held When $100 Bills Were Found.

William Doering, 28 years old, a convict paroled by Gov. Gardner, May 1, 1918, though previously he had served a term in the Jefferson City Penitentiary for highway robbery and two Workhouse terms for picking pockets, is held by the police for inquiry as to how he obtained $8635 in $100 and $50 bills and gold coins, found in his pocket when he was arrested on suspicion yesterday afternoon.

Doering told Detective Chief Hannegan he "made the money honestly." When pressed for an explanation he said he made it by "bootlegging" whisky. He told the Chief he and a man known to him as "Red" Powers purchased William Egan's saloon at Fourteenth street and Franklin avenue three months ago and had been selling the stock of liquors surreptitiously.

Made "Lot of Money."

In this way he said he made "a lot of money," including enough to buy an automobile.

George Gerhardt of 205 Missouri avenue, East St. Louis, was arrested with Doering. The police say Gerhardt is under bond in connection with the recent robbery of a bank at Harvel, Ill.

Detectives went to the former Egan saloon and saw Powers, who denied that he and Doering had sold any whisky since its sale became illegal. The place was searched and no intoxicants were found.

Doering and Gerhardt were arrested by detectives who visited the former saloon of Edward J. Hogan, Jefferson and Cass avenues, yesterday afternoon in search of questionable characters. They recognized Doering and searched him, finding the money.

Cartridges in Auto.

Hogan, proprietor of this saloon, formerly was a member of the State Legislature and is now a Deputy State Beverage Inspector.

After the arrest the detectives searched Doering's automobile, which was standing near the saloon. Under a seat they found 40 revolver cartridges, but no weapons. Doering and Gerhardt were not armed.

Doering was sentenced to serve three years for highway robbery in St. Louis in 1910. He served this sentence less time off for good behavior. In 1914 he was sentenced to serve one year each on two counts for picking pockets.

Sept. 16, 1915, he was arrested after being chased from 1232 Walton avenue, which he had robbed. For this he was convicted Jan. 3, 1916, and sentenced to five years on a burglary and larceny charge. He was serving this sentence when he was paroled.

Employment Promised.

The parole was recommended by William G. Warner of Lamar, Mo., former member of the State Board of Pardons and Paroles; Hyland Produce Co., 1201 North Third street, St. Louis, of which Martin Hyland is the head; H. L. Tobinson, 1918 Carr street; Henry O'Dowd, 4559 Evans avenue; Mrs. Elizabeth Kiel, 4704 Page boulevard, and Mrs. A. Kessler, 4557 Evans avenue. He was paroled to Hyland. Warner, in a letter to the present prison board, said he was convinced Doering would lead a straight life if paroled, and that the Hyland Produce Co. stated it would give Doering employment.

Previous Arrests.

Doering was arrested June 7 last in connection with the theft of $6000 worth of jewelry from Mr. and Mrs. Louis Grollnek, who were held up in their automobile as they were entering the driveway of their home, 556a Waterman avenue. One of the robbers dropped a hat which detectives learned resembled one worn by Doering. Mrs. Grollnek was taken to see Doering after his arrest and when she saw him she fainted. After being revived she said, "Those eyes. I could never forget them. That man was one of the robbers." Later this identification was withdrawn, it being said that Mrs. Krollnek was not sure and the prosecution was dropped.

In the fall of 1918 Doering was arrested for picking the pocket of Albert Blackburn of 5027 Garfield avenue, on a Wellston car. On the day set for his trial he met Blackburn outside the courtroom and handed him $274, the amount stolen. The prosecution was then dropped.

ONE WOMAN, 181 MEN ARE TAKEN IN LICENSE ROUNDUP

Only Four of Vehicles Overhauled Are Wagons —Most of the Arrests Are Made at the Lindell and Washington Cut-Offs.

One woman and 181 men had been arrested up to 1:30 o'clock in the police round-up of vehicles not equipped with 1920 State and city licenses, which began this morning.

Most of the arrests were made at the Washington avenue and Lindell avenue cutoffs as the vehicles were being driven downtown. Only four of the vehicles were wagons. The others were automobiles.

The woman was Mrs. Madeline Preston, 28 years old, of 5540 Pershing avenue. When she was released at the Laclede avenue station, after signing her own bond to appear in Police Court, she said that she would go direct to the city hall and get a city license. She had her State license.

In cases where the city license was not visible policemen stopped the cars and in so doing cautioned the drivers always to keep to the right side of the street to avoid accidents and to display their State licenses conspicuously and keep them clean so that they can be easily read.

All of those arrested were taken to police stations, where they were permitted to sign their own bonds for appearance in Police Court. The practice heretofore has been that upon appearance in Police Court and upon ability to show that licenses were obtained after arrest, the defendants were released on payment of costs, $3 in each case.

NEGRO HELD FOR THEFT FROM HIS PREACHER

John Henderson, a negro, was ordered held for the grand jury today after a preliminary hearing on a charge of stealing a ring, a watch and $3 from the Rev. James Washington, negro pastor of the Morning Star Baptist Church, 901 Biddle street after showing the outward symptoms of "getting religion" there Feb. 5.

The Rev. Washington testified that while he was conducting the service "on that memorable occasion" Brother Henderson suddenly "got religion awful bad." The preacher said he stopped his sermon about "the eagle stirring up the nest" and sang a hymn to quiet the nerves of Brother Henderson.

"After the services," said the preacher, "Brother Henderson said he desired to see the pastor. I took him in the back room where we sometimes give church suppers. He caught me by the hand and he pawed over me and told me he wanted to give me a diamond and Prince Albert coat so I would make a better appearance when preaching my sermons.

"He squeezed my hand powerful hard and I had to jerk it away. Some of the other brothers and sisters had followed us into the back room and they said to me that from the closeness of Brother Henderson it would be a good thing to search myself and see if my belongings were all together. I looked at my finger and my ring was gone. I felt in my pocket and my watch was gone. I felt in another pocket and my $3 was gone. I looked around and Brother Henderson was gone."

Henderson, on the witness stand, denied he stole anything, but said he "just borrowed" the preacher's watch to "make a flash with" on a visit to Collinsville.

23 MINOR DEFENDANTS IN NEWBERRY CASE DISMISSED

By the Associated Press.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 2.—Twenty-three minor defendants in the Newberry elections conspiracy trial were dismissed from custody on motion of the prosecution today.

The move came just after Frank C. Dailey, Assistant Attorney-General, had announced at 3 p. m. that the Government rested its direct case. Judge Sessions promptly granted Dailey's motion to dismiss.

None of the 10 nolo contender men was dismissed, their cases being reserved for later disposition. Dailey's action cut the field of defendants to 100. Of the 135 indicted, one was never apprehended, one was given a separate trial and 123 faced the present jury.

WOMAN STRICKEN AT THEATER DIES WHILE BEING CARRIED OUT

A woman whose name was said to be Rosenthal was stricken while attending a performance at the Grand Opera House this afternoon. She was carried to the American Annex Hotel, where a physician pronounced her dead.

BAIL GRANTED TO MISS WHITNEY

Oakland Physicians Say Incarceration Would Impair Health.

By the Associated Press.

OAKLAND, Cal., March 2.—Miss Anita Whitney, social worker, convicted of criminal syndicalism and sentenced to one to 14 years, was admitted to bail yesterday in the sum of $10,000, following the report of three physicians that Miss Whitney's health would be impaired by her incarceration in the county jail.

21.74 PER CENT GAIN IN U. R. REVENUE IN 1919

Gain in Service Was 3.24 Per Cent, Report Indicating Greater Crowding of Cars.

The United Railways during 1919 carried 32,024,602 more passengers than it did in 1918, but increased its service, in terms of car miles, only 3.24 per cent. This was made possible by increasing the number of passengers each car mile from 8.9 to 9.55, which indicates greater crowding of cars, a source of recent frequent complaint by riders. The total number of passengers carried last year was 409,010,329, compared with 376,985,727 carried in 1918.

These are figures shown in the annual report of the Board of Directors to the stockholders of the company. The operation now is in charge of Receiver Rolla Wells, who has not yet made any report for the period of his operation, which began on April 12, last.

Average Fare 6.25 Cents.

The total number of revenue passengers carried during 1919 was 263,221,899, compared with 245,876,910 in 1918. The 1919 riders paid an average fare of 6.25 cents, which was three-fourths of one cent greater car fare than the riders of 1918 paid, the average fare in that year being 5.50 cents. The period of the 6-cent fare began on June 1, 1918, and the period of the 8-cent fare on Oct. 15.

The greater fare gave the company $2,946,390.83, or 21.74 per cent greater revenue than in 1918, yet the year ended with a deficit of $265,780.57, according to the report. This was a reduction from $400,299.18 deficit at the end of 1918 by $134,518.61.

The total operating revenue of the company increased from $13,639,613 in 1918 to $16,592,679 and the total operating expenses from $11,615,743.65 to $14,303,638. The company added .66 miles to its trackage during the year.

One of the interesting pages of the report is that on which comparisons between the operation of the railways under the company and the receiver are set down. The operation was in charge of the company 101 days during the year and of the receiver 264. One of the items shows that the salaries of general officers were increased 31.5 per cent under the receivership during the year and that the salaries of general officers were 89 per cent higher during the period of the receivership in 1919 than during the same period of company control during 1918.

JUDGE, TAKING SUIT AWAY, SAYS IT SHOULD BE TRIED IN STABLE

Congratulates Jurors That They Do Not Have to Hear Testimony in Alienation Case.

Circuit Judge Kimmel, in taking an alienation suit away from a jury today, congratulated the jurors that they would not have to listen to the prospective testimony, and added, "Such a case should be tried in a livvery stable."

The suit was that of Joseph M. Chmelar of 2047 Geyer avenue, against Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Moydell of High Ridge, Mo., formerly of 1801 Preston place, the parents of Mrs. Chmelar, who is now suing for divorce. The husband sued the wife's parents for $25,000, but his testimony this morning convinced the court that the parents were not to blame for his difficulties with his wife. The objectionable testimony to which the Judge referred was in prospect, rather than the testimony which had actually been given. The Court permitted Chmelar to take a non-suit.

BILL FOR 3.5 BEER SIGNED

By the Associated Press.

TRENTON, N. J., March 2.—Gov. Edwards today signed a bill that permits the manufacture and sale, after peace with Germany is proclaimed, of liquor containing 3.5 per cent of alcohol by volume.

The passage of the bill was completed in the Legislature yesterday.

MONROE DOCTRINE RESERVATION IS READOPTED, 58-22

15 Democrats Vote With Republicans; Qualifications on Domestic Issues Also Readopted, 56-25.

PRESENT PLANS PUT LEAGUE IN CAMPAIGN

Leaders Decide to Drop Compromise Negotiations, Which They Believe Have Reached Hopeless Stage.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 2. — The Monroe Doctrine reservation, which has been one of the storm centers of the peace treaty fight, was readopted in the Senate today in the same form as written by the Republican leaders and approved by the Senate last session.

The vote was 58 to 22, with 15 Democrats voting with the Republicans for adoption. On its original adoption last November the majority for it had been 55 to 34, only nine Democrats supporting it.

A Democratic substitute had been rejected, by a vote of 43 to 34.

The Democrats voting today for adoption of the Monroe Doctrine reservation were Beckham, Kentucky; Chamberlain, Oregon; Fletcher, Florida; Gore, Oklahoma; Henderson, Nevada; King, Utah; Kirby, Arkansas; Myers, Moontana; Owen, Oklahoma; Pittman, Nevada; Reed, Missouri; Shields, Tennessee; Smith, Georgia; Thomas, Colorado; Trammell, Florida.

The Republican reservation declaring the right of the United States to decide all domestic questions under the league of nations had been previously readopted by the Senate by a vote of 56 to 25, after repeated efforts by the Democrats to amend it had failed.

A substitute offered by Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, the administration leader, was rejected, 36 to 44.

Fourteen Democrats voted with the solid Republican membership for the reservation. On its original adoption last November the vote was 59 to 36, with 11 Democrats voting in the affirmative.

Immediately the Senate proceeded to consider the fifth of the Lodge reservations, which declares the Monroe Doctrine "wholly outside the jurisdiction" of the league of nations, and susceptible only to interpretation and construction by the United States.

Likely to Go Into Campaign.

The peace treaty will be thrust into the political campaign under the plans of Senate leaders, who have agreed to drop the compromise negotiations, which they believe have reached a hopeless stage.

Unwilling to consume more time in dickering over compromises, the leaders have agreed to put the treaty away and turn their attention to urgent legislation.

This means that the treaty would become a dominant issue in the approaching political campaign and that the American people would be called upon to express their views on the question of ratification, modification or rejection through the ballot box.

Both sides heretofore have fought off stubbornly this eventuality but they are said now to have come to look upon it as inevitable.

Article 10 Stumbling Block.

Under the plan apparently acquiesced in by all elements of both parties, compromise negotiations on the crucial reservation to article 10 are to be dropped, readoption of the Republican reservation program of last session is to be completed as a formality, and then a final ratification vote is to be taken to put the treaty out of the Senate and into the campaign.

Some Senators predict that the final vote, which it is conceded on both sides will record another failure to ratify, will come within three days. Among most of the leaders, however, the prediction is that the smouldering debate will take at least the remainder of the week to burn itself out in spite of general co-operation to keep it sharply under control.

The decision to hasten action was reached when the Republican leaders, convinced that the Democrats would block ratification unless the Article X reservation were modified, determined to stand by their guns and insist that the reservation go into the ratification reservation without change of substance or of language. In this reaffirmation they acceded to a demand by the Republicans irreconcilably opposed to ratification who had intimated that they might adopt methods of their own to wreck the Republican program if they saw signs of weakening on Article X.

Coup of Irreconcilables.

The coup of the irreconcilables was a virtual repetition of the move by which, several weeks ago, they ended the bi-partisan compromise negotiations by bringing pressure to bear on the Republican leaders when an agreement seemed eminent.

UNIONS TO FOREGO FIGHT ON RAIL BILL AND GIVE IT TRIAL

Representatives Understood to Have Voted to Test It Out as Means of Settling Wage Question.

PRESIDENT PREPARES TO SET UP TRIBUNAL

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Representatives of the railroad unions are understood to have voted today to give the new railroad law a trial in bringing about a settlement of their wage demands.

It is understood also that they decided to hold in abeyance plans to test the constitutionality of the law and not to refer the controversy to the union membership for a vote "until the law has been given a fair trial."

This means, it is said, that all danger of a general strike at this time has been removed. One of the union officials said: "We are all good Americans and desire to go along with the President as far as we can."

Committee Named.

The conference named B. M. Jewell, acting president of the Railway Employes Department of the American Federation of Labor; E. J. Manion, president of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, and Timothy Shea, acting president of the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen, a committee to draft a statement of their views and their immediate course of action.

Decision of the union leaders was reached after a conference which has lasted over three days. Most of the officials prepared to leave Washington tonight. The executives, however, planned to stay until they submit to President Wilson the names of their members of the labor board, provided in the new transportation act.

Plan for Selection.

The executives will determine the method by which their members on the tripartite board would be selected. It is understood a majority of them favor the reference of list of 10 names to the general committeemen of all local organizations, the six leading in the vote to go to the President.

Efforts of certain groups of the unions to force an immediate test of the law's constitutionality came to an end in a secret meeting last night, it was stated. The more influential of the executives who attended that session argued that the law should be allowed to demonstrate its own value and workability. This view finally was accepted, but not without protests.

President Wilson today asked the railway executives and employes to join in selecting representatives for a bi-partisan board "for the purpose of attempting by conference to agree" upon a solution of the railway wage problem under Section 301 of the railroad bill.

Letters to Both Sides.

In his letter to the employes President Wilson quoted from his communication to them of last Saturday, saying he believed such a board would go far toward maturing the wages dispute "for final disposition," and asked that the brotherhoods select "such number of representatives as may seem appropriate," to conduct the conference.

The President also wrote T. DeWitt Cuyler, chairman of the Association of Railway Executives, making a similar request and adding that since the transportation act had become a law, "the way is open for the immediate handling of the wage matter in accordance with the procedure contemplated by that law."

Both sides were requested by the President to forward the names of their repreesntatives to Director-General Hines, who, the letter said, would arrange for the first conferences at which questions of procedure and representation which might arise might be decided.

Method of Voting.

Under the law the unions name six representatives and the roads six. From each of these groups the President will select three and in addition he will name three representatives of the public. The board of nine as thus constituted will be subject to Senate approval.

CO-OPERATIVE STORE FORCES BIG PRICE CUT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LAWRENCE, Mass., March 2.—In operation on a small scale only for five weeks, the co-operative department store established by President William M. Wood of the American Woolen Co. for the benefit of 15,000 employees of the company here has reduced the cost of living for them and incidentally others in this city.

When carloads of canned goods, vegetables and apparel, including shoes and gloves, began to arrive, price lists were distributed through the big textile plants and all the supplies were subscribed for quickly, as the prices were much lower than the retailers asked.

So eagerly did the workers buy that a 10-story building had to be utilized to house the supplies. It is nearly empty again, but consignments on the way will permit he management to go ahead on a more extensive scale.

The general public cannot buy from Wood's store, but his experiment is causing a big reduction in the prices of other merchants. Here is a comparison of prices in the retail stores in December and today:

	December.	Today.
Women's suits	$50@85	$25
Plush coats	40@50	29.50
Women's silk dresses	35	25
Men's suits	50@60	18@35
Shoes, a pair	8@16	5@10

Round steak that is 23@25 cents a pound was 40@50 cents; sirloin steak, 35@40 cents, was 55@90 cents; lamb chops, 30 cents, were 28; fresh eggs 69 cents a dozen, were 95; beef to stew, 15 cents, was 20 cents; hamburger steak 19 cents, was 25.

The best grades of canned pears, peaches, tomatoes, peas, beans, and the like, are offered to the Wood employes at 11 cents; the retail merchants ask 30 cents. Potatoes, bringing 55 cents a peck in the retail stores a month ago, were 30 cents in the co-operative stores. Gloves at 35 cents a pair were $1 outside.

FRENCH RAIL STRIKE ENDS; RIGHT TO ORGANIZE GRANTED

Disciplinary Penalties Will Be Canceled and Other Points Will Be Arbitrated.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, March 2.—The strike of railway men throughout France was settled last night on the following points:

The right for men to organize will be respected throughout the railroad systems of France. The railroad men accept arbitration on points not as yet settled and an immediate study of future rules of railroads will be begun. The companies will not pay wages to the men for the time lost during the strike, but disciplinary penalties for non-resumption of work after the men had been summoned will be canceled. Directors of companies will revise other penalties in the spirit of justice.

U. S. STEEL FOUND BY 4 TO 3 TO BE A 'GOOD' COMBINE

MAJORITY CONSIDERS THE "PUBLIC INTEREST"

Minority Decision Declares Sherman Anti-Trust Law Has Been Violated; Suit Was Begun in 1911.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—In a four-to-three decision yesterday, the Supreme Court refused to dissolve the United States Steel Corporation and its numerous subsidiaries, comprising the so-called "Steel Trust," and the Government's long fought suit for dissolution of the iron and steel trade combination for alleged violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust law was dismissed, with absolution for the corporation from all existing charges.

Placing the high court's "O. K." on the steel corporation were Chief Justice White and Associate Justices McKenna, who announced the majority opinion, Holmes and Vandeventer, Justice Day gave the dissenting opinion, which was joined by Justices Pitney and Clarke. Justices McReynolds and Brandeis took no part, the former having been Attorney-General during the litigation, and the latter having expressed opinions regarding it before appointment to the bench.

Further, the Court held that mere size, bigness or preponderance in industry of corporate combinations is not alone sufficient cause for their dissolution.

Ruling on the Public Interest.

The Court also gave a new and far-reaching judicial interpretation or application of the Sherman law, analagous to its famous "rule of reason" in the Standard Oil and tobacco "trust" cases, by declaring that public interest must be considered in applying the law. The public interest, it was held, would not be served and might be injured by dissolving the steel concern.

Dissolution of the corporation and its principal subsidiaries was urged in the spirited dissenting opinion. The minority declared that the anti-trust law was violated in its organization; that there has been open, notorious and continued violation of its provisions, and that approval of illegally-born combinations "would practically annul the Sherman law by judicial decree."

The minority vigorously disapproved the new Sherman law ruling requiring judicial consideration of the public interest. Such a conclusion, the dissenters declared, "necessarily results in a practical nullification of the act itself."

The decision was a complete victory for the corporation and its 180 subsidiaries, said to compose the world's greatest industrial combination, with assets of more than $2,000,000,000. It also dismissed proceedings against a score of millionaire individual defendants, including Chairman Gary of the corporation; Charles M. Schwab, John D. Rockefeller, the late J. P. Morgan, Andrew Carnegie, Henry C. Frick and others. Against these the Government had asked injunctions again illegal acts.

Long, Costly Proceeding.

The suit, which was begun in 1911 in the New Jersey Federal Court and has been one of the longest, most voluminous and most costly proceeding in Supreme Court annals. The case, the records of which fill a small room, was twice argued in the high court in March, 1917, and again last October. A truce, suspending action during the war, was agreed upon in 1918.

Although yesterday's decree leaves the Government free to bring new proceedings against the corporation for specific and present practices deemed in conflict with the anti-trust las, Department of Justice officials declared no thought had been given to future action. Pending study of the opinions Attorney-General Palmer and other department officials withheld comment.

In its appeal the Government contended that to sustain dismissal of its suit by the New Jersey court would result in licensing enormous corporations which fall just short of complete monopoly and would place the Court's stamp of approval on development of industry by combination instead of competition.

Roosevelt's Approval.

The majority of the court took occasion to refer to President Roosevelt's approval of the Steel Corporation's acquisition of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Co., declaring that action of President Roosevelt, while not making the merger legal, gave assurance of its legality, as we know from his earnestness in the public welfare he would have approved of nothing that had even a tendency to its detriment."

Controls Half the Trade.

To sustain its decree that the steel concern is a "good" combination, the majority of the Supreme Court found that it controls about half of the American iron and steel trade, including mines, mills, railroads, ships and ore fields. Monopoly, the opinion declared, has not been achieved. Its power over prices, the majority also declared is unequal to its proportionate production.

Good conduct of the corporation toward its competitors and customers was emphasized by the majority, who held it has not oppressed competitors or dictated prices. That conduct of the steel concern parallels the oil and tobacco "trusts" was denied by the majority, which declared the latter had been found guilty of illegal practices up to the time of their dissolution, while any illegalities of the steel combination's organization were "transient in their purpose and effect" and since abandoned. In this connection reference was made to the famous "Gary dinners," at which Steel Corporation officials met with competitors to agree on prices.

The Government, the majority declared, was reduced to the sole contention that mere size or bigness of the organization is "an abhorrence to the law." Unused capacity for monopoly or oppression, the Court held, is not punishable. The Court's duty, it was declared, is to punish and check any actual violations.

New Application of Law.

In its enunciation of the new application to be given the Sherman law regarding the public interest in each case, the Court said:

"It is clear in its denunciation of monopolies and equally clear in its direction that the courts shall prevent and restrain them, but the command is necessarily submissive to the conditions which may exist and the usual powers of a court of equity to adopt its remedies to those conditions. We do not mean to say that the law is not its own measure and can be disregarded, but only that appropriate relief in each instance is remitted to a court of equity to determine, not, and let us be explicit in this, to advance a policy contrary to that of the law, but in submission to the law and its policy, and in execution of both."

In conclusion the majority said they were "unable to see that the public interest would be served by yielding to the contention of the Government respecting dissolution, and we do see a risk of public injury, including a material disturbance of and it may be a serious detriment to, foreign trade."

In reply, the three dissenting justices declared that the corporation "violated the law in its formation and its immediate practices," and being formed illegally, should be dissolved into competitive units. The lower court, the minority declared, could fix the details. It had been demonstrated, the minority held, that the corporation was over capitalized with "watered stock."

Would Undo the Rest.

"If the Sherman law is to be given efficacy," the minority opinion declared, "there must be a decree undoing as far as is possible that which has been achieved in open, notorious and continued violation of the law."

"I agree," Justice Day continued, "that the act offers no objection to mere size of a corporation when that size has been obtained by lawful means and developed by natural growth, although its resources, capital and strength may give to such a corporation a dominating place. But I understand the reiterated decisions of this court to hold that this power may not legally be derived from conspiracies, combination or contracts in restraint of trade. To permit this would be to practically annul the Sherman law by judicial decree."

Contesting the majority's interpretation of the law, the dissenters declared that, if changes are now to be made in its construction or operation, Congress and courts should act.

Both the holding corporation and its subsidiaries, the dissenting opinion declared, were organized in "plain violation" of the law and under the majority decree are made immune because of some public reasons requiring such a conclusion."

"I know of no public policy," said Justice Day for those dissenting, "which sanctions a violation of the law, nor of any inconvenience to trade, domestic or foreign, which should have the effect of placing combinations in an impregnable position above the control of the law. Such a conclusion does violence to the policy which the law is intended to enforce and necessarily results in practical nullification of the act itself."

No Violation Since 1911.

Justice McKenna said that since 1911 no act in violation of law can be charger against the steel corporation and that it was the opinion of the Court that the practices complained of by the Government had been abandoned.

The Federal suit, filed in 1911 in the New Jersey Federal District Court, was dismissed in 1915 by Judges Buffington, McPherson, Woolley and Hunt. Direct appeal to the Supreme Court was taken by the Government. The case was expedited and argued in March, 1917, before seven Justices. Justice McReynolds was disqualified by having been Attorney-General during earlier proceedings, and Justice Brandeis retired because of public expressions of opinions, regarding the so-called "trust" before his appointment.

The District Court decided that, although formed to illegally monopolize and restrain trade and to secure great profits, the combination was not able alone to fix and maintain prices, and, though dominant, was not an actual monopoly.

Holding Company Defendant.

The principal defendant was the United States Steel Corporation, the alleged combination of combinations, a holding company doing no business, but maintaining stock control of the subsidiaries with aggregate assets in excess of $2,000,000,000. Promoted by J. P. Morgan & Co.'s syndicate agreement, its original capital stock of $3000 was increased to $1,100,000,000. This stock was then exchanged for that of subsidiaries acquired, with an actual transaction of but $174,000.

Eight other principal corporate defendants now owned by the big company were: Carnegie Steel Co. of New Jersey, Federal Steel Co. of New Jersey, American Tin Plate Co. of New Jersey, American Sheet and Tin Plate Co. of New Jersey, American Steel & Wire Co. of New Jersey, National Tube Co. of New Jersey, American Bridge Co. of New Jersey, Lake Superior Consolidated Iron Mines Co. of New Jersey.

Individual Defendants.

In addition, 18 individuals prominent in forming the corporation were named as defendants. They were the late J. P. Morgan, Charles Steele, George W. Perkins, E. H. Gary, Charles M. Schwab, Andrew Carnegie, Henry C. Frick, James Gayley, William H. Moore, J. H. Moore, Edmund C. Converse, Percival Roberts Jr., Daniel G. Reid, Norman B. Ream, John D. Rockefeller, John D. Rockefeller Jr., the late P. A. B. Widener and William P. Palmer. Against these the Government asked an injunction to prohibit actions restraining commerce.

Dominance in the whole iron and steel industry, including control of raw products, mines, mills, ore railroads and steamships, and output and prices of finished products was the general charge against the corporation and subsidiaries.

How Supreme Court Contrasts Steel With Oil and Tobacco Cases

HOW the Supreme Court decision contrasts the steel case with the Standard Oil and tobacco cases in the following extracts from the majority opinion:

"The Standard Oil Co. had its its origin in 1882 and through successive forms of combinations and agencies it progressed in illegal power to the day of the decree, even attempting to circumvent by one of its forms the decision of a court against it. And its method in using its power was of the kind that Judge Woolley described as 'brutal,' and of which practices, he said the Steel Corporation was absolutely guiltless.

"The Tobacco company case has the same bad distinctions as the Standard Oil case. The illegality in which it was formed (there were two American Tobacco companies, but we use the name as designating the new company as representing the combinations of the suit), continued, indeed, progressed, in intensity and defiance to the moment of decree, and it is the intimation of the opinion if not its direct assertion that the formation of the company (the word 'combination' is used) was preceded by the intimidation of a trade war, 'inspired by one or more of the minds which brought about and became parties to that combination.' In other words, the purpose of the combination was signaled to competitors and the choice presented to them as submission or ruin.

"In the tobacco case, therefore, as in the Standard Oil case, the Court had to deal with a persistent and systematic lawbreaker masquerading under legal forms, and which not only had to be stripped of its disguises, but arrested in its illegality. A decree of dissolution was the manifest instrumentality and inevitable. We think it would be a work of sheer superogation to point out that a decree in that case or in the Standard Oil case furnishes no example for a decree in this.

"In conclusion, we are unable to see that the public interest will be served by yielding to the contention of the Government respecting the dissolution of the company (the United States Steel Corporation) or the separation from it of some of its subsidiaries; and we do see in a contrary conclusion a risk of injury to the public interest, including a material disturbance of, and it may be, a serious detriment to, the foreign trade, and in submission to the policy of the law and its fortifying prohibitions the public interest is of paramount regard."

MISSING RINGS FOUND AT STORE

Mrs. F. A. Scotti, 5203 Enright avenue, who reported the theft of three diamond rings, valued at $650, from a dresser drawer in her home last Friday, told the police yesterday that she had found them in a candy box in the stock room of her candy store at 5105 Delmar boulevard.

At the time of the loss of the rings, the police said that there was no evidence of anyone having broken into the home. Mrs. Scotti could not explain the finding of the rings in the candy box.

DRY AMENDMENT NOT REVIEWABLE, HUGHES ARGUES

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Twenty-one states joined with the Federal Government yesterday in asking the Supreme Court to dismiss the original suit brought by Rhode Island to test the validity of the prohibition amendment to the Constitution.

Subscribing to a brief, which was filed by Charles E. Hughes, with the Court's permission and which asked dismissal of the Rhode Island case on the grounds that no justiciable questions were involved were the states of Delaware, North Carolina, Kentucky, Louisiana, Indiana, Alabama, Maine, Arkansas, Michigan, Florida, Oregon, Kansas, West Virginia, Nevada, Nebraska, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wyoming, Utah and Arizona.

Dismissal of the suit, which the Government has moved, was opposed in another brief presented by Attorney-General Herbert A. Rice of Rhode Island, who asserted that the Government's view that the amendment is "unassailable" could only lead to anarchy and oppression."

Arguments Postponed.

Another development in the proceedings was indefinite postponement by permission of the Court, of arguments, which were to have been heard next Monday, in order to permit appeals from Kentucky and Massachusetts, involving the amendment's validity to be heard at the same time. Assistant Attorney-General Frierson indicated that the arguments might be heard March 15.

In asking permission to file the brief, Hughes told the Court that officials of 19 of the 21 states had communicated with him directly relative to opposing Rhode Island's suit, while the Governors of the other two, Nevada and Kansas, had given him authority to include them.

"The State of Rhode Island," Hughes said in his brief, "does not bring its bill of complaint to enforce any property right or any interest of the State which can be regarded as the proper subject of judicial consideration. If this Court may consider the question whether an amendment not expressly prohibited by the Constitution itself can validly be adopted, it is submitted that there is nothing in the nature of the eighteenth (prohibition) amendment which exposes it to the charge of invalidity.

"We submit that the conception involved in the bill of complaint, that an amendment duly submitted by Congress on the vote of two-thirds of each House, and duly ratified by the Legislatures of three-fourths of the states is still subject to judicial review and may be held for naught through judicial action by virtue of a process of implied restrictions upon the amending power—restrictions which thus set up by judicial decree would be unalterable by any constitutional process—is a conception of the most extravagant character and opposed to the fundamental principles of our Government. No principle of judicial action can possibly be invoked for sustaining such an authority."

"The truth is," the brief concluded, "that there is nothing left but a question of political policy with which this court has no concern. If any restriction upon the power of amendment could be implied there could be no implication in the sense of a rule of law which would justify a judicial decree denying validity to this amendment."

Rhode Island's Contentions.

Attorney-General Rice, in his brief, contended that the theory of the Government in the case would endanger civil liberty and rights inherited from the comomn law since Magna Charta, that, under its application, the constitutional boundary between Federal and state authority could be shifted at will and all power might be absorbed by the Federal Government.

He contended that Article 5 of the Constitution provided only for "correction of errors committed in framing the Constitution" and that Congress' amendment functions were limited.

Rice declared the proposal of the amendment "to the states" was unconstitutional and that heretofore Congress had proposed amendments to the "Legislatures of the several states." He contended a departure was made "in order to carry out the new constitutional doctrine that the word amendment in Article 5 includes proposals covering the whole field of absolute sovereignty.

"In the proposal of the so-called amendment neither a power nor a subject matter within the scope of the Federal Constitution was dealt with."

He contended the principle involved rested exclusively with the people of the respective states, and that it was necessary to obtain a surrender of such power to propose "that so-called amendment to those who possessed it."

"Recognizing the necessity," the brief said, "Congress made the proposal of the so-called amendment to the respective states, that is, to the sovereign people of the respective states. Such a submission of the proposal to the states is nowhere recognized by the Federal Constitution and is a revolutionary proceeding."

ROW ENDS SOLDIER RELIEF SESSION OF HOUSE COMMITTEE

Charge Repeated During Hearing That the 50 Gratuity Bills Were Sent to Committee "for Burial."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Taking up for the first time the whole question of soldier-relief legislation, the House Ways and Means Committee got into a row today over procedure and broke up with some confusion after members had repeated charges made in the House that the measures had been sent to the committee for burial.

After many heated exchanges between members the committee ordered the room cleared of the crowd of spectators and then in executive session finally decided to continue hearings tomorrow. Before the sudden termination of the session Frank d'Ollier, National Commander of the American Legion, and Thomas W. Miller, chairman of the National Legislative Committee, presented briefly an outline of what the organization sought from Congress. Both declared service men were not asking for a bonus, and Miller asserted that 3,000,000 soldiers directly affected were closely watching consideration of the matter of a just compensation.

While the wrangle was in progress several members left the meeting. They had been called to the House, which had convened in the meantime. Miller, his speech unfinished, held the floor, begging for three minutes in which to close, while half a dozen members tried simultaneously to offer a short cut to end the session.

Chairman Foley indicated that at least 300 persons wanted to be heard in support of the various plans suggested to help the soldiers.

Members denied that the wrangle was born of a desire to defeat relief legislation, the opinion being general that some measure would be adopted after all interests had been heard, if it required daily meeting for a month.

D'Ollier, outlining to the comittee the Legion's demands, declared it wanted assistance for former service men in overcoming present "financial disadvantages."

Wants Consistent Treatment.

All the Legion asks, he told the committee, "is as liberal treatment as is consistent with the welfare of the whole country."

"An overwhelming majority of ex-service men feel strongly that this Government owes an obligation to all persons who were handicapped either bodily or financially" the National Commander declared, adding that disabled men wanted relief legislation "to the end that they would no longer be objects of private charity."

Recommendations for legislation were presented as follows:

Land settlements covering farms in all states; aid to encourage purchase of homes; vocational training, and adjustment of compensation based on length of service for those not desiring to avail themselves of the other three features.

"The American Legion," D'Ollier said, "asks nothing in its selfish interests at the expense of the country, but at the same time does not feel that this obligation to ex-service men and women should be altogether passed by at this time and all economizing done at the expense of the ex-service man.

"If legislation is wisely framed covering land settlement, home building, and vocational training, every dollar invested by the Government will bring ultimately great returns to the country by making the ex-service man a better citizen and greater producer."

More than 50 bills relating to bonuses were before the committee when it began hearings on the whole question of soldier relief.

M'ADOO SUGGESTS BRITAIN PAY HER WAR DEBT TO US WITH ISLANDS NEAR U. S.

Former Treasury Secretary Says Such a Transaction Would Tend to Stabilize Foreign Exchange.

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright, 1920.)

WASHINGTON, March 2.—William Gibbs McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury, is in town for a little while, presumably to nurse along his political boom. Having dealt with matters of taxation, it is natural that he should be found discussing ways of reducing taxes, and the most novel suggestion he makes is that the United States shall buy several British colonies, such as the Bermudas, Jamaica, British Honduras, Barbadoes, the Bahamas, Nassau and other islands off the Atlantic coast of this continent.

In payment Mr. McAdoo declares the United States should give Great Britain credit on her war debt to us. This, he believes, will help Great Britain and ourselves, because it will tend to stabilize foreign exchange and mean an earlier settlement of the European debt.

It's hard to estimate what the price of islands is on the market of international barter, but not long ago the United States purchased the Danish West Indies for $25,000,000.

Of course, the British possessions are much more valuable than that. The price might be calculated on the basis of exports and imports, and some of the British possessions are worth a good deal. Jamaica, for instance, has plenty of sugar, though its rum is not particularly useful at this time.

On the whole, the United States could find a billion dollars worth of value in some of these islands without much trouble and get it back in commodities in a short time.

Principle of Self-Determination.

But, weer it not for the principle enunciated by the distinguished father-in-law of Mr. McAdoo, namely the principle of self-determination, it would be easy to get the proposition going, for, it is said that British sentiment is not a bit adverse to discussion of the matter.

What, for instance, would be the opinion of peoples in the Bermudas, Bahamas and so on, about being annexed to "dry" land. Seriously speaking, there has been an annexation movement in some of these British islands for some time. They have wanted to be annexed to the United States for various reasons, mostly commercial advantages growing out of geographical proximity. But the advantages of prohibition have not yet taken hold on the British imagination. Perhaps the islands could be gotten ready for annexation only after some of the Anti-Saloon League's agents had been able to sow the seed which was so effective inside the United States.

McAdoo on His Suggestion.

Mr. McAdoo, however, sees the question purely as to its bearing on financial relations between the British Empire and the United States. Says McAdoo:

"It is highly desirable, both on our own account and that of our allies, that the settlement of our loans to our allies be rendered as quick and as easy as possible.

"Our chief debtor is, of course, Great Britain, and this arises naturally out of the fact that Great Britain has liberally pledged her credit to sustain that of her allies.

"Now, for the past 100 years, Great Britain has held certain islands in and near our shores, Jamaica, the Bahamas, Barbados, Nassau, British Honduras and the Bermudas, off our South Atlantic coast.

"These British possessions, so long held by a friendly maritime Power, do not jeopardize the security of the Atlantic and gulf coast of the United States. With the process of time, we have now become the leading economic Power in the world, and have developed the Panama Canal and a navy and merchant marine which make these islands more than ever important to us.

"Might it not be possible to work out a plan by which England's debt to us could be reduced by the transfer of certain British possessions in the western hemisphere to the extent of their value.

"The British empire at this moment comprises one-sixth of the land area of the whole world, and, according to British economic experts, the surplus capital of the mother country will for many years to come be expended in the development of the agricultural and mineral resources of the great self-governing dominions and of India.

"I imagine that Great Britain would not object to such a disposition of these islands, especially as they would go to a friendly Power. I see nothing in such a proposal to offend the just pride of a great people, whereas such a liquidation of a portion of the British debt might be a happy solution of a part of Great Britain's immediate financial problem."

Problems to Be Considered.

Inquiry among British correspondents in the national capital leads to the conclusion that the matter would not be unfavorably received in Great Britain, were it not for the fact that British policy is for the present, inseparably interwoven with what happens to the league of nations and proposals for naval disarmament.

If the league is dead, and Europe goes back to the old order of things, then the British Government must bear in mind the excellent use which she made of her Atlantic possessions as a rendezvous for the British navy during the last war.

Some valuable naval bases are scattered in the north and south Atlantic which Great Britain would be loath to give up. Yet, if international disarmament is to be put into effect through the league of nations, Great Britain would have as little use for naval stations as she would for more battleships.

And the tendency of American naval men is reflected in the statements just made by Rear-Admiral Badger, and concurred in by other members of the General Naval Board, to the effect that the United States should have "the largest navy in the world."

It is hard to say whether this is a direct consequence of the discouraging fate of the latest efforts at international co-operation or the usual rivalry which naval men feel about other navies.

Anyway, so long as naval expansion continues on both sides of the Atlantic, Mr. McAdoo's suggestion depends for its acceptance by the British on elimination of valuable naval bases, not to mention the opportunity that must be given the residents of the British colonies to say how they feel about keeping their islands entirely surrounded by "wetness" or annexed to "dry" land.

DRESS WARM AND KEEP FEET DRY

Rheumatism is no respecter of age, sex, color or rank. If not the most dangerous of human afflictions it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should eat less meat, dress as warmly as possible, avoid any undue exposure and, above all, drink lots of pure water.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid which is generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which overcomes uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.

COUPLE WITH NO FAITH IN BANKS ROBBED OF $1830

Vuko Fuluria and his wife, of 900 South Vandeventer avenue, kept $1100 of Liberty Bonds and $130 in cash in their home, because banks are robbed sometimes. They talked the matter over with Sam and Kate Janick of 120 St. Louis avenue, St. Louis County, who called on them Feb. 19. Two days later Mrs. Fuluria said, Mrs. Janick invited her to go to Soulard Market. When she returned, three hours later, the bonds and money, with Fuluria's revolver and Mrs. Fuluria's jewelry, which she says was valued at $600, had disappeared.

After inquiry, Janick was arrested and his home was searched. A revolver was found hidden in the attic, and the police say Fuluria has identified the revolver as his, by its number and by private marks. Following this discovery, Mrs. Janick was arrested. She was held by the police today, her husband having been released on $800 bond.

MAN BURNED TO DEATH WHEN LAMP EXPLODES IN HIS ROOM

Henry Venot, 53 years old, a lame man, living with his sister, Mrs. Frank Ray, on a farm near Florisant, Mo., on the Shackleford road, was fatally burned this morning when a lamp in his bedroom exploded. Mrs. Ray's mother, who was asleep in an adjoining room, heard the explosion and called to her daughter, who was outside the house.

Mrs. Ray ran to the room and found Venot's clothing in flames and the carpet covered with burning oil. She attempted to extinguish the blaze by rolling him on the floor, but he was so seriously burned that he died before a physician arrived.

HOSPITAL DEFENSE SUSTAINED

I. W. W. ON TRIAL TESTIFY THEY FIRED WHEN HALL WAS RUSHED

Four Appear as Witnesses for Defense; One of Marchers Supports Their Story.

By the Associated Press.

MONTESANO, Wash., March 2.—Four of the 10 Industrial Workers of the World on trial here on a charge of murder in connection with the Armistice day shooting at Centralia, Wash., were called as witnesses for the defense yesterday.

Three of the four declared the shooting, which resulted in the death of four former soldiers and the wounding of others, began after marchers in a parade had started toward the I. W. W. hall.

Similar testimony on this point was given by Dr. Frank J. Bickford, one of the marchers. He said he had passed the hall when he heard a commotion and with others ran toward the hall. He said he had reached the front of the hall when he heard shots, but did not know if these were the first fired.

Bert Bland testified to having shot at the former soldiers from Seminary Hill, about 1200 feet from the hall. He said shots also were fired by Lorene Roberts, another defendant, and Ole Jhanson, who has not been apprehended. He said they began shooting after they had seen men leave the parade and rush toward the hall.

PREMIERS SUDDENLY END NEGOTIATIONS ON ADRIATIC

Move Understood to Be Due to Rumor That Wilson Would Reject Invitation.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—News from London that negotiations between the Premiers of Italy and Jugo-Slavia for a direct settlement of the Adriatic question had come to a sudden end has caused surprise here.

No official explanation has been received, but it is understood that the ending of negotiations resulted from publication in London of a special Washington dispatch saying that President Wilson would reject the invitation of the British and French Premiers that he join them in inviting Italy and Jugo-Slavia to begin negotiations looking to a settlement.

The President's reply to the British and French Premiers is now being prepared, but there has been no intimation as to what it will be. In view of his previous statement to the Premiers, however, that he would accept any settlement made by Italy and Jugo-Slavia which did not sacrifice the interests of the nationals of a third Power, some officials expect that he will accept the Premiers' invitation.

Bill for Popular Ratification.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Decision as to the ratification of constitutional amendments would be by the voters of a state instead of the Legislatures, under a resolution introduced today by Representative Johnson, Democrat, New York. The resolution also proposes submission of constitutional amendments by two-thirds of the State Legislatures, as well as by Congress.

$250,000 MADE BY WOMAN IN 5 YEARS IN REAL ESTATE

Speculation by Mrs. Eliza Clymer, Who Died Last Month, Told of by Dealer Who Was Her Agent.

OWNED PART OF SITE OF MERCANTILE TRUST

At least half of the estate left by Mrs. Eliza W. Clymer, estimated at about $500,000, consisted of profits which she made, herself, speculating in real estate, it was related yesterday by Henry L. Cornet, a real estate dealer who was her agent. In a period of about five years, he said, she made deals which subsequently netted the estate more than $250,000.

Mrs. Clymer died last month in Mississippi, at the age of 74 years. Her will, filed at Clayton Feb. 25, left the bulk of her property to her nephew, Dana von Schrader, son of George M. von Schrader of Bridgeton, St. Louis County. Other relatives are dissatisfied with the terms of the will, but have not decided whether to contest it.

Speculated in Real Estate.

Mrs. Clymer was a member of the Von Schrader family of St. Louis County, and her first husband was James Clemens, a descendant of the Mullanphy family. He bequeathed to her property valued at about $250,000, Cornet said. After his death she married Heister Clymer, previously a Congressman from Pennsylvania. He lived only a few years, dying about 1890.

Cornet related how, some time later, Mrs. Clymer went to his office and announced that she "wanted to speculate."

"I told her," said Cornet, "that real estate speculation was risky, that she had enough to live on, and that she'd better be content with it, instead of taking a chance on losing it. She retorted that that was her business, that she wanted to speculate, and she was going to speculate.

Made $250,000 in 5 Years.

"Well, she had the right hunch. Everything I bought for her turned to money. In five years—from about 1890 to 1895—she made purchases which either then or later netted her a quarter of a million."

One of these purchases was a lot with a frontage of 120 feet on Eighth street and 127 on St. Charles street, a portion of the present site of the Mercantile Trust Co. She paid $150,000 for it. It now is valued at more than $300,000, and is the largest item of her estate. It is under a long lease to the trust company.

Also, during that period, she bought 69 acres on the Clayton road, about four miles west of Forest Park, adjoining the Von Schrader farm. She paid $20,000 for the tract, Cornet said, and sold it in 1917 to the Log Cabin Club for $70,000.

Tells of Big Profits.

She bought 75 feet at Nineteenth and Pine street for $6500, and sold it later for $30,000. The property at 1008-10 Pine street, she bought for $18,000, and later sold it for $35,000.

"Like all easy winners, she got a lot of confidence in herself," and Cornet chuckled at the memory. "She decided to make some deals on her own hook. She lost about $25,000 on the first deal, and $10,000 on the next one, and then she decided to quit. However, she quit away ahead of the game."

She speculated none during the last 25 years, he said, but lived in expensive style, made many large gifts, and sold a considerable amount of her property to supplement her income, Cornet said. At one time, her estate was worth considerably more than at the time of her death, he said.

Brother "Shocked" by Will.

Otto von Schrader of Washington, D. C., a brother, was at the Racquet Club yesterday. He said that the will of his sister, leaving nearly all her estate to her nephew, was "quite a shock," but said no decision had been made as to whether a contest would be filed.

One item in the estate is a share in the old Von Schrader farm. Mrs. Olivia von Schrader, mother of Mrs. Clymer, is said to have acquired this tract, consisting of 446 acres, through a foreclosure, for between $20,000 and $30,000. It is now estimated to be worth considerably more than $200,000.

The old house on it still is occupied by Miss Eloise von Schrader, sister of Otto and Mrs. Clymer. He said yesterday that the building is one of the oldest in St. Louis County, being about 75 years old. An old couple lives with Miss von Schrader.

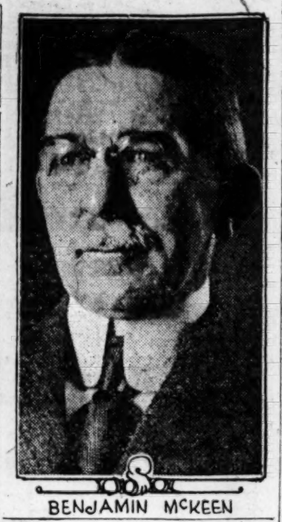

Other Surviving Relatives.

Her life was an unusual one.—In 1914, she filed suit against her mother's estate for $4441, for services as housekeeper, companion and nurse to her mother. Her mother had died a few months previously, at the age of 93. Miss von Schrader, who now is 75 years old, alleged that she had denied herself the social privileges and pleasures that she might have had if she had not remained constantly with her mother.

Although the von Schrader farm was partitioned in 1917 between the heirs, none of the portions has ever been sold. Surviving Mrs. Clymer, in addition to her brothers Otto and George and her sister, Miss Eloise von Schrader, is another sister, Mrs. Julia Hodgson.

Equipment Shortage Seen by McKeen as Chief Rail Problem Now to Be Solved

BENJAMIN McKEEN

Most of the St. Louis railroad executives, since yesterday morning, have been giving the command "As you were!" One of them, however, has the task of advancing his force and occupying new ground. This is Benjamin McKeen, regional vice president of the Pennsylvania System, who is directing the formation of the large new St. Louis organization of the Pennsylvania.

While workmen were moving office furniture from the thirteenth floor of the Syndicate Trust Building to the enlarged quarters on the tenth and eleventh floors, yesterday afternoon, Vice President McKeen talked to a Post-Dispatch reporter of the Pennsylvania's new relation to St. Louis business, and of the railroad situation in general, as he views it.

Expert on Terminals.

McKeen was here for 11 years as general manager of the Vandalia line, when it was a semi-independent line connecting with the Pennsylvania system at Indianapolis. During his stay here, which ended in 1913, he became known as the father of the 24-hour train service to New York, and as an expert in terminal problems.

"The Pennsylvania is bringing a big organization to St. Louis," McKeen said. "It does not mean merely that the company will have more employes here, but that our buying for this region will be done here. That is, all the buying except such supplies as cars, locomotives and rails, which are bought for the entire system.

"This region, under the new plan, is to be operated as an autonomous railroad line, just as far as possible.

"The public will naturally look for improvements in the service, and it is our business to improve the service, just as far as we can do it by increasing the effectiveness of the supervision. Lack of equipment is the big handicap. Since the roads have been under Government control, freight car renewals have not been kept up. Freight car equipment has become short, and if there have been any new passenger cars, I haven't seen them. That is not the Government's fault, very likely. It had to get along the best it could in wartime. But it has created a condition that it will take the railroads some time to remedy.

Finances Big Problem.

"New cars, rails and locomotives are not bought from current earnings as a rule. They are bought by the sale of securities, and if railroad securities can't be marketed in competition with industrial securities, then the railroads don't get the money, and the service does not get built up.

"The new railroad legislation does not change this problem. It does not guarantee the railroads 5½ per cent, or any other return. They must make their own improvements, and finance them. They can do this if the Interstate Commerce Commission will grant the rates that will bring the security-holders a return on their money.

"If railroad securities cannot be made salable, the money of investors will keep on going into industrial stocks. When industry outruns transportation, industry has to stop and wait for transportation to catch up. In Pittsburg now, there is a big accumulation of industrial products that cannot be moved for lack of cars. That shows that transportation is a national business problem."

Defends "Bridge Arbitrary."

McKeen expects to renew his acquaintance with St. Louis terminal problems. He said he hoped a use might be found for the Free Bridge, and he held that the use of the term "bridge arbitrary" should be abandoned. The so-called arbitrary, he declares, is a legitimate service charge, and has been recognized as such by the official bodies that have investigated it. He was chairman of the railroad committee which negotiated, during the Wells administration, with the city government and the Chamber of Commerce, as to terminal matters.

McKeen plans to make his home in St. Louis when, or if, he can find a place to live. He is 56 years old, is from Terre Haute, Ind., and has worked for the Pennsylvania and its affiliated lines since he began with the old Terre Haute & Indianapolis as a draftsman.

FOUR FINED $10 EACH FOR SELLING MILK LOW IN SOLIDS

Grocer and Three Distributors Arrested in November and December —Fines Stayed by Judge Ittner.

A grocer and three milk distributors were fined $10 each in Police Court today on charges of dealing in milk low in solid content, following arrests made in November and December at the instance of municipal inspectors. The fines were stayed by Judge Ittner on payment of costs, amounting to $3.

C. J. Voss, who owns a grocery at 1207 Chouteau avenue, was fined for dealing in milk having but 8.96 per cent solid content, whereas the legal minimum is 9.25 per cent. His wife, who conducts the store, was arrested Nov. 14, but he appeared in court.

The distributors were charged with handling milk below the legal minimum of 3 per cent butter fat content. They were Herman Dulle, 3440 De Kalb street, arrested Nov. 10; milk tested 2.87 per cent; Joseph Schottel, 2838 Nebraska avenue, arrested Nov. 7; milk tested 2.71 per cent, and Joseph Waser, 3959 California avenue, arrested Dec. 4; milk tested 2.54 per cent.

POLICEMAN KNOCKS BOTTLE OF POISON FROM WOMAN'S LIPS

A woman, who said she was Mrs. Grace Fleming, 28 years old, staying at the American Hotel, tried to swallow poison last night on the front porch of the home of Arthur M. Fleming, 4135 De Tonty street, salesman for an automobile tire company. The bottle was knocked from her hand by a policeman who had been summoned to the house by telephone, and the woman was taken to the city hospital in Fleming's automobile.

Physicians said she was suffering from hysteria. Fleming denied that she was his wife. He said she was Grace Alice Winn of Corder, Mo.

At the hospital the woman said she went to the Fleming home to talk with Fleming, and when she was denied admission she called upon a policeman to help her to get into the house, but he told her that he had no authority to act in such a case. She then tried to drink poison.

PALMER ENTERS RACE FOR THE PRESIDENCY

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Attorney-General Palmer has declared himself as a Democratic presidential candidate, leading the list of aspirants for the Democratic nomination in formally coming out in the open.

In a telegram to Hiram L. Gardner, secretary of the Georgia State Democratic Committee, Palmer declared that "if the Democrats of Georgia see fit to select me as their choice I shall receive the honor with deep appreciation." Holding it to be highly important that an opportunity be given in the primary "to directly pass upon the record made by the present administration."

Palmer's announcement, it was believed, will open the way for other Democrats to announce their candidacies. Although the Republican campaign has been on for sometime, Palmer is the first Democrat to declare himself.

Other candidates who have been mentioned as a possible choice at the San Francisco convention include William G. McAdoo, William J. Bryan, Gov. Cox of Ohio, James W. Gerard, former Ambassador to Germany; Herbert Hoover, Gov. Edwards of New Jersey; Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma, and Representative Champ Clark of Missouri.

HARDWARE STORES TO RETAIL GOODS DIRECT FROM FACTORY

Chain to Be Established Throughout Country by Recent Purchaser of Winchester Arms Holdings.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 2.—Plans for a chain of retail hardware stores, with the purpose of selling direct from factory to consumer, were described today by Louis K. Liggett, who has acquired the largest individual interest in the Winchester Arms Co. of New Haven, Conn.

The first of many "Winchester" stores that are contemplated in cities with more than 50,000 population will be opened in Providence, R. I., about March 20. It is the purpose of the company to open stores as fast as locations can be obtained and the stores stocked, Liggett said. It will be the aim of the stores, he declared, to reduce the cost to the consumer by modern merchandising and factory-to-consumer methods.

ALLIES AGREE ON PLANS FOR NEW ECONOMIC PACT

Scheme Includes Joint Buying, Distribution According to Necessities and Fixing of Prices.

EXCHANGE SITUATION ALSO IS DISCUSSED

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, March 2.—Joint buying, distribution according to necessities and supervision of selling prices were provided for in a tentative plan agreed to at London yesterday by the economic section of the Supreme Allied Council, says the Petit Parisien, which today prints an outline of the program. The plant must be submitted to Premier Millerand before becoming effective.

"In the debate which developed during the meeting as to where the needed materials might be found," the newspaper says, "the exchange situation between Europe and the United States was considered as hindering purchases and Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain urged exchanges with Russia, particularly for wheat.

"There was, therefore, only a step to be taken toward making a direct agreement with the Soviet Government for exchanges which were previously arranged for with the Russian co-operative societies, which form in reality only an administrative organ. This step has been taken."

To Develop Production.

All allied countries will be called upon to develop to the utmost their productive forces and advised that laws improving the condition of workers must be applied to that end in a manifesto prepared by the economic section of the Supreme Allied Council yesterday, says "Pertinax," political editor of the Echo de Paris.

"With this object in view," he writes, "the different Governments will be told they must support each other to the utmost. A return to the community system created during the war and light-heartedly destroyed after the armistice cannot be thought of now, but the manifesto will declare the following principles should be recognized:

"In every country the problem of production is not only national but international and, both as regards the distribution and transport of raw materials, it must be admitted each state must seek not only its own interests, but must accept sacrifices in the interest of the general welfare.

Small Countries Warned.

"The necessity for greatest economy in the manufacture of war material is apparent, in connection with which a solemn warning will be addressed to small Central European states which show signs of asking support by arms of their particular claims. If necessary certain steps will be taken against them.

"Europe must form a genuine economic unity and to return to healthy conditions all parts of it must be reconstituted. Measures, then, must be taken to enable Germany and Russia to contribute to the economic life of the European entity."

51 ARRESTS OF AUTO DRIVERS WITHOUT LICENSES IN COUNTY

Those Who Plead Guilty Fined $7.60 —Three Speeders Picked Up in Round-Up.

Fifty-one automobilists were arrested in Central Township, St. Louis County, yesterday, by deputy constables for failure to provide their cars with 1920 licenses. The courts of Justices of the Peace Ladd of University City and Stecker and Werremeyer of Clayton were filled this morning as a result.

Fines of $7.60 were being assessed in cases in which pleas of guilty were entered. Motorists advanced excuses of all kinds, the majority pleading illness.

Three speeders, among them Martin Bopp of Ballwin, a cousin of Sheriff Bopp, were picked up in the roundup. Bopp was arrested at 2:30 p. m. on the Manchester road, near the Kirkwood-Clayton tracks, and was driving at the rate of 35 to 40 miles an hour, the constable said. He told the constable that he was the sheriff's cousin, but the excuse failed to work. He will be tried.

SUES FOR BARREL OF WHISKY

G. J. Ghio Brings Action Against Revenue Collector Moore.

George J. Ghio, president of the Ghio Cigar Co., 5035 Delmar boulevard, filed suit in the United States District Court this afternoon to compel George H. Moore, Collector of Internal Revenue, to deliver to him a barrel of whisky held in the Government bonded warehouse at Boyle and Duncan avenues.

Ghio, in his petition, filed by his attorneys, former Gov. Major and Glendy B. Arnold, says he purchased the warehouse receipt for the barrel of whisky last Saturday and that he wants to remove the whisky to his home for the use of himself, his family and bona fide guests.

BUSCH DEMANDS RETRACTION IN TRUNK SEIZURE CASE

St. Louisan Retains Lawyers in Dallas, Tex., to See the Matter Through.

Adolphus Busch III has sent a telegram to F. M. Spencer, Department of Justice agent at Dallas, Tex., demanding a retraction of Spencer's charge that Busch was the owner of a trunk in which whisky is said to have been found by Federal prohibition enforcement officers. Busch says he and Mrs. Brusch took three trunks with them to Dallas, that none of the trunks contained liquor, and that they have now brought the three trunks home with them. Two of these trunks were examined by the enforcement officers, who found only clothing in them.

The fourth trunk, which has been mentioned by Spencer with the intimation that it also belonged to Busch, is disclaimed by Busch, who says it is not his, and that he knows nothing about it. His telegram to Spencer says he has retained lawyers in Dallas to see the matter through.

FLEEING YOUTH SHOT IN THIGH BY A SPECIAL POLICEMAN

Says He Ran When Plain Clothes Men Approached After Being Told Previously to Move On.

Fred Elliot, 16 years old, of 1302 North Market street, was shot in the left thigh at 10:30 o'clock last night by Special Policeman Cooke of the North Market Street Station. He is at the City Hospital.

Cooke and Special Policeman Kincer reported they saw Elliot and three other young men run out of the former saloon of James Kiely, 1401 Monroe street, now open for the sale of soft drinks. The policemen chased them. Those pursued by Kincer got away. Cooke arrested Eugene Moreland, 16, of 2921 North Broadway, and commanded Elliot to halt. When Elliot continued to run Cooke fired. In his report he said he fired toward the sidewalk, but he heard a cry and found Elliot leaning against a fence with a wound in his thigh.

After the shooting policemen went to Kiely's place and were told there had been no trouble there and it was not known why the young men had run.

Cooke reported that when he asked Elliot and Moreland why they ran they replied they did not know.

Elliot at the city hospital today denied he and his companions had been in the former saloon. He said they had been to a moving picture show and were standing on a corner when two policemen ordered them to move on. They went to Fourteenth and Monroe streets, he said, and when they saw other policemen approaching they ran.

ELUDES MOB AND SAVES NEGRO

Oklahoma Sheriff Has Man Sentenced for Attack on Teacher.

By the Associated Press.

WEWOKA, Okla., March 2.—Eluding what appeared to be a lynching party, Sheriff H. L. Brown of Chandler, Ok., and his prisoner, "Cap" Davis, a negro sentenced to 45 years in the State penitentiary yesterday for an alleged attack on a Chandler school teacher, are today headed for McAlester and excitement has entirely subsided.

CHANDLER, Okla., March 2.—The negro taken from Shawnee last night by a mob, which was looking for Sheriff H. L. Brown of this city and his prisoner, "Cap" Davis, negro convicted of assault on a young school teacher here, is safe in the Chandler jail today, where he will be kept until he can be taken to McAlester in safety.

IRISH CELEBRATION THURSDAY

Pastor Just Back From Ireland Will Speak at Emmet Observance.

The anniversary of the birth of Robert Emmet, Irish patriot, will be celebrated by the Friends of Irish Freedom of St. Louis at 8:15 Thursday evening at St. Mark's Hall, Academy avenue and Page boulevard.

The Rev. Joseph English, recently returned from a visit to Ireland, will give the commemorative address. Dr. Robert Emmet Kane will preside. Other speakers will be the Rev. P. J. O'Rourke and C. J. Dolan.

Waiter Buys Third Share in Hotel With His Tips

Tips received by Louis Bock, head waiter at Hotel Jefferson, in his nine years' service in the hotel's dining room and in the 20 years spent by him as a waiter in Hotels in Chicago, New York, Philadelphia and Boston have largely enabled him to acquire a one-third interest in a $100,000 company, which yesterday took over the management of the Washington Hotel, King's highway and Washington boulevard.

Bock receives a salary from the hotel and part of these earnings are included in the savings invested by him in the hotel enterprise. The greater part of his savings, however, consisted of tips received from guests.

He will become the manager of the Washington as soon as a successor can be found for his position at the Jefferson. His interest in the new concern, he said, represents a cash investment in excess of $10,000, virtually all of which was saved from tips.

Associated with him in the Washington Hotel deal are David D. and Harry L. Israel, proprietors of several small hotels here. A 25-year lease on the hotel at an annual rental of $30,000 has been negotiated and the $75,000 capital stock of the Boulevard Hotel Co., the former operating concern, has been acquired. Bock and his partners contemplate the expenditure of $50,000 in refurnishing and redecorating the hotel.

Discussing his investment, Bock said that part of his savings were the voluntary gifts of those whom he served and did not represent that which he termed the "graft" exacted from hotel guests in the East and elsewhere.

No "Graft" From Tables.

"In the East," he said, "it is customary for guests at the larger hotel affairs to pay from $5 to $10 for a table. Out here it is different. Such a graft won't do, and a $5 or $10 tip is the exception and not the rule. The only graft I ever found here was practiced by a head waiter at the Jefferson in 1914. He made each of the waiters give him a part of their tips. When I got the position I stopped that practice and since then the waiters keep whatever they receive.

"Guests who desired reservations at the Jefferson or special services of any kind only had to inform me and I tried my best to accommodate them. If they gave anything to me it was given voluntarily."

Bock is 41 years old and is a native of Hungary. He obtained his first job when 12 years old at the Russell Square Hotel, London, where he worked as a "piccolo," a position similar to that of bus boy. He was 18 years old when he reached the United States and since that time has worked as waiter and assistant head waiter in several cafes.

Block said that it is planned to introduce dinner dances and other entertainments at the Washington next winter.

GIRL ADMITS MISTAKE IN IDENTIFYING MAN AS ROBBER

Prisoner Under Five-Year Sentence for Hannibal Ice Co. Holdup Wants Verdict Set Aside.

Miss Cecelia Massinghof of 1919A Bremen avenue, admitted in the Circuit Court today that she was mistaken when she identified William Crowe as one of three men who held her up in the office of the Hannibal Ice and Fuel Co., Grand avenue and Hebert street. Crowe was convicted on the strength of her identification of him Dec. 5 last, and was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary.

Joseph Henry, 1813 North Tenth street, arrested last January in connection with a series of holdups and the shooting of Police Chief O'Brien when the latter was chasing highwaymen at Compton avenue and Olive street, made affidavit Jan. 15, as has been told, that he was one of the men who held up the office of the Hannibal company and that Miss Massinghof evidently had mistaken Crowe for him, as they bore a striking resemblance to each other.

Crowe, who had not yet been transferred to the penitentiary, was detained in jail until the matter could be investigated. Today there was a hearing on Henry's affidavit and Miss Massinghof, under oath, said that Henry looked more like one of the robbers than did Crowe. Judge Garesche took the case under advisement. Crowe has asked that the verdict in his case be set aside.

BANK SUES FOR MONEY FOUND

Begins Attachment Proceedings to Get Cash Kellner Carried.

The Harris Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago filed an attachment suit in the Circuit Court oday to obtain possession of the money found in possession of Max Kellner, who was arrested here last week and confessed that he stole $38,000 in Liberty Bonds from the bank.

At the time of Kellner's arrest the police seized four $1000 bills, which they found in his trunk. They also found money in the possession of George Laskowitz, arrested with Kellner. The petition asks that the money found on Laskowitz also be attached and that garnishment papers be served on the St. Louis police and the Night and Day Bank, where the money is said to have been deposited by the police.

TURKEY TO HAVE NO NAVY, DECISION OF ALLIED COUNCIL

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 2.—The Supreme Council of the allies today decided that Turkey shall have no navy. Only a few revenue cutters will be left to her.

Although the council is silent as to just what areas will be allotted to Turkey, it is understood that the subtractions to be made from her territory will decrease her population from 30,000,000 to 6,000,000. This will necessitate an entire readjustment of Turkey's debt. The disposition of the Turkish fleet has not as yet been decided.

SIR AUCKLAND GEDDES TO COME TO U. S. IN A MONTH

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 2.—The appointment of Sir Auckland Geddes as British Ambassador to the United States was officially announced yesterday. The Ambassador will leave London for America in about a month. He will be the guest of honor of the Pilgrims and other societies before his departure.

The high cost of living at Washington has been an obstacle to finding a suitable man willing to take the Ambassadorship at the salary allowances of the post. These will be considerably increased in the present instance, according to reports in diplomatic circles.

The Daily News declares in an editorial that the appointment of Sir Auckland is "one of the worst appointments ever made, even by the present Prime Minister."

HORTHY'S SALARY $600,000

New Hungarian Regent Greeted As Savior of Country.

By the Associated Press.

BUDAPEST March 2.—Admiral Horthy's salary as Regent of Hungary has been fixed at 3,000,000 kronen (normally $600,000), a year. After his election the National Assembly sent a deputation to escort him to the chamber, where he took the oath and was presented with a draft of the law creating his office. Addresses which eulogized him as having saved the nation from ruin were delivered.

Enthusiastic crowds lined the flagdraped line of march by which he reached the Parliament Building.

MAY ANNUL MARRIAGE OF CHINESE WIFE, 11

NEW YORK, March 2.—Anne Lee Wong, an 11-year-old Chinese-American girl, whose marriage to a Chinese four times her age was told in dispatches from Binghamton, N. Y., yesterday, is assured of a happy future, despite her tragic past.

This assurance was given last night by Dr. John R. Henry, director of the East Side parish of the Methodist Episcopal Church of All Nations, 8 Second avenue, which is taking care of the child.

Dr. Henry confirmed the reports from Binghamton of the sale of the girl for $700 by her supposed mother, Mrs. Marie Chin Wore, a white woman, to David Lee Wong, proprietor of a chop suey house in Binghamton, and also announced for the first time that friends of the girl have begun proceedings to have the marriage annulled. Testimony has been taken in Brooklyn, he said, and the case will proceed in Binghamton.

Girl Is Beautiful.

A reporter was informed yesterday by persons who have seen the child that she is a remarkably beautiful girl, rather large for her age, with big black eyes, black hair and a wonderful olive complexion. She speaks good English.

The child, born in New York's Chinatown, was taken to Binghamton last year and a City Judge refused to perform the marriage last fall, but the Rev. T. Valentine Parker, Baptist minister, acted when told the girl was 16 and about to become a mother.

According to the Binghamton police, Mrs. Wore, who has been held for the grand jury in $2000 bail for abduction, pleads she was forced to sell by a secret Chinese organization which held her in its power. She admits using opium and tells a story of international drug traffic, naming David Lee Wong as a leader in a band of opium smugglers.

Mrs. Wore is extremely good looking, and well dressed. She is of English and Greek descent and says she "fell in with the Chinese" in London.

Is Found in Station.

Sometime after the marriage the girl fled to this city. A representative of the Travelers' Aid Society found her wandering in the Lackawanna Station at Hoboken the night of Dec. 30. She was kept at the society's headquarters two days, but was allowed to go home with her "mother," as she had not told of her sale and marriage.

The Rev. Dr. Henry said last night:

"A terrible outrage was perpetrated upon that lovely little girl. The marriage never would have taken place had not false representations been made to the pastor.

"The girl's maiden name is Anna Michaelson and she is supposed to have been the daughter of a Mr. and Mrs. Morris Michaelson, to have been taken to the New York Foundling Hospital just after her birth and to have been adopted by the woman in this case a few days later.

"Although she is now known as Mrs. Wore, there is evidence that she may have been known as Mrs. Morris Michaelson previously. She and the girl certainly have a marked resemblance.

"The woman used to tell the child she had picked her up out of an ash can, and Anna lived a life of terror. We sent Anna to a public school, and as she is naturally very bright and had received some education, she went right into the fourth grade. After we have the marriage annulled we will continue to provide for her as we have done with many Chinese girls."

Dismissal of Des Peres Suits Upheld.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 2.—The action of the Circuit Court of St. Louis in dismissing the suit of W. R. Benson and 27 other plaintiffs against the city of St. Louis for damages when their property was overflowed by the River Des Peres was upheld by the Supreme Court today

COMMERCIAL SOCIETY TO COMBAT RADICALISM

The Commercial Federation of America was formed yesterday at Hotel Statler by the 60 delegates from Mississippi Valley States called into conference with 10 representatives of the Commercial Federation of California. The new organization has been formed with the announced intention of protecting capital against Bolshevism and the radical tendencies of the times. Several speakers at the meeting yesterday denounced the American Federation of Labor.

Dr. C. A. Loveland of Topeka, Kan., said in a speech today that Ludwig Martens, the "Soviet Ambassador" to this country, had told him that there would be a revolution in this country within two years, and Dr. Loveland said that if revolution did come it would be the result of permitting labor to organize and bargain collectively.

A resolution was passed today stating that "we recommend the formation of a national organization to meet the compelling political and economic demands of the country." The Michigan delegation fought against entering the political field, but was voted down.

Organization Committee.

Frank C. Moss of Kansas City was appointed chairman of the Organization Committee, of which the following others are members, George D. Vosburg, Denver; H. M. Haldeman, Los Angeles; D. M. Salisbury, Memphis, Tenn.; J. P. Byrd, Tulsa, Okla.; Roy L. Thompson, Little Rock, Ark.; R. W. Budd, Okmulgee, Okla.; Alvin Johnson, Omaha; Thor Teigen, Sioux Falls, S. D.; Norman B. Black, Fargo, N. D.; E. R. Meade, Detroit, and George P. Greenhaigh, Toledo. This committee went into executive session last night and was to make its report today.

Many of the speakers yesterday denounced the Clayton act, which exempts labor unions and farmers from the provisions of the Sherman Anti-Trust act. One of the speakers said that 270 of the 422 members of Congress "had an income of less than $3000 yearly before being elected to Congress."

"Lawmakers Not Business Men."

George W. Cartwright, editor of "The Commonwealth" of Los Angeles, said that if it were true one per cent of the people controlled 99 per cent of the wealth, then "it is because God in his infinite wisdom has given to this one per cent the genius to make and save money. I am not a Captain of Industry, but I would like to be. I paid $12 for this pair of shoes I am wearing; six years ago I paid only $3.50 for the same sort of shoes. But I do not blame the shoe manufacturers or retailers. Let them charge it and I will grin and bear it."

Cartwright took the position that the class of lawmakers had degenerated and that instead of being sound business men, as he said they were 20 or more years ago, present-day Congressmen were mountebanks, demagogues and professional politicians. He denounced business men for failure to take an active interest in the Government affairs and said that if the country was to be saved from radicalism, business men must sacrifice a bit of time and become actively interested in politics.

"Bolshevism Upon Us."

"The Government of the United States is on trial for its life," said he." Whether it survives is up to you men. The wave of Bolshevism is already upon us. They are sowing here the seeds of anarchy which will blossom into the fruits of treason. You people believe there are too few of the radicals to cause any real trouble. Lenine admits that there were less than 200,000 of the proletariat, and yet that number seized control of the Government over there and placed 180,000,000 people in submission to them. In the United States today there are 3,000,000 members of labor unions. I tell you we are sitting on a volcano."

Repeated statements were made that unless something was done to curb the American Federation of Labor that organization would control the next Congress and perhaps elect the next President.

MISSING WOMAN FOUND WITH BASKET CONTAINING $4972

Certificates of Deposit and Liberty Bonds Among Papers; She Is Taken to Hospital.

A market basket carried by Mrs. Anna Herod, 50 years old, of 1319½ South Eighth street, who was reported missing from her home, Sunday, and who was found last night by policemen at Broadway and Park avenue, contained certificates of deposit in the Lafayette South Side Bank, War Savings Stamps, Liberty Bonds to the amount of $4,905.80 and $66.78 in cash. Besides these papers policemen found 11 insurance papers and citizenship papers.

Mrs. Herod was taken to the city hospital.

U. S. AGENTS ARREST BEGGARS

Begin Campaign to Enforce Law Regulating Wearing of Uniforms.

Three beggars were arrested on lower Market street this afternoon by operatives of the Department of Justice who have begun a campaign to enforce the law regulating the wearing of military uniforms or any part thereof. They wore military overcoats, which had not been dyed and from which the brass buttons had not been removed.

They were ordered held for the United States District Attorney. Violation of the law is punishable by a fine of $300 or six months' imprisonment or both.

BURGLAR FLEES WHEN WOMAN ASKS HIM HIS BUSINESS

Mrs. Carl Kerchived, 5045A Wells avenue, was alone in her home at 4 p. m. yesterday when repeated rings at the front door bell caused her to go to the head of the stairs and watch the door. A man about 30 years old was ringing the bell and when he got no response he fitted several keys into the lock until he found one that opened the door. Then he tiptoed upstairs. When he was near the top of the stairs Mrs. Kerchived stepped out and demanded to know his business.

"Oh," he exclaimed in surprise, and turning, fled down the steps, two at a time and out the door.

Burglars at the home of Mrs. Lillian Koessel, 3944 South Compton avenue, stole articles valued at $207. Other burglaries were in the homes of Fred S. Went, 3223 South Dakota street, and Robert Murray, 4370 Delor street, where jewelry valued at $300 was taken.

CHAS. GARVICE, NOVELIST, DIES

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 2.—Charles Garvice, novelist, dramatist and journalist, died last night.

Charles Garvice was one of the English novelists whose books are read on this side of the Atlantic. He was a prolific writer and devoted his abilities largely to depicting affairs of the heart. His position among English writers was similar to that of Harold Bell Wright among American authors. "Just a Girl," was published in 1899 and was followed by "Her Heart's Desire," "The Outcast of the Family," "In Cupid's Chains," "Love Divides," "Love, the Tyrant," "A Girl of Spirit," "Diana and Destiny," and many others of a similar strain. Among his plays were "The Fisherman's Daughter" and "A Life's Mistake."

STATE INCOME TAX ON NON-RESIDENTS HELD TO BE LEGAL

Supreme Court Upholds 1915 Income Tax Law of Oklahoma in Suit Brought by Chicago Man.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Right of the states to impose income taxes on nonresidents provided they are in harmony with those imposed on residents was upheld and defined yesterday by the Supreme Court in two decisions.

In a case from Oklahoma the Court held that a State unquestionably had authority to levy income taxes against nonresidents on incomes derived from property within the State.

In a New York case, however, the Court declared that such taxes against nonresidents must not be discriminately.

The Oklahoma income tax law was sustained and the New York law was declared void in so far as it denies to nonresidents exemptions which are given New York citizens. Both opinions were given by Justice Pitney, with Justice McReynolds dissenting in the New York case. In both suits were involved the exemptions, similar to the Federal income tax law, provided for married and single persons.

Discrimination Not Legal.

Distinction between the Oklahoma and New York laws, it appears, was that the Oklahoma law gives nonresidents and citizens the same exemptions, while the New York law denies to nonresidents exemptions granted its own citizens.

In the Oklahoma proceedings Charles B. Shaffer of Chicago sued the State Auditor to enjoin collection of income taxes levied on income derived from Oklahoma oil wells. In the other case, Comptroller Travis of New York was enjoined by the Yale & Towne Manufacturing Co., having a plant in Connecticut, from collecting income taxes from its employes without giving them the exemptions given New York citizens under the New York law.

In sustaining the Oklahoma law, the Court said:

"In our system of government the states have general dominion and, saving as restricted by the Federal Constitution, complete dominion over all persons, property and business concerns within their borders. Certainly they are not restricted to property taxation nor to any particular form of excises.

Right to Tax Incomes.

"That the State, from whose laws property and business and industry derive protection and security without which production and occupation would be impossible, is debarred from exacting a share of those gains in the form of income taxes for the support of the Government is a proposition so wholly inconsistent with fundamental principles as to be refuted by mere statement.

"And we deem it clear upon principle as well as authority that just as a state may impose general income taxes upon its own citizens and residents whose persons are subject to its control, it may as a necessary consequence levy a duty of like character upon incomes accruing to nonresidents from their property or business within the State, or their occupations carried on therein; enforcing payment by an exercise of a just control over persons and property within its borders."

Reciting that thousands of Connecticut and New Jersey citizens work in New York in competition New Yorkers and yet the non-residents were called upon under the New York law to pay taxes on exemptions from which New York residents are free, Justice Pitney declared the law to be manifestly unfair.

"In the concrete," he said, "the particular incidence of the discrimination is upon citizens of Connecticut and New Jersey, neither of which has an income tax law, whether they (Connecticut and New Jersey non-residents), must pay a tax upon the first $1000 or $2000 of income, while their (New York), associates do not, makes a substantial difference. We are unable to find ground for the discrimination and are constrained to hold that it is an unwarranted denial to the citizens of Connecticut and New Jersey of the provisions and immunities enjoyed by the citizens of New York."

The suggestion from New York counsel that the adjacent states might levy counter discrimination against New York citizens was dismissed by the court with the declaration that "discrimination cannot be cured by retaliation."

An injunction was granted by the court against the New York Comptroller enjoining enforcement of the New York law as against those denied the New York exemptions.

Why do Children Fret at Night

© Simmons Company, 1920

GROWN-UPS, with their matured nerves, often fail to realize how slight disturbances break a child's rest.

When a healthy child shows a tendency to toss or whimper in its sleep, see if there isn't a slight squeak, rattle or unsteadiness in its crib.

• • •

Thousands of children have been benefited in temper, nerves and health by substituting a sturdy Simmons Crib for the antiquated, noisy sort of crib.

A Simmons Crib is really noiseless. It stands solid and firm—no rattle or sway to disturb the little sleeper.

Its big, easy-rolling casters appeal especially to mothers who know the annoyance of beds that are hard to move.

The Simmons Steel Crib illustrated is a splendid example of how the Simmons principle of Built for Sleep is applied to cribs.

Its parts are fitted as snugly and noiselessly as those of a Simmons Bed.

Drop side, affording easy access and perfect protection against falling.

• • •

Featured by the leading merchants of this section—at prices little if any higher than ordinary merchandise.

And when you are selecting your Simmons Beds with an eye to their appearance in the room, you will see that Simmons has for the first time established beautiful and authoritative design in Metal Beds.

MAN, 81, KILLED IN FALL DOWNSTAIRS AT HOME

John L. Pairo, 81 years old, 3869A Wyoming street, was killed in a fall down a flight of stairs at his home at 2 a. m. today after he had mistaken a door leading to the basement for a door leading to the bathroom of his home. His neck and skull were fractured.

Mrs. Louisa Pairo called the police when she found her husband lying at the foot of the stairway. She said he got up to get a drink and had failed to turn on a light in the hallway. In the darkness he apparently had opened the wrong door, she said. An inquest will be held.

Laborer Found Dead Under His Window on Third Floor.

John Madden, 45 years old, a laborer, living at the Swan House, 803 North Sixth street, was found dead on the sidewalk beneath an open third floor window of his room at 2:30 a. m. today. His skull, both arms and other bones were broken in the fall from the window.

Police, after an investigation, reported Madden either had jumped or fallen from the fire escape at the third floor. Three other men, who occupied the same room with Madden, told the police Madden had retired at 11 p. m., apparently in good spirits, although he had complained of not feeling well for several days. The window was closed when they retired. Madden had been rooming at the place eight months.

"TIGER! TIGER!" TELLS OF LOVE AND CABBAGE

Frances Starr Shows Ability in Difficult Role of Culinary Heroine.

BY CARLOS F. HURD.

AN American playwright, writing for American audiences, has given us the story of the clandestine love affair of a British Member of Parliament and a London cook, which is being presented at the American Theater this week, with Frances Starr in the cook's role. To show the predominance of the motive of animal passion, he has named the play "Tiger! Tiger!"

Why not, it may be asked, an American Member of Congress and a Washington waitress? Because, if these figures were Americans the play would not be acceptable to an American audience. From parquet to gallery would arise the democratic demand:

"If he loves the girl, why doesn't he marry her?"

But by locating the play in a country which recognizes class distinctions, and by flavoring the woman's speech with a trace of cockney, it is supposed to be shown that marriage was out of the question in this instance. This overlooks the fact that England has her "self-governing dominions" where men of political experience from the old country are welcome immigrants, and where marriage lines can bridge social chasms.

London Might Boo a Bit.

So this play, "Cook! Cook!"—no, beg pardon, "Tiger! Tiger!"—thrives in our atmosphere. How it would fare in England is another matter. It is very doubtful whether even Miss Starr's winsome and radiant acting could save the play from an early and earnest booing.

The playwright, Edward Knoblock, makes his M. P., Clive Couper, and the cook, Sally, meet at night in a London square. Soon afterward, in his apartment, he is telling her, "The moment I caught those eyes of yours, I knew that you and I would have to come together. We don't count at all—we two as individuals. It's the tide—the springtide that's carrying us along."

If a husky coster-husband had chanced to turn up just at the moment of the meeting, the spring-tide might not have seemed quite so irresistible to the sentimental statesman. But there is no interfering husband, and Sally keeps on going to Couper's apartment for two years. She does not tell him that she is a cook, and the M. P., relishing a little mystery, does not try to find out her means of livelihood. One thing differentiates this case from the common run of sordid secret attachments. This woman refuses to accept a penny from the man.

The 'Orrible Truth.

One evening, callers surprise them in his apartment, and he hides Sally in the kitchen. This enrages her in a way that he cannot understand, until she announces, "You're right! Absolutely! I belong in the kitchen and nowhere else! A cook! That's what I am. Nothing but a cook. Now you know why I never let you kiss my hands. Pots and pans and grease and slops all day—nothing would make 'em right—no soap, no scent, no nothing!"

Later, cabbage brings matters to a head. She has to cook it, the smell gets into her hair, and she stops at the chemist's and scents her hair with patchouli. This cooks the goose for the fastidious Clive Couper, M. P., and he enlists in the army, after confessing that he has fiddled away at politics for two years to avoid being taken into the service, and with the sole motive of remaining with the woman to whose support he was not contributing. This admission leaves a feeling of contempt which is overcome only by Couper's death at the front.

Sally meanwhile has married a carpenter, a widower with two children. The last scene is her farewell visit to the apartment where she used to meet Couper. A little philosophy, a little poetry and some effective rummaging about end the stage story.

A Study in Effects.

Although the whole case is built on the "tiger" in the man's blood, the dialogue relates that, as a result of his acquaintance with the culinary charmer, his political activity and his popular success are increased. We see him forsake whisky—for champagne. No testimony is given as to the effect of the affair on Sally's work as a cook. Couper's closest friend, trying to persuade him to break with Sally—to fire the cook, as it were—and trying to get her to leave him for his good, says that benefit may have resulted from the relation, but fears that ruin may follow its continuance.

David Belasco, the producer, has compared this play with "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray" and "The Easiest Way," declaring it a better play than either. Certainly Sally does not approach the moral depths that were reached by Paula Tanqueray and the pitiable Laura. On the other hand, the Pinero and Walter plays stuck to the old rule that violations of the moral law have to be paid for. The women paid and paid, at compound interest, and the men did some paying also. Whereas, in "Tiger! Tiger!" no one appears to pay, or to be owing anything at the end. Sally has told her Sam, and it is all right with him, as 'e 'as 'ad a few women come into 'is own life, he admits chivalrously. If anyone pays, it is the woman of Couper's own social station, who would have married him but for the affair with Sally. There is no moral, except perhaps that the "M. P.'s" really did have something to do with winning the war.

Miss Starr, in Sally's dowdy jackets and nine-shilling hats, did a remarkable piece of sustained character work. Her self-conscious behavior in the presence of persons of higher social station, and her alternate displays of affection and of rage in other scenes, were a successful handling of a very difficult role.

Lionel Atwill, an English actor of ascetic appearance, was the opposite of a romantic lover, in the role of the amorous M. P. His demeanor just after the first meeting with Sally, seemed casual, in view of the overpowering experience through which he was supposed to have gone a few minutes before. He was better as a declaimer of his own poetry to the girl, and in the scene at their parting he put all the needed spirit into Couper's caddish speech of denunciation.

Lloyd's Finished Acting.

Frederick Lloyd gave a delightful and finished performance in the part of Couper's friend. Whitford Kane did an excellent bit of work as the carpenter who eventually marries Sally, and Wallace Erskine and Mary Moore were effective as father and daughter. Helen Andrews played a cockney part with fidelity.

A large audience saw the opening performance.

JAZZ TO THE LIMIT JIMMY HUSSEY'S OFFERING

Lydia Barry and Lillian Shaw Also Featured on Bill at the Orpheum.

One of the jazziest acts in vaudeville is "Move On," the offering of Jimmy Hussey and a large company of syncopators and blue note hitters on this week's Orpheum bill. The settings, dialogue and music are all in the jazz key. Hussey is a young comedian with an infectious smile and his fellow players have caught the infection. The turn will please those who are ultra-modern enough to enjoy the shivery style of dance that prevails in some quarters. This dance is made the keynote of the entire act, judgment on the excellence of the efforts being a matter of taste.

Lydia Barry, one of the sure-fire stars of vaudeville comedy, is on the bill with a new budget of songs and stories and Lillian Shaw returns with her funny bridal costume and her still funnier after-marriage makeup.

Others on the bill are the Aerial De Groffs, Blanche and Jimmy Creighton in "Mudtown Vaudeville," Gallagher and Martin in "Sweaters," Will J. Ward and the five symphony girls in ensemble piano playing and a sketch called "Indoor Sports."

The Lights that nobody kicked about

"I SWEAR, Joe, I don't know what to do. This makes the fourth set of lighting fixtures that I've had in this drafting room inside of a year, and each time I make a change at least 20% of you fellows come and tell me that you don't like them and can't work without better light. I've had direct units and indirect units, but there's no pleasing all of you all of the time."

I had been in charge of this large drafting room for three years, and in that time I had never come any nearer to getting a light that suited everyone than the preceding conversation indicates. I was just about to give up in disgust, when one day I was elected to go shopping with my wife, and in one of the stores we visited I was particularly impressed with the illumination. Of course, I had lighting on my mind, so while my wife did the buying I did some investigating. I found that it was neither direct nor indirect, but a combination of both. It looked so good that I determined to try it out without telling a soul.

Saturday afternoon, after everyone had gone, the electrician came armed with a number of large cartons and a few tools. It hardly seemed more than the well-known twinkling of an eye before the new lights were in place.

When it came time to turn on the lights Monday, I casually went over to the switch—click, and waited for results. The room was filled with a soft but brilliant light so perfectly diffused that you were entirely unconscious of its source. In fact no one seemed to realize the transition to artificial light.

The lights had been on for about ten minutes before they were noticed. Then Joe looked up from his work and said, "What's the matter with these old lights, they've taken a brace all of a sudden. This is as good as working by daylight." There was a chorus of assent at this, but I didn't want to say a word until I had given them a thorough test. I didn't say anything until someone looked up and noticed that the lights had been changed; then I stepped into the conversation.

First of all I took a vote to see how many of the men liked the new lights. I nearly dropped in my tracks when I saw that every man in the room voted in the affirmative. Everybody satisfied, all in the same day.

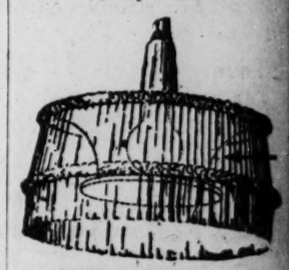

Then I explained the new lighting system to them as the electrician had explained it to me; that it was a unit especially designed to reduce glare and gloom to a minimum, a combination of direct and indirect lighting called Duplexalite, that utilized the efficient and economical Mazda C, distributing the light to all parts of the room, and not allowing a direct ray to reach the eye.

After I had finished my description, the questions began. Could this light be used in the home. I said that it could, and that shades were made in many colors and shapes, or the frames alone could be bought and covered to harmonize with the decorations. Yes, Duplexalites had been used in stores and were very successful; yes, they were equally good for hotels and office buildings, in fact Duplexalite was essential wherever good lighting was needed. No, they were not at all expensive to operate. That room would have been a wonderful place for a Duplexalite salesman that afternoon, for I have never seen so many "sold" in such a short time in all my life.

When the men were all back at work again, I heaved a sigh of relief. For once I had all hands satisfied.

And if you want lighting comfort in the nth degree, you had better do as I did—try Duplexalite.

CLUBS AND AMMONIA OVERCOME SIX IN COLLEGE CLASS RUSH

By the Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Tex., March 2.—At least six students of the University of Texas were overcome by ammonia fumes, while others received bruises from clubs in a class rush here late yesterday.

The sophomores raided a downtown hall where the freshmen had assembled for their annual class ball and used liquid ammonia to force the freshmen from this vantage points. Later when the freshmen attempted to retake the hall by storming the stairway, they were met by streams of ammonia discharged from fire extinguishers and both sides used clubs. Some of the combatants fainted from the effect of the ammonia and one is in the hospital. It was impossible to learn of the seriousness of injuries inflicted as most of the victims were carried away in automobiles as soon as they dropped out of the fight.

Damage to the building was estimated at $1500.

LANE CALLS MEETING ON COMMUNITY SPIRIT

His Last Official Act Is Designed to Develop "Neighborliness" Throughout Nation.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—A call for a national conference on community organization to be held here March 20 was the last official act of Secretary Lane, who retired yesterday as head of the Interior Department.

Promotion of the Democratic organization of communities, which Lane said his long public service had convinced him was one of the things most vitally necessary to the nation's life, will be the object of the gathering. The program will include plans to make Flag day, June 14, also neighbors' day, with community activities in every city and county, and "hello, neighbor," the slogan of the block parties, "sings" and other festivities. Eighteen Governors have indorsed the plan and promised to serve on the National Neighbors' Day Committee.

"It is obvious to many of us," Secretary Lane said, "that the time has come for the launching of a program of community organization. Essentially, the object of such a program is to organize the residents of each community so that they can express themselves and act as a unit, in order to take part in a democratic national life. The chief instruments of the neighborhood organizations would be democratically elected councils, which would develop and carry out a special program.

"Community life, as it existed in the early days of democracy, is now practically dead. Even our sports are no longer community affairs. If a professional baseball team is good, it is because its manager is skillful, not because the people of the community it represents can play a good game of ball.

"This is not because we are less social than of old, but because we have so few channels through which we can bring our neighborly instincts into play. At a time when we need more than ever the spirit of friendship we find our attempts to express it thwarted.

"The assimilation of the foreign born is one of the most important services that community organizations can perform. I believe that Democratic community organization is the best antidote to all kinds of class and factional bitterness. Our people must learn how to come together on the vantage ground of their many common interests—as citizens and as human beings, and on this ground consider their common problems, rather than meeting head on in conflict as separate groups.

RENT INCREASE MOVE HITS DEMOCRATIC CITY COMMITTEE

Enjoined From Calling Ward Meeting, Body Gives Most of Attention to Meeting $10 Advance.

The Democratic City Committee, prohibited by a court injunction from issuing at its meeting yesterday a call for ward meetings to elect delegates to the State convention, had a more important matter to consider. Its rent has been increased and the committee had to decide what to do about it.

Chairman Daley announced to the committee that he had been unable to see any increase in the number or size of contributions to the committee, but that the agents for the Pontiac Building, at Seventh and Market streets, where the committee has headquarters, had served notice that the rent was increased from $35 to $45 a month.

Th committee discussed the matter in detail even to figuring on just how soon campaign year contrbutions could be expected to begin arriving, and finally decided to meet the increase.

The only other business of the meeting was the election of Frank Collins as a committeeman from the Sixteenth Ward, to succeed John R. McCarthy, who resigned several months ago after removing from the ward.

FOUR MEN FORCED TO SCALE FENCE BY TWO HIGHWAYMEN

Two armed men stopped Frank R. Rice, 4376 Maryland avenue, Corney Jackson, 4346 Lindell boulevard and Sylvester and Santo Fiorita, 4396 Lindell boulevard, on Newstead avenue between Maryland and McPherson avenue at 7:45 o'clock last night, and compelled them to walk into an alley east of Newstead avenue.

In the alley they lined the four against a fence and while one kept them covered with a revolver the other searched their clothing. From Rice they took $4, a watch, fountain pen and a silver ring with a setting representing the Croix de Guerre; from Sylvester Fiorita, $8, a watch, and kid gloves; from Santo Fiorita, $76, check for $10, watch and fountain pen and from Jackson, $3, a ring, watch and fountain pen.

After the search the four were ordered to scale a 5-foot fence which ran along the alley in the rear of 4380 McPherson avenue and told to "keep on going" after they got on the other side.

PAPERS SAID TO SHOW NOTHING

By the Associated Press.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., March 2.—Finding of Red literature in a person's home is not proof that the owner is an extremist, Judge James W. McCarthy ruled yesterday during the trial of Henry Petzoldt of Weehawken, indicted under the State Sedition Act.

The Judge said that he had an assortment of political literature in his own house of which he did not approve.

Ends Life on Eve of Journey.

John Brenner Jr., 47 years old, of 4637 Tower Grove place, shot and killed himself yesterday afternoon in the basement of his home. He had been under treatment for several months for nervousness. He had made arrangements yesterday afternoon to go downtown with his wife to purchase railroad tickets for a trip they were to make. With a brother he conducted the John Brenner Plastering Co., 4632 Tower Grove place.

IF Bond Bread is even better than most home-made bread—it is due to your public-spirited committee of judges.
They spent hours in selecting the very best home-made loaves in the Bond Bread Baking Contest.
And those very top-notch loaves were the models for Bond Bread!

Supper time—
is Bond Bread time for him

—A bowl of cool, sweet milk—
—some nicely sliced Bond Bread—
—that's a supper fit for a king!
And he is the King of your house—
The mothers of boys like him—they were the designers of Bond Bread.

In their own kitchens, they baked loaves of home-made bread as models for Bond Bread.
Then our baking experts took the best of these home-made loaves and copied their flavor and goodness into Bond Bread.
That's why mothers insist on Bond Bread for their children.
That's why the children need no urging to make a whole meal of Bond Bread and milk!

RESIDENT OPEN AIR SCHOOL FOR CHILDREN TO START MARCH 18

New Wing of Night and Day Camp Has Accommodations for 25 Children.

The new Resident Open Air School, built by the St. Louis Tuberculosis Society for children whose health requires special care, has been completed as a wing of the Night and Day Camp. It has a capacity of 25 children, with open-air dormitory and school room. The dining room of the camp is used by children of the school. The camp will be seven years old March 18, and the new school will be opened formally on that date.

The Resident Open Air School was the first of its kind established. The children in the school are taken from the day open air schools of St. Louis being specially selected because of failure to respond to the special system in these schools and of their slow gains in health.

One little girl, who holds the school record for gain in weight, acquired 28 pounds in the six months of her residence at the school. Another gained 23 pounds in the same time, and several others have 20 pounds gain to their credit. One child who entered Jan. 20 of this year gained four pounds by Jan. 29, the record gain in the shortest time in the school.

The school is for girls only, and as first opened had a capacity of 15. There has been a waiting list from the beginning, and this induced the Tuberculosis Society to increase the capacity to 25 in the new school.

The Board of Education provides the teacher and school room equipment for this school, and the Tuberculosis Society houses, feeds and cares for the children at an average cost of $2.10 a day for a child.

HOOVER TO SPEAK IN ST. LOUIS

Will Address Chemical Society Convention Next Month.

The American Chemical Society will hold its spring meeting in St. Louis, April 12 to 17, with headquarters at Hotel Statler. Plans for the meeting were announced at a dinner at the University Club last night by Dr. C. E. Caspari of the St. Louis College of Pharmacy, chairman of the local section of the society.

Herbert Hoover will be one of the speakers, it was announced. Others will be Prof. Frank Taussig of the Tariff Commission and Dr. Charles E. Herty, editor of the Journal of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry, who has returned recently from a study of conditions in the chemical industry in Europe.

D. A. R. OBSERVE 25TH ANNIVERSARY

Regents at St. Louis Chapter Luncheon Snuff Out Candles and Make Wishes.

THE St. Louis Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, celebrated its silver anniversary with a luncheon at the Missouri Athletic Association at 1 o'clock this afternoon, with Mrs. W. W. Keyser, regent, presiding. Mrs. Robert L. Lund was chairman of the Hospitality Committee and the hostesses for the occasion, many of whom entertained parties at luncheon, were Mmes. Harden Fitts, J. W. Harris, R. L. Warmack, J. D. Marshall, Milton C. Marshall, John W. Harrison, Ben S. Pearson, W. W. Keyser, A. E. Whitaker, John W. Wood, A. M. Williams, Ben Gray, J. S. Calfee, A. V. L. Brokaw, Clement W. Nelson, A. E. Nixon, Phillip Hale, James H. McCabe, McCune Gill, and Miss Edna Newcomb.

A feature of the occasion was a large birthday cake with 25 candles on it. Mrs. A. L. V. Brokaw was in charge of the cake and the five regents of the chapters, the Laclede, Jefferson, Cornelia Green, Webster Groves and Douglas Oliver, that have been formed in St. Louis since the St. Louis Chapter, were invited to each snuff out a candle and make a birthday wish. Mrs Brokaw made the wish for the St. Louis chapter and then cut the cake.

Mrs. Robert Brookes was toastmistress and an interesting program of music was enjoyed.

Investors who do not worry about "market" conditions

A BREAK in the market—stocks falling in value—bonds being marked down—are you one of the many whose investments are affected by these conditions, or are you among the more fortunate and far-sighted who hold securities that do not fluctuate in value?

Investors in First Mortgage Securities purchased from us under the guarantee of the Mortgage Guarantee Company need not worry over declines in the stock market. They know that under adverse conditions and during critical periods no securities offer the stability and safety of conservative loans on improved, income-producing city real estate.

They know, too, that when these securities are guaranteed that they are fully protected against defaults and foreclosures and are relieved of all care and attention in regard to the investments.

Full information about these investments will be gladly furnished on request.

New Hair Growth After BALDNESS

HAIR GROWN ON MR. BRITTAIN'S BALD HEAD BY INDIANS' MYSTERIOUS HAIR GROWER

My head at the top and back was absolutely bald. The scalp was shiny. An expert said that as he thought the hair roots were extinct, and there was no hope of my ever having a new hair growth.

Yet now, at an age over 66, I have a luxuriant growth of soft, strong, lustrous hair! No trace of baldness. The pictures shown here are from my photographs.

At a time when I had become discouraged at trying various hair lotions, tonics, specialists' treatments, etc., I came across, in my travels, a Cherokee Indian "medicine man" who had an elixir that he asseverated would grow my hair. Although I had but little faith, I gave it a trial. To my amazement a light fuzz soon appeared. It developed, day by day, into a healthy growth, and are long my hair was as profuse as in my youthful days.

That I was astonished and happy to experience my state of mind while, Obviously, the hair roots had not been dead, but were dormant in the scalp, awaiting the fertilizing potency of the mysterious remedy.

I negotiated for and came into possession of the principle for preparing this mysterious elixir, now called Kotalko, and later had the recipe put into practical form by a chemist.

That my own hair growth was permanent has been amply proved. Many men and women, also children, have reported satisfactory results from Kotalko.

How YOU May Grow YOUR Hair

My honest belief is that hair roots rarely die even when the hair falls out through dandruff, fever, excessive dryness or other disorders. I have been told by experts that often when hair falls out the roots become imbedded within the scalp, covered by hard skin, so that they remain for a time like bulbs or seeds in a bottle which will grow when fertilized. Shampoos (which contain alkalis) and hair lotions which contain alcohol are enemies to the hair, as they dry it, making it brittle. Kotalko contains those elements of nature which give new vitality to the scalp and hair.

Mrs. Neill A. McMillan of 6300 Forsythe boulevard was hostess at an informal tea this afternoon in honor of Miss Frances Starr, who is playing here this week in "Tiger, Tiger." About 150 guests were invited, most of whom are women associated with the Board Walk. The first showing of the exclusive models of sport and outing costumes that will be on sale at the Board Walk was given for the actress. Assisting Mrs. McMillan in receiving were Mrs. Samuel T. Davis Jr., Mrs. George Gellhorn and Mrs. James McCluney.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Boyd of "Woodlawn," Kirkwood, returned last evening from Pinehurst, N. C., where they have been since early in the winter. Mr. and Mrs. Boyd entertained last Wednesday evening with a dinner party at the Country Club at Pinehurst.

Among the St. Louisans at Excelsior Springs, are Mrs. Allen T. West of 48 Westmoreland place and Mrs. John H. Holland of 20 North King's highway boulevard. They will return in a fortnight.

Mrs. Nathaniel L. Moffitt of 48 Kingsbury place and her daughter, Miss Olive Moffitt, have departed for Clifton Springs, N. Y., to spend a month.

Mrs. W. B. Dean Jr. of 4736 Westminster place is at Pinehurst, N. C.

Mrs. John C. Wilkinson and her daughter, Miss Dorothy Wilkinson of Kirkwood, sailed last Friday for France to join John C. Wilkinson Jr., who is doing post war work there. They will probably remain for six months.

Mrs. Robert Burkham of 5035 Westminster place has departed for Florida to spend several weeks.

Dr. and Mrs. Frank Henderson have sold their home on Walton avenue and have departed for Boston, where they will reside. Mr. Henderson's mother, Mrs. James A. Henderson, who resided with them, has returned from a visit at Biloxi, Miss., and will be at the Hamilton Hotel temporarily.

Mrs. Franch F. Spencer of 5636 Waterman avenue entertained last evening with a small dinner party at the Missouri Athletic Association anniversary party in honor of her niece, Miss Charlotte Baden, who is visiting her from Richmond, Va. Mrs. Spencer will give a dinner dance for Miss Baden Thursday evening at her home.

SYMPHONY SCHOOL CONCERTS

First of Series to Be at McKinley High Tomorrow.

The St. Louis Symphony Orchestra will give the first of its high school concerts this year tomorrow at 3 p. m., at McKinley High School. An attractive program ending with a chorus of the school children accompanied by the orchestra will be given. Michel Gusikoff, concertmaster of the orchestra, will play the violin obligato for Massenet's "Meditation" from "Thais." Conductor Zach will conduct the orchestral numbers and Glenn M. Tyndall the choral numbers.

Three other similar concerts will be given as follows: Cleveland High School, March 4; Yeatman High School, March 16, Soldan High School, March 18. Outsiders will be welcome after the school children are provided with seats. The concerts will begin at 3 o'clock.

W. VIRGINIA AGAINST SUFFRAGE

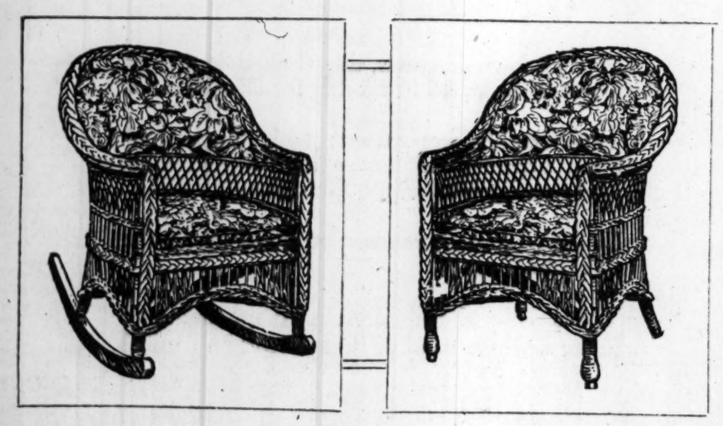

By the Associated Press.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 2.—Ratification of the Anthony suffrage amendment failed in the West Virginia Senate late yesterday when the resolution for its adoption was met by a tie vote of 14 to 14.

Senator Harvey W. Hammer, father of the resolution, changed his vote in order that he might be in a position to move reconsideration. This made the record vote 13 to 15 against ratification. The resolution did not come up for consideration in the house.

They couldn't be built now for twice $71,000

When the talk turns from politics to railroads, and the traveler with the cocksure air breaks in with, "There's an awful lot of 'water' in the railroads," here are some hard-pan facts to give him:

What Lincoln said

(From an address by Abraham Lincoln to the Workmen's Association in 1864)

"Property is the fruit of labor; property is desirable; is a positive good in the world . . . . Let not him who is houseless pull down the house of another, but let him work diligently and build one for himself, thus by example assuring that his own shall be safe from violence when built."

American railroads have cost $80,900 a mile—roadbed, structures, stations, yards, terminals, freight and passenger trains—everything from the great city terminals to the last spike.

A good concrete-and-asphalt highway costs $36,000 a mile—just a bare road, not counting the cost of culverts, bridges, etc.

English railways are capitalized at $274,000 a mile; the French at $155,000; German, $132,000; even in Canada (still in pioneer development) they are capitalized at $67,000 a mile. The average for all foreign countries is $100,000.

Low capitalization and high operating efficiency have enabled American railroads to pay the highest wages while charging the lowest rates.

SELPH DENIES CHARGES PREFERRED AGAINST HIM

Postmaster Says He Will Be Glad to Have Official Acts Investigated.

A separate denial of each specific charge against him and a general denial of the complaint as a whole was made by Postmaster Selph yesterday after he had carefully perused complaints against his administration filed yesterday with the House of Representatives in Washington.

He took up the complaints of former employes, setting forth that they had left the employ of the postal service because of his oppressive methods, and answered them chronologically and submitted a large volume of correspondence covering the various cases.

"These charges do not disturb me in the least," he said. "They have been investigated by the Postoffice Department at Washington. I do not fear the criticism of a few disgruntled men who bear a grudge against me because they were dismissed from the service.

"There are 2500 men employed in the Postoffice here and the 20 men who resigned voluntarily constitute a very small percentage of the entire force. I have documentary proof that I treated those men with the greatest consideration. I might have been accused of showing too much leniency in the cases of several of them.

Attitude of Employes.

"The trouble with letter carriers as a class is that they seem to look upon a Postmaster, appointed for a period of four years, as a mere figurehead and they resent any effort on his part to promote the efficiency of his organization.

"The postmaster has absolutely nothing to do with the purchase of uniforms or raincoats. That is in the hands of a committee of letter carriers elected by the carriers themselves. The law requires that I shall make a personal inspection of uniforms.

"The charge that I compelled the men to participate in patriotic or military parades in the war period is without foundation. Copies of my orders will show that I merely invited them to take part. Many were excused on account of age or other physical disability and no one was ever disciplined for not turning out. I will not discuss the charge that I paraded the men in front of my home. That is too absurd to talk about.

"The religious services they refer to were memorial exercises held at a downtown theater in honor of letter carriers who had lost their lives in military service. A Catholic priest, a rabbi and a Protestant minister took part.

Complaints All Investigated.

"One of the complaints against me has to do with the letting of a contract for gasoline for the automobile equipment of the department. The records in the case show conclusively that I had absolutely nothing to do with the letting of the contract.

"The complaints about railway mail service were all investigated thoroughly and in many cases it was found that the St. Louis postoffice was not responsible. One of the men who complained about out-of-town mail being delayed was a former railway mail clerk and made a hobby of watching that service. He had an office in the Railway Exchange Building. On one occasion, when he was in New York, he sent a letter to his stenographer and addressed it merely '610 Locust street.' It reached her a day late. There are five letter carriers in the Railway Exchange Building and that letter passed through many hands before it finally got to the addressee.

"Any man who was discharged during my administration was let out for the good of the service and not because of any animosity on my part. In most cases the charges were investigated by postoffice inspectors over whom I have no jurisdiction."

Invited Criticism.

The postmaster displayed a large number of letters from St. Louis business men complimenting the postal service. They were letters sent to him in reply to a form letter which he sent out in January inviting criticism and asking for suggestions of improvement in the service.

GIRL TAKES POISON AFTER LOSS OF $5 FROM PAY ENVELOPE

Tells Police She Was Despondent Because of Being Thrown Behind in Board Bill.

The loss of $5 from a pay envelope caused Beulah Ryan, 18 years old, of Pevely, Mo., to drink poison at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Zella Mason, 4238 Linton avenue, yesterday.

At the city hospital, where she is in a serious condition, she told the police she lost the money last Saturday when she was paid at her place of employment. She brooded over the loss, she said, because it caused her to fall behind in payment of her board bill. Yesterday she remained at home instead of going to work, and while other members of the family were absent she drank iodine. She was found unconscious in the dining room, with the empty bottle beside her, when members of the family returned home.

THE POST-DISPATCH'S DAILY RECORD OF MARKETS AND FINANCE

NEW YORK MARKET SUFFERS A RELAPSE

Late Prices on Liberty Bonds at New York.

NEW YORK, March 2.—Prices of Liberty Bonds at 2:55 p. m. today were: 3½s, 95.32; first 4s, 90; second 4s, 89.94; first 4¼s, 91; second 4¼s, 90.14; third 4¼s, 92.56; fourth 4¼s, 90.26; Victory 3¾s, 97.44; Victory 4¾s, 97.34.

NEW YORK, March 2.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"The relapse of today's stock market into the most complete inactivity of two or three weeks was a natural enough consequence of developments in the money market. Even more obviously than last week, the Stock Exchange presented a situation where news was such as would usually stimulate prices in a marked degree, but where the basic influence of credit facilities was entirely adverse. The vote on the railway bill, followed by the return of the railways and by the Supreme Court's 'Steel decision,' would have been reflected under ordinary circumstances by a sustained advance. The Reserve Bank deficit and the abnormal stringency in discounts would by themselves have logically meant continued decline. Occurring simultaneously, the joint effect of all of these influences is deadlock.

"Such movement of prices as occurred today was narrow irregular and in the main purposeless. United States Steel declined moderately; so did many of the railway shares which were, however, little dealt in. Generally the market's trend was lower with a few sharp declines in the industrials, varied by intermittent recoveries.

"The steady course of recovery in sterling exchange continued. For a time today, the rate for sight bills stood at $3.45¼ as compared with the year's low rate of $3.18 of Feb. 4, and with a high price of $3.79½ for the present year to date. It will be seen that nearly half of the distance between January's highest rate and February's lowest has been retraced. Apparently there are some positive influences whether automatic or concerted, at work in favor of London's foreign exchange market. The recovery is the more interesting in that it occurs in the face of the increasing stringency of our money market. It may have been facilitated by sale of securities by England in New York but it has not been helped by new borrowings in America.

"One rather striking fact, which Wall Street is apt to overlook is the fact that sterling has been advancing in other markets than our own, where the rate was at a discount. But the status of sterling in those other markets makes a singular comparison with its status here. At Stockholm sterling exchange has for several weeks been actually above par and in favor of London; at Amsterdam and Madrid it has been depreciated only 23 and 24 per cent from parity when the depreciation at New York has been 30 to 34 per cent.

"Gold bullion at London declined 2 shillings per ounce today; its price today was equivalent to 140⅜ as against 142⅞ yesterday and 143⅝ on Saturday. London cables reported little competition in the effort to secure the new gold consignments received in England, and the allotment of the gold to South American bidders. It is one of the curious incidents of the period that these very considerable sales they have amounted frequently of late to $5,000,000 or $10,000,000 per week, have always seemed to be beyond our market's reach. Yet it would seem that, under some possible circumstances New York will inevitably overbid all other applicants."

Foreign Exchange.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 2.—Business was again small in volume in the foreign exchange market, but there were some wide movements in rates. Demand sterling advanced to 3.45¼ in the forenoon, but had a quick reaction to 3.43, followed by another upturn. French and Italian were also strong in the morning and reactionary in the afternoon. Material advances were made in rates on Stockholm and Copenhagen. Today's latest rates of exchange on all the principal foreign markets were as follows: Sterling demand, 3.43¾; sterling cables, 3.44¼; bankers, 60 days, 3.40; bankers, 90 days, 3.36; commercial, 60 days, 3.46; commercial, 90 days, 3.34. France checks, 14.18; France cables, 14.16; Belgium checks, 13.50; Belgium cables, 13.48; Germany checks, 1.05; Germany cables, 1.05; Austria checks, .36; Austria cables, .38; Holland checks, 36¾; Holland cables, 37; Italian checks, 18.27; Italian cables, 18.25; Swiss checks, 6.15; Swiss cables, 6.13; Stockholm kroner checks, 18.90; Stockholm kroner cables, 19; Christiania kroner checks, 17.10; Christiania kroner cables, 15.25; Spain checks, 17.40; Spain cables, 17.50; Buenos Aires, spot, 101.80; Canada dollars, 86.50.

NEW YORK COTTON MARKET FIRMER AROUND MIDDAY

NEW YORK, March 2.—The cotton market was unsettled early today by easy Liverpool cables and unfavorable reports from the Alexandria market, indicating that there had been failures as a result of a severe decline, and that the Alexandria exchange was now fixing minimum prices. This was supposed to account partly for the decline in Liverpool, which, however, was offset to some extent by the advance in sterling exchange. The opening here was better than due on the cables, showing a decline of only 4 to 15 points. March started relatively firm, but the demand was less active than recently and active months soon showed net losses of 23 to 30 points, with March selling off to 38c and July 32.10c.

Offerings were light after the early selling movement had run its course and the market turned firmer toward midday on a renewal of covering by March shorts. That delivery sold up to 38.50c, or 50 points net higher, while later deliveries recovered a good part of the early losses, with July selling at 32.18c. General business remained quiet, with traders evidently finding little fresh feature in the news from either the Southern spot markets or the domestic goods situation.

May shorts showed increasing uneasiness during the middle of the afternoon owing to the continued strength of March and that position sold at 35.40c, making a net advance of 42 points, and new high ground for the movement, while March sold at 38.58c. Later months were relatively quiet, but sold about four points above last night's closing figures.

CORN AND OATS FUTURES ARE SHARPLY HIGHER IN PIT HERE

Speculative opinion was widely divergent at the opening of the grain market here today, and the movement was erratic and nervous. May corn opened lower, while gains were shown in the more distant positions, only and confined mainly to professionals.

Hogs at Chicago were 15c to 20c higher at the outset, which fact gave some encouragement to gain bulls. Liverpool, however, was lower, and there were reports of heavy reselling of aots by exporters in this country. Larger receipts of corn are looked for at primary points, and many well-posted traders are predicting big figures for the Government's March report on farm reserves.

Toward the middle of the day further strength developed on reports that plans were being formulated to finance Germany. This would mean a material lift to the export grain trade and help to further curtail American stocks. Shorts took to cover, and then operations accentuated the upturn. The close was strong and at a stiff advance after Monday's final figures.

Snow, the crop ebpert, in his report on reserves says: "Wheat in first hand March 1, 142,000,000 bu or 15.3 per cent of last year's crop. This 16,000,000 bu more than a year ago but slightly less than the average of the last five years. Corn, 1,011,000,000 bu, or 35.4 per cent. Oats reserve 370,000,000 bu, or 30.6 per cent. This 209,000,000 less than last year and 121,000,000 less than a five-year average. Admittedly too early for definite judgment on growing wheat crop, but local advices emphasize a feeling that a very poor wheat crop is in prospect over a large area.

Broomhall cabled: "United Kingdom: Weather warm; inquiry from feeders on small scale. American mixed on spot quoted 19s 9d per central in Liverpool, a decline of 3d per cental. Small parcel American mixed corn afloat sold at 91s per quarter of 480 pounds. Government releasements plate sorts satisfactory. Further good quantities of Argentine corn expected be put forward.

Our New Home

The business of the American Credit-Indemnity Co. has doubled during the past three and one-half years and we now have a surplus to policy holders of more than $1,000,000.00.

As a result of this rapid growth, it has been necessary to greatly increase our space for office quarters, and on March 1st we moved to the fourth floor of the Chamber of Commerce Building at Broadway and Locust.

Our new offices occupy twelve thousand square feet of floor space. Folks tell us they are among the most up-to-date insurance offices west of the Mississippi. We will be pleased to have you visit them.

Preferred Stocks

INVESTORS who are confronted by the necessity of making the Revenue from Investments parallel the rising cost of living, have come to favor High-Grade Preferred Stocks yielding 7% to 8%, exempt from Federal Normal Income Tax.

Bankers and Investment Dealers have in recent years so protected the MODERN Preferred Stock by restrictions and safeguards that the Preferred Stockholder today practically occupies the position of a creditor (as does a bondholder), receiving materially greater income without reducing safety of principal.

We call attention to the following:

	Price to Yield
AMERICAN CANDY COMPANY—7% Cumulative Preferred	7%
CARLETON DRY GOODS COMPANY—7% Cumulative Preferred	6.90%
CERTAIN-TEED PRODUCTS CORPORATION—7% Cumulative Preferred	7.80%
ELDER MANUFACTURING CO. 8% Cumulative Preferred	8%
FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY—8% Cumulative Preferred	9%
SHERWIN-WILLIAMS PAINT COMPANY — 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock	7%
KROGER GROCERY COMPANY—7% Cumulative Preferred	7%
WILLYS CORPORATION—8% Cumulative Convertible Preferred	8.33%

MISCELLANEOUS

IRVIN LEVY, 3 YEARS OLD, OF 3018 Sheridan avenue, was run over by a horse and wagon driven by Frank Jerrolds, 17, 2925 Thomas street, in front of 1342 North Garrison avenue, yesterday afternoon. He suffered a fractured leg and internal injuries. Jerrolds was arrested. He said the boy ran directly in the path of the horse and he was unable to stop until the wagon wheels had passed over the child's leg.

EDWARD STANL, 16 YEARS OLD, 4327 Chippewa street, suffered a fractured leg at 3 p. m. yesterday, when run over by an automobile truck of the Noble Express Co., 304 North Third street, on Market street, between Eighth and Ninth streets. Policemen were told the boy, in running across the street, ran into the side of the truck and was knocked down, the rear wheels passing over his leg.

TWO FAMILIES WERE AROUSED AT 2:30 a. m. today when fire started in a closet on the third floor of the building at 1701 O'Fallon street. Joseph Hoffman and his family occupy the third floor and William A. Dowdall and family occupy the second floor. The families were cared for by neighbors until the blaze had been extinguished. The damage was $300 to building and $200 to furniture.

CHARLES BOSLEY, 35 YEARS OLD, who said he was staying at the American Annex Hotel, was taken to the city hospital from Twentieth and Eugenia streets at 11:30 p. m. yesterday. Doctors said he was suffering from wood alcohol poisoning. He was unable to tell the police where he had obtained the liquor. His condition is serious.

POLICE ITEMS

A SABLE CAPE CONTAINING THE skins of 21 sables, valued at $1450, was stolen yesterday from a display case of the Thomas W. Garland Cloak and Suit Co., 409-13 North Broadway. The thieves filed a brass lock on the door of the case.

THE DISAPPEARANCE OF A DINNER ring, set with 47 diamonds and two sapphires and valued at $1000, from a room at the Hotel Statler occupied by George W. Martin, is being investigated by the police. Martin reported he was absent when a duplicate key was used on the room door and the ring taken from a dresser drawer.

ROY McDANIELS, 17 YEARS OLD, OF 1413 Benton street confessed last night, police say, to robbing the offices of the Columbia Electric Co., 1109 Pine street, where he was employed up to a week ago, taking three electric motors, 4000 feet of wire and a grip of tools. The boy told the police he had been discharged from the concern.

Common Sense

Treat a cold or the grippe before it goes far enough to be serious. At the very first symptom—a shiver, a sneeze, or a sniffle—begin strengthening the germ-resisting forces of your system by taking Weeks' Break-Up-A-Cold Tablets. They usually knock out a cold over night.

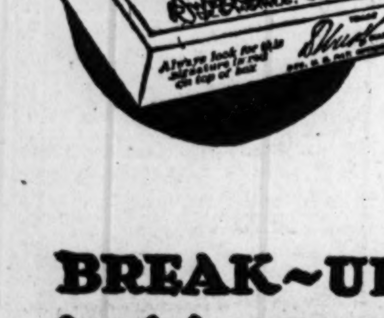

Weeks' Break-Up-A-Cold Tablets contain just what is needed to prevent and relieve colds. You won't feel dull or dopey after you take them. They are wonderfully effective both as a preventive and a remedy.

Keep a box of Weeks' Break-Up-A-Cold Tablets on hand. They will save a lot of unnecessary sickness and doctor's bills. Always insist on Weeks'.

They cost but 25c a box

sells at par because it is worth par.

It is worth par because every dollar of it is backed by more than a dollar's worth of State-appraised, State-regulated, income-producing, public service property.

It is worth par because each $100 share earns and pays $7 a year in cash dividends—$1.75 every three months.

Intrinsic value, earning power and permanency make it a high-grade 7 per cent income investment.

This issue is offered only to Union Electric customers and members of their families.

PRICE: $100 a share for cash; $102 on a ten-payment plan, under which buyers draw 5 per cent interest on installment payments, and can withdraw all payments, WITH INTEREST, any time before final installment is paid.

SALES OFFICES: Room 201 Union Electric Building, 12th and Locust Streets, St. Louis, and Union Electric's offices in Franklin, Jefferson, Perry, St. Charles and St. Louis counties.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

As we have no information bureau, it is impossible to answer queries by mail or telephone. Query for Sunday must be mailed a week beforehand.

A. B. C.—We do not identify the author you mentioned.

P.-D. READER.—If the husband paid for the piano he is entitled to it.

ANNA.—A will is still legal, even though one of the witnesses to it is dead.

M. L. A. M.—If two administrators are appointed they each receive 2½ per cent.

MAZDA.—You can serve tenants notice to vacate on April 1 any time before March 1.

PORTER.—The Government does not stand good for all losses when a national bank fails.

MICHIGAN.—If you work in Missouri we think that you are subject to the Missouri income tax.

JOE SLIVERS.—We would advise you to wait until she got a divorce before taking her into your home.

A SUBSCRIBER.—Yes, interest paid on personal indebtedness can be deducted from your State income tax.

TRUE.—If he has promised to marry you, you can sue him for breach of promise. Consult a lawyer.

L. J. F.—We think that under the decisions of the courts the notice you received to vacate is insufficient.

DAILY READER.—Report the facts to the police. We would advise you not to attempt to kill his chickens.

JOHN D. D.—Yes, you can get a judgment against the man you loaned the money to and garnish his wages.

A. E. D.—Everybody's Cat Book by D. B. Champion is a book that would help you very much in your care of cats.

CONSTANT READER.—Report the facts concerning your landlords to the City Attorney and to the Assessor at the city hall.

POOR WOMAN.—If your marriage to him is a legal marriage he can will you his property and his daughter cannot break the will.

HELEN.—He cannot get a divorce in Missouri or Illinois. Some states allow insanity arising after marriage as a ground for divorce.

E. L. E.—If you take out a merchant's license you do not need to take out a separate license for milk, eggs, etc., unless you are a peddler.

A. H.—If your mother promised the money, you can present your claim against the estate as soon as the will has been filed and an executor appointed.

THANKFUL READER.—You can have a suit brought against the man but not against his parents. A man cannot be sent to the penitentiary for that crime.

M. SNOW.—If a husband's signature is affixed with a wife's signature when mortgaging the wife's property, it does not increase his rights in the property.

A SAILOR.—The Missouri State medals for returned soldiers are available now. If you have sent in your application blank for one you can expect it soon.

A.—The following is the Socialist vote in St. Louis for the years you want: 1902, 2348; 1904, 4914; 1906, 5133; 1908, 4877; 1910, 7955; 1912, 9279; 1914, 5669; 1916, 3593; 1918, 3328.

A. K. P.—If you have money in Germany you can withdraw it now, or you can convert it into dollars at a subsequent time when the rate of exchange may be more favorable.

FRIEND IN NEED.—If you had a lease it was your duty to move when the lease expired without notice. If you want to remain you must pay what the landlord asks.

ANXIETY.—If the claim has been allowed by the Probate Court have him assign the claim to you in writing and file your assignment with the clerk of the Probate Court.

BILL.—You are liable for the old balance still, since you did not get a discharge in bankruptcy. We think that they are justified in withholding service from you until you pay it.

B. A. H.—Your bonus counts as salary. As you have one child you are allowed $2200; so, if your bonus added to your net of $1943 make more than that, you have to pay an income tax.

INQUISITIVE READER.—A witness is entitled to $1 for each day's attendance and also to a traveling allowance of 5 cents per mile, both in going and returning. See clerk of the court.

A DAILY READER.—In a separation the wife is entitled to the household goods, ordinarily. We presume that most of the wedding gifts would fall within that class. She is not entitled to the money.

J. R. M.—The holder of a first deed of trust does not need to give any legal notice if he wishes to foreclose on a piece of real estate. The holder of the second deed of trust may learn about the sale through court proceedings.

G. A. N.—You do not have to pay the note over again. If she tries to sue you or your mother, tell the facts to the Court. You have a further defense in that the statute of limitations has now run on the note, and it is outlawed.

F. A.—The terms of the inheritance tax laws are too long to print here. The tax varies according to the amount inherited and the relation of the person receiving it to the deceased. Let us know what specific case you have in mind.

PHILIP SCHITZE.—The 10-cent piece of 1829 and the one of 1851 are each worth from 10c to 20c. You did not give us the dates of the 5-cent pieces, so we cannot determine their value. The other piece you describe seems to be just the seal of the State of Illinois.

W. L. H.—The exemptions are the same. Both State and Federal income tax laws exempt a married man with an income of less than $2000 and a single man with less than $1000. Both allow a $200 deduction for each dependent in addition to the wife.

OKEY.—A common law company, unincorporated, is a trust organized to carry on business as a trust estate. Your money may be as safe as in an incorporated company. It depends on the trustees. You have less control over them than you have on directors of a corporation.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS.

(The answers given under this heading are prepared by a physician of standing, who for ethical reasons does not permit the use of his name, but who is willing to make this contribution to public health.)

P. R.—You can have a blood test made in room 35, Municipal Courts Building, free of charge.

THANK YOU.—We would advise you to consult a physician. Your weight should be about 120 or 124.

A MOTHER.—Yes, a child can get diptheria more than once, but it is unusual. As a rule an attack of an infectious disease confers future immunity.

M. E. B.—We do not know of a formula for making predigested olive oil and we do not see any advantage in predigestion when used as a skin food.

THANKS.—Most cases of diabetes are curable if not too chronic and practically all are capable of much improvement. However, you need to be under a physician's care who can keep watch over you and regulate your progress.

LILLIE.—If the palms of your hands are dry and cracked use a covering of Lassar's paste at night, removing in the morning. Then rub in thoroughly an ointment containing one dram of pulverized tuic oxide in one ounce of vaseline.

RICO.—Evidently you have a diseased gland, but this would only account for part of your symptoms. You need a careful physical examination without which intelligent advice cannot be given you. It is not unlikely that your bladder and kidney are also infected.

A CONSTANT READER, H. G.—Any nose and throat specialist does this work or a surgeon would remove the bone for you. We do not recommend individual physicians or surgeons.

THANK YOU.—Have the discharge examined under a microscope. You could be again infected even though once cured. Do not worry until you know you have something to worry about, but be sure to find out the true condition.

C. H. L.—Placing the body in the best condition is a protection against all abnormal conditions, but in colds and bronchial troubles it is well to be sure that adenoids, bad tonsils or abnormal nose conditions are not a predisposing cause. The climate of St. Louis is not such as to prevent the improvement mentioned. The Y. M. C. A. have many physical classes for men and the Y. W. C. A. for girls.

MADAM W. X.—If you were healthy before, no doubt your present condition is the result of an infection at that time, unless you are mistaken in thinking you have never been infected. At any rate, all your symptoms indicate an inflammatory condition. Relief for you depends on whether this inflammatory condition can be corrected. If careful, intelligent and persistent treatment does not give relief surgery would be your only hope of regaining your health.

2-CENT PASSENGER FARE ENOUGH, SAYS ERIE HEAD

F. D. Underwood Also Favors Commodity Over Class Freight Rates.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 2.—A plea for lower passenger rates and a readjustment of freight rates in such manner as to provide "equitable distribution" of revenue from commodity tariffs was made today by Frederick D. Underwood, president of the Erie Railroad, in a statement concerning the resumption of private control of the railroads. He predicted that one of the first benefits to be noticed by the public will be more efficient service.

"I am opposed to class freight rates," Underwood said, "and to higher passenger fares. In fact, I think passenger fares should be reduced to two cents a mile throughout the country, except, perhaps, on certain lines serving a limited territory and upon which there are peculiar conditions. The railroads and the public will in time come to understand that these great enterprises can best prosper and the public best be served and protected by commodity freight rates.

"The passenger fare is a direct tax on the people. Commodity freight rates, to the individual, means almost nothing. For instance, a man doesn't worry particularly if he has paid six cents freight on his overcoat, but if he is compelled to pay five or six dollars more than he formerly did for a trip to his old home, he thinks he is being robbed. Commodity freight rates impose the least tax on the things in greatest use and the higher tax on commodities of comparatively limited use.

"There is a certain brand of saws manufactured in an eastern city. On the Pacific Coast I priced the saws in various cities and I found them selling for exactly the same price in San Francisco as they did in the city of manufacture. What difference does the freight rate make in that case to the consumer? However, I think the increased passenger fares to the Pacific Coast make considerable difference."

The public is going to benefit under private control, Underwood continued, through the reawakening of keen competition among the railroads. The individual responsibility of railroads, he said, will be enlivened.

BOPP AND UNDERTAKER-PARTNER BURY THEIR DIFFERENCES

Sheriff Buys Out Other's Interest in Kirkwood Business After He Digs Up $1289.

Sheriff Bopp of St. Louis County and Ray L. Houser, his partner in the undertaking business at Kirkwood, buried their differences yesterday, after Houser had dug up $1289 and Sheriff Bopp agreed to buy Houser's interest. Bopp asked permission to withdraw his suit for a dissolution of partnership and an accounting, and asked the Court to vacate the receivership created yesterday.

Bopp said he and Houser agreed that the latter had overdrawn his account in the firm more than $7000, but that $2600 of this came off for extra expense. When $4000, the amount for which Houser bought the partnership in 1916, was also deducted, the remainder amounted to $1289.

Judge Wurdeman yesterday had appointed Harry Donivan, cashier of the bank of Kirkwood, as receiver, at Bopp's request. When the Sheriff learned that the expense of a receiver would amount to about $1200, he decided he didn't want one, after all.

U. S. VOLUNTEERS OF CANADIAN FORCES TO MEET HERE JULY 4

Officers of Organization Here Arranging for First Convention to Join in Request for Bonus.

James Maxwell Murphy, president, and Herbert B. Gustafson, secretary of the Ways and Means Committee, of the American Volunteers of Canadian Expeditionary Forces, arrived in St. Louis yesterday to make arrangements for the first annual convention of their organization, which will be held here the week of July 4.

Murphy is a son of Patrick Charles Murphy, Government leader of the Canadian Senate. He was three times wounded during the world war and holds six decorations for valor.

At the convention here it is expected the demands of the Canadian soldiers for bonus money will be approved by the American Volunteers of the C. E. F. The veterans of Canadian forces are asking for more than are those of the American Expeditionary Forces, but the majority of them served much longer.

Y. M. C. A. BOYS GIVE MINSTRELS

Entertainment Held for Benefit of Decorating Fund.

Boys of the North Side Y. M. C. A., Grand and Sullivan avenues, presented "The Big Horn Minstrels" at their auditorium last night for the benefit of their fund for decorating the building lobby. The performance was divided into two parts, starting with the minstrels and ending with a sketch, "At the Circus," which included a burlesqued side show of freaks.

Clarence H. Hemphill was the minstrel interlocutor, with Leon Applewhite and Phillip P. Brown as end men. Applewhite acted as circus ringmaster and two or three dozen others took part.

TRADE COMMISSIONER NAMED

Alfonso Johnson Represents U. S. at Tokio, Japan.

Alfonso Johnson, a product of the School of Journalism, University of Missouri, and until recently business manager of the Japan Advertiser at Tokio, Japan, has been appointed United States Trade Commissioner to Japan and began his work for the Department of Commerce Feb. 1. Johnson will be attached to the staff of Dr. James Francis Abbott, Commercial Attache to the American embassy. Dr. Abbott was formerly on the faculty of Washington University, St. Louis.

Johnson has been succeeded as business manager of the Advertiser by Vaughn Bryant, who has just arrived in Japan from the University of Missouri, where he was publisher. Bryant is a graduate of the School of Journalism at Missouri and during the war was director for the Food Administrator of Missouri.

A Simple Way to Remove Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

FRISCO LINES

Announcement

The return of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway to its owners carries with it the definite obligation of public service.

This responsibility we accept. It will be our effort to make our service merit patronage.

Problems confront us that can be solved only by patience and a cordial understanding between transportation agencies and the public. This understanding we will seek to cultivate.

Transportation facilities have not kept pace with the remarkable growth of the Southwest. This condition was unavoidable but can and will be remedied.

New equipment is necessary to handle the constantly increasing traffic due to the industrial activity in the territory served by Frisco lines. It has no equal. Already we have received 4500 new freight cars and 50 locomotives. Our duty to further increase our facilities is recognized.

The organization of this company throughout is composed of tried and experienced men long familiar with the problems of Frisco territory.

It will be our pleasure to serve the public.

A Girls' Hotel.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

During the campaign we have lately conducted for raising funds to provide a hotel for wage-earning girls, the publicity given us in your paper has been of the greatest assistance. Before going further, we want to express our sincere appreciation, as well as to give you a statement of results.

We were successful in raising $17,000. Although this sum does not come near that which we so urgently need, we feel that it is a most creditable showing because, owing to illness, many of the most active members of our board were obliged to withdraw from the campaign, and this sum was secured by about half a dozen women.

We have now joined forces with the Y. W. C. A. and we are laying plans for a city-wide united drive to take place the week of March 22. In this drive it is hoped to raise $500,000—one-tenth of which will be our portion. This $50,000, added to our initial fund of $17,000, will allow us to provide delightful quarters for 150 girls, and continue on a larger scale our educational work.

We find in this new undertaking that the way has been well prepared by the generous publicity you have already given the Letmar Club drive. It is for this we want to thank you heartily.

MARY SEMPLE SCOTT,
Vice President, Letmar Club Association.

The Duty of Women.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The Society of Friends is the only religious sect that has a consistent record in favor of equal suffrage—always favored it. And yet, how many women are members of that sect? The Socialist party is the only one that has a clean record on the question of equal suffrage, and yet, how many women are even in sympathy with socialism?

Your Money or Your Life.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Please print for the benefit of the laborer who dared to smoke on a street car.

"Fined $15 for speeding on the public highways."

The one offense has often caused the death of a person who was unable to own an auto himself. The other offense is generally only offensive to a few who only ride in a street car when their auto is being overhauled. Most of the women and girls who ride in street cars are very used to the smell of tobacco smoke because there are few who haven't a father or at least one brother who smokes at home. Now, look here, cuckoo, we've got you both ways. If you walk to smoke we'll kill you. If you ride to smoke we'll fine you. Your money or your life.

Fitch on Teachers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Am enclosing the following article from "Vest Pocket Essays" by George Fitch, hoping you will find space for it in your column of "Letters from the People."

THE SCHOOL TEACHER.

A school teacher is a person who teaches things to people when they are young. However it would be unfair to accuse her of teaching them what they know when they grow up. She only teaches them what they have forgotten by that time.

The teacher comes to school at 8:30 o'clock and when she has gotten enough children for a mess in her room, she teaches them reading, writing, geography, grammar, arithmetic, music, drawing, cooking, board-sawing, crocheting, deep breathing, bird-calls, scientific eating, patriotism, plain and fancy bathing, forestry, civics and other sciences too numerous to mention. When school is out she stays behind with five or six of her worst scholars and tries to save the state the job of reforming them later on. After that she hurries home to make herself a new dress and snatch a hasty supper before going back to attend a lecture by an imported specialist on the history of tribal law in Patagonia which the superintendent thinks may give her some information which may be useful in her school work some day. A great many lecturers roam the country preying on school teachers and some of them are very cruel, talking to them so long that the poor things have to sit up until morning when they get home to get their daily text papers corrected. School teachers' salaries range from $30 a month up—but not far enough up to make them dizzy.

W. F. S.

A Mother Complains.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I was informed that the teachers want more salary. Why not make better use of the money, and provide the Central High School with typewriting machines? Why does the school board give the colored children free carfare? The white children have to pay their own carfare. I live in walking distance of Soldan High School, my children were sent to Central High School, and I have to furnish the carfare.

MOTHER OF FIVE CHILDREN.

IMMUNITY FOR GOOD TRUSTS.

The decision of the Federal Supreme Court in the Steel Trust suit not only gives the United States Steel Corporation a clean bill of health with regard to monopoly and illegal trust practices, but it lays down principles governing big business of far-reaching effect on future prosecutions of great corporate combinations.

The court adopts in effect the Roosevelt dictum that there are good trusts and bad trusts. Acquitting the Steel Trust of the charge that it possesses a monopoly or that it has practiced, since 1911 at least, illegal and unfair devices to ruin competition and obtain a monopoly, it asserts that the mere size and productive power and volume of business of a combination are not in themselves a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. There must be evidence of unfair and illegal monopoly practices.

The court sanctions the approval of the merger of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Co. with the United States Steel Corporation by Col. Roosevelt, when he was President, on the ground that while it was a profitable transaction and greatly increased the power of the steel company, there is no evidence of unworthy motives. On the contrary, it prevented disaster and served the public welfare. The court thus exonerates Col. Roosevelt and the Steel Trust in a transaction which aroused a storm of criticism and was the prime cause of the filing of the suit under Mr. Taft's administration. Its filing marked the first parting of the ways between Col. Roosevelt and his political protege and successor.

Dissenting from the majority decision, Justice Day declares that the conclusion of the suit nullifies the Sherman anti-trust law. Its effect goes far in that direction. It will stop prosecutions of big business combinations solely on account of their bigness and power. There must be proof of monopoly and illegal practices. There is no longer any restraint of corporate growth by legitimate means short of actual monopoly and the exercise of monopoly power to crush competition and raise prices.

Big business is free to grow, so long as it is good.

A KENTUCKY JURY FAILS.

A Kentucky grand jury has declined to indict members of a mob that, attempting to lynch a prisoner, was met with armed resistance which resulted in several deaths. In its report the jury admits that the testimony warranted indictments, but it seeks to justify its decision not to issue them on the plea that such action would intensify a situation already acute.

The plea is a sorry confession of weakness. Also, it fatuously ignores facts. It is a continuance of the policy that has fostered lawlessness. Mob outrages can only be suppressed by sternly maintaining the law. It was hoped that the decision and courage of Gov. Morrow would inspire the grand jury to meet its duty in the same spirit. The hope has not been met and, in consequence, law and order have suffered another reverse.

CHICAGO'S NEW ELECTION LAW.

Chicago under its new election law retained its big, unwieldy aldermanic board of 35 and the ward method of choosing them. The only change it made was in permitting nominations to be made by petition and requiring election by a majority instead of a plurality vote. The result of the first test of law was that 26 candidates obtained the requisite ward majority and 25 of the 26 are sitting Aldermen who ran for re-election. In eight of the nine wards in which a second election must be held, the sitting Alderman is one of the high men.

St. Louis retained its big board of 28, with election on a general city ticket. A better system than either is one providing for a small board elected by the city at large—a plan already in force in Detroit. Chicago's saving of $114,000 by avoiding the need for a primary election looks good, but its system is no more effective for reform than St. Lou.s' unsatisfactory system.

PADEREWSKI, THE COMPOSER.

News comes by way of London that Paderewski will never again appear in concert; that, believing the future of Poland secure, he considers his political mission has been accomplished; that he intends to devote the rest of his life to composing music.

What such decision means to the world can only be conjectured. The prospect of never hearing Paderewski play again will leave many inconsolable. It is not impossible, though, that through this decision posterity will come into a marvelous heritage. For Paderewski has been something more than the greatest of pianists. His absolute mastery of that instrument astounded technicians, but there was that in his art which enthralled the musically unlettered quite as much as the cognoscenti. It has always seemed as if Paderewski were glimpsing glories beyond the text, as if his genius were groping along for octaves that had never been entered. Who knows but what the composer shall achieve where the interpreter strove?

The Paderewski of today is surely a greater man, and therefore a greater artist, than he whom we have known. Never a stranger to the heroism and aspiration of an indomitable people, it has been his wa portion to come into contact with life in the raw. He has seen humanity acquit itself, under unbelievable disaster, with real splendor. It may be that this was the experience necessary to enable him to paint, in incomparable tone colors, the vistas previously beheld in his imagination.

HEIGHT OF DOWNTOWN BUILDINGS.

The ordinance prohibiting structures more than 150 feet high in the downtown district reaches its most critical test in plans now forming for a building that will exceed the limit by about 100 feet.

On the one side is the disagreeable probability that an elaborate structure and large investment will be materially reduced in scale or entirely abandoned On the other hand is the maintenance of an important feature of the valuable zoning law.

Shall an exception be made of this case? Exceptions are objectionable. Such compromises looking both to a possible realization of investment benefits and a merely theoretical enforcement of the city law offer an undesirable object lesson. They savor of favoritism. They are notice that the ordinance is a frail thing existing only for the less conspicuous plots and the less affluent builders and yielding readily to more powerful combinations.

There is, however, less unanimity as to the value of the height restrictions than as to many other wholesome restrictions in the zoning law. Conditions present at the time the regulations went into effect make them seem in their present form too drastic, so far as the downtown section is concerned, no matter what justification they may have in other sections. To restrict one building to 150 feet when right across the street is one 250 feet high seems like an unjust discrimination—like an attempt to prevent an equally intensive use of property surrounded by practically identical conditions.

A restriction in height which became applicable only at a considerable distance, several blocks for instance, from any structure already exceeding its limit or which became applicable only after the lapse of considerable time, say after five years, and then made perhaps a progressive annual reduction in permissible height until an approved maximum was reached, would not be as objectionable as the present regulations.

Undoubtedly, the ordinance should be recast so far as it affects the downtown district. Whatever modification is decided on should be made by general amendment, not by an amendment looking to one specific case, and it should be brought about on the recommendation of the City Plan Commission itself and the advocates generally of the zoning system.

THE NEW STREET CAR.

The first test of the United Railways' new type of car was successful. The claim that passengers could get on and off this car more quickly seems to have been proved. At any rate, the trial trip was made in less than usual time.

But if all the claims for the new car are borne out our transportation service will not be adequate. No such hope may be entertained. St. Louis has a big and pressing transportation problem. No tonic, however beneficent, will suffice. The case requires a major operation.

Nevertheless, the people of this city can find encouragement in this new type of street car, or, rather, in the effort back of it. That effort indicates that the present management is getting away from the rut in which the old management complacently slogged. It is a sign that the present management does not pin its faith exclusively in higher fares; that it realizes the necessity of constructive planning, of putting into the business the sweat and energy and resourcefulness—the indispensables of progress—which any business must have to be successful.

It is a small thing of itself, this innovation, but after years of traction stolidity, St. Louis is disposed to be grateful for even a crumb of trolley originality.

LIQUORS FOR MEDICAL USE.

The resolutions adopted by the St. Louis Druggists' Association relative to the sale of intoxicants for medicinal purposes show what a distance we have traveled since the days when the stores of even many reputable druggists were the refuge of the thirsty in local option counties and dry states.

The association demand that druggists shall not be permitted to dispense liquors as medicines is in harmony with the attitude and practical policy of individual members. St. Louis druggists will not comply with the drastic provisions of the Federal law giving medical immunity to liquors. It is not worth while, according to their view. While the law was newly in effect and the "flu" epidemic at its height there were physicians who confessed that they did not know a single pharmacist in St. Louis by whom a prescription for liquor would be filled.

Their refusal to handle what was once an important part of drug store stock is entirely justified. They are logical in insisting that the Government shall do the dispensing itself. What other course is open to a Government so suspicious of its citizens skilled in pharmacy that it ties them hand and foot with red tape in dispensing a remedy for many ills? By turning this branch of their business over to the Government, druggists can keep their self-respect. If the red tape governing compounds containing alcohol is not made to conform to common sense, they might turn over that branch of merchandising also.

I'LL not believe it!
Al Levin is no more A. L.
Than I am.
You'll note that Cynicus
Thinks, as I do, that A. L.
Is feminine and rather smart
For "mere 19."
You'll note, too, that Levin
Spells Wordsworth "Wadsworth"—
A piece of illiteracy
Impossible for her who answered Cynicus.
How is it, Clark? Am I not right?

Meanwhile, I have no doubt,
That roguish, witty girl, A. L.,
Is giggling at us from behind her fan
And is even now trimming and sharpening
Another dainty shaft for one of us—
Most likely for old Cynicus;
I hope she will not aim at SYNIBUSS.

Massachusetts continues voting upon local option, just as if nothing had happened. Some of the drys were bold enough to remind everybody that voting saloons back into a dry town could not mean anything under national prohibition, but no serious attention seems to have been paid them by the wets. The situation probably reflects that trait in human nature to which we called attention during the automobile show, when almost everybody went down and picked a car out, whether with or without any expectation of actually having one. Voting dry towns wet in Massachusetts is the same thing. The wets cannot have liquor back, but they can indicate what their choice would be if they had one. There is no objection in the Volstead law to anyone doing that. We don't know whether any of the other planets really know about us or not, but if they do they must have many a good laugh at our expense. We are probably the clowns of creation.

If we did not altogether understand the idea behind the exposition of industrial arts held in St. Louis last fall we can get it quite easily by making a tour of the stores and seeing what there is to buy. Deprived of most of the foreign goods formerly sold and having nothing better than our own, we find ourselves reduced to that for which we must be heartily ashamed. We know so little about fine manufacturing, of the textile industries, or of almost any good thing formerly available at the stores, that we are for the first time brought to realize what our deficiency is. We make very few things comparable to the fine manufacturing of Europe, yet we speak of competing with Europe in foreign markets, as if the rest of the world could possibly care any more for our goods than we care for them ourselves. Mr. Purdy, president of the American Federation of Arts, says there is no industrial art in the United States. Probably not, but there will be. We have not lost our capacity for business, even if we have made a mess of the peace treaty.

Sir: Someone has blundered. Whether it is the Associated Press or our American history, I shall not say. In an article on changes in army regulations the Associated Press tells us that "trench warfare" was only a passing episode in military history and that fundamental principles are the same as those employed by Napoleon at Jena and Grant at Gettysburg.

My history taught me that Mead defended Gettysburg. Furthermore, Grant employed "trench warfare" at Vicksburg.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by the leading publicists, newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

LABOR PARTY IN ENGLAND.

HERBERT W. HORWILL in the Nation.

THE real weakness of the Labor party will be revealed, not during the general election campaign, but if and when it has to assume the responsibilities of office. And that weakness will be due not to any administrative incapacity, but to conflict within its own ranks on matters of imperial policy. Its various sections may be in perfect agreement on such questions as the nationalization of the mines, but there will be an inevitable split the moment they touch international matters. Both among the leaders and in the rank and file one may find every shade of opinion, from jingoism to pacifism, and any test question of foreign policy will dissolve the present Labor combination into so many groups that the unity of the party will be hopelessly at an end. A collapse of that kind may prove to be the beginning of a new and more reasonable alignment of the political forces of the United Kingdom.

A CLEVELAND COLYUMIST.

TED ROBINSON in Everybody's.

"It is easy for me to calculate that in the last 15 years I have written 4500 poems. But of course they are not all poems. Equally, of course, some of them are. Nobody who is acquainted with the laws of prosody, has a good ear and is a practiced writer, can write a set of verses every day without chancing on a real poem once and awhile. If he avoids slap-stick humor on the one hand, and sticky sentimentalism on the other; if he refuses to listen to the 'give-the-public-what-they-want' fallacy; if he refuses to be satisfied with anything but his best; if he is blessed with a fair amount of good taste and an occasional flash of wit, he is more than likely to do some work that has a permanent value.

"There are two kinds of humor columns—good and rotten. There is no middle ground. But on some days a good column is bad, though on no days is a bad column good. And to be good, a column need not be all funny. Humor is a subtle thing; it pervades a column and is the soul of it but even humor is not always funny.

"The column conductor ought to tell the truth as he sees it, and sometimes the truth is mighty solemn. A part of the column may sparkle with wit, another part may contain satire; another pathos; another pure lyricism; yet another, earnest literary criticism and discussion. For the column man's range must be wide; it must glance at contemporary thought and life and art. His peculiar humor tinges the whole and gives his individuality to his work. He is not necessarily a 'funny man.' People with a strong sense of humor are seldom funny."

RAIDING THE TREASURY.

From the Review.

IF THE American Legion is to become an instrument for extorting money from Congress—and the sad thing is that Congress is only too willing to be bludgeoned in this way—then it would have been better if the Legion had never come into being. The men charged with the responsibility of its organization must have been perfectly aware of how things were going. It cannot be supposed that they liked the prospect. But they chose to sponsor an organization which they hoped in part to control to good ends, rather than that there should be no organization at all, or one which was openly and shamelessly devoted to the raiding of the Treasury.

Within the Legion itself there should be a fight to the finish on this question of "bonuses," and it should be made now. Not until such a fight has been made, no matter what its outcome, can the public see plainly where the Legion stands, and effectively reckon with its power both for good and evil.

Do You Depreciate Yourself?

By Sophie Irene Loeb.

THE other day a woman lost a chance for a good position, one that would have been the height of her ambition to obtain. Her failure was due to one thing—she depreciated herself; that is, she ran herself down sufficiently to lose her opportunity.

She has done it all her life, and until she abolishes this trait she never will succeed.

While we admire the sage who said: "Self-praise is no recommendation," yet there is the other extreme. Self-deterioration is anything but a recommendation. In fact, it acts like the wrong end of a magnet. It doesn't attract.

The great successes in life have been built on self-assurance and then assuring others of yourself.

This does not necessarily mean self-praise, but in careful transmitting to somebody else a proper value of yourself and what you can do.

This woman insisted on telling her prospective employer all the things she couldn't do, instead of giving him the real facts about what she could do. She ran herself down, rather than up. Perhaps she was over-modest. There is such a thing as too much modesty, since it may hide the qualities that are of greatest value.

There is considerable besides humbug in the old phrase, "Toot yqur horn if you never catch a clam," which means, in the main, that if you don't set forth what you can do, you may not get the chance to do it.

In a less serious situation, perhaps, I know a man who longs for love and a wife and children and a happy home. He is a most successful man and has the wherewithal, including a loving nature, to secure all that he seeks.

But let him meet a girl that he really likes and he begins almost at once by telling her how homely he is and how no girl ever will care for him and how he loses them as soon as they know him and just how it is no use for him to try to win her—all of which does anything but draw the girl toward him.

She doesn't like to feel that she is going to have what nobody has wanted, and he keeps this tirade against himself up for so long that the girl really looks at him through his own eyes, and does not get a chance to find the real fine qualities that are really there.

And so Jimmy will go on saving his money and being successful and wishing for the wife of his heart and home. He forgets that he who wants a real catch must have an elusive bait.

Instead of that he continually throws out an unattractive hook that rather repels.

The one way to create confidence is not to overestimate one's self, but, on the other hand, it is bad business to underrate your ability and expect it to be discovered.

As things go today, you must at least put your proper price on yourself and convey your possibilities in order to get the opportunity for which you are striving.

If you know you can do a thing, don't be afraid to tell it. The other person may want to find it out, but you have given him to understand that you believe in yourself, which is the fundamental attribute in the scheme of things.

MARMALADE.

A DELICIOUS marmalade can be made with oranges, grape-fruit and lemons and the large quantity of sugar used makes it a really valuable food. A careful housewife will take particular pride in making it very clear and in shaving the peel so very thin that it hangs transparent.

Each woman who takes pride in her housekeeping believes that she has the best marmalade from her own particular recipe, but since there may be more than one good way it might be of interest to try two methods. The first requires oranges, lemons and grape-fruit, and the method is as follows:

Amber Marmalade. Shave one orange, one lemon, one grape-fruit, rejecting nothing but the seeds and cores. Measure the fruit and add to it three times the quantity of water. Let it stand in an earthen dish over night and the next morning bring to a boil and boil 10 minutes. Let it stand for another night and the second morning add as much sugar as there is fruit, place over the fire, bring to boil and boil until it jellies. This will make 12 or 15 glasses.

Light marmalade is made from grape-fruit and lemons, as follows: Three grape-fruit, three lemons; slice very thinly, rejecting only seeds and cores. Pour over the seeds and cores one pint of boiling water, and over the rest of the fruit exactly four quarts of boiling water. Let all stand for 24 hours. Drain the water from the seeds into the kettle containing the rest of the fruit and boil all for an hour and a half or two hours. Add now to this 10 pounds of granulated sugar that has been made hot in the oven, and boil three quarters of an hour longer. The sugar is heated so that when it is added to the fruit the temperature will not be lowered. This will make about three dozen glasses.

HOW TO CONSERVE

TO conserve sugar: Mix one cupful of sugar with one-quarter cupful of corn starch. Will do for all uses except tea and coffee.

To conserve meat: Take eight pounds of shank for a soup. Now cut off the thickest meat, put through the meat chopper; makes a nice tender steak. Then remove the marrow from the bones and remove all the outside skin. The meat with the fibers in it place on the stove and boil very slowly until well cooked. The bones and small pieces put over and boil. When partly cooked add one-quarter pound of butter. Then put in two onions, two potatoes, one turnip, a little cabbage, celery and parsley. Put through a strainer. This makes a delicious soup. If you have more than you like can it. The fiber meat makes a meat pie. Add a little rice and put a crust over the top.

The marrow is very nice. Heat and eliminate the oil from the marrow; strain when nearly cool, beat until light and add one-quarter teaspoonful of oxide of zinc.

You can make soup out of water that your corned beef is boiled in and it is delicious.

USEFUL HINTS

Slip-on aprons are absolute necessities to the housewife who would be trimly and becomingly dressed.

Cracker custard puddings may be made like simple bread puddings, but they require a lemon or vanilla sauce.

Ammonia and warm water poured on a grease spot on the rug will remove the spot without changing the color.

BROKEN GLASS

If a piece of woolen cloth is placed on the floor where glass has been broken, the tiny particles will stick to it—almost impossible to get them with a broom.

—Arizona, California, Colorado, Washington, the District of Columbia and Porto Rico have eight-hour laws for women.

Reforming the Truant

Instead of whipping and tying little ones for running away try this method:

At the top of Johnny's blackboard write his name with pretty colored chalk. Tell him that every day he does not run away he will get a pretty pink mark after his name and when he gets 10 pink marks he will have a beautiful golden star.

But for every day he does run away he will get a dull brown mark after his name.

This simple little device has been used effectively in many small offenses of young children and does not call for great effort on the mother's part.

Helene Landry, appointed a member of the staff of the Minister of Marine in France, is the first woman in that country to occupy such a positon. She holds the degree of Doctor of Laws and Doctor of Philosophy.

Maxims of a Modern Maid

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall

THE motto of some of our favorite actors and actresses seems to be "A short life and a marry one!"

Every rose has its thorns, every cherry pie its stones, every "ideal love" its moments of disillusioned realism.

Because he is a "Red" one woman wants a divorce from her husband; another wife seeks relief from a spouse "too painfully good." And I can't help thinking it's Wife No. 2 who will get the sympathy of all primitive females.

"Cheaper Clothing Predicted," chirps a headline. Hope springs eternal, etc.

The feminine cigarette has been "passed by the censor." Queen Mary now smokes one every day after lunch.

Common sense in love affairs is like ashes on icy paths—nothing else is so useful in keeping you from slipping.

Former Ambassador Gerard assures us that "women's fear of mice is legitimate." There is a wide field here for those who would deserve the women's vote. Gen. Wood should explain that woman's fear of telling her age is praiseworthy, Hiram Johnson should point out that her fear of cows is commendable, and Gov. Lowden might offer evidence that her fear of being intellectually self-supporting is a distinct benefit to the race.

Second childhood is nothing like so pathetic a spectacle as a woman's second kittenhood.

Training Little Citizens

Teaching the Child to Be Self-Reliant.

By Mrs. Ethel G. Young.

THE development of self-reliance is of vital importance in child training, and one cannot begin too early to teach children to help themselves. Often it is very much harder and may take more time to let them do something than do it one's self, but, time and effort are not wasted when they are thus spent.

The best way to help a child to become self-reliant is to give him simple duties at first, adding more difficult ones as he grows older. At an early age every baby will try to take off his shoes. Instead of scolding him for doing this, show him how to do it and also how to put them on again. After learning this, he will soon try to manage the rest of his clothing; before long he will be able to dress and undress himself with very little help.

Self-reliance and orderliness may be developed in a child at the same time, for the little one who can take out and put away his own toys may play with them when he will. If he has a place for everything and keeps everything in its place, he can have much more freedom for play, and will not have to wait for someone to come to his assistance.

Often a child asks for help in doing something which he could do for himself if he only knew how. Too often a busy or impatient mother will wait upon her child to save time, and then the next time he wants the same help he will come to her again. If the mother had taken a few moments the first time to show him how to help himself there would have been no second time. For example, not long ago a little 3-year-old boy came to me and asked for a drink. I told him to go into the kitchen and get it, but he said he could not reach the glass. "Oh, yes, you can," I replied. "I will tell you how. Get a chair and push it near the table; then stand on it and see if you can't get the glass." He did as he was told and in a few minutes came running to me with a beaming face, saying, "I'm a big boy now; I can get a drink all by myself."

Self-reliance means confidence in one's self. If one can rely upon his own powers, he most certainly develops them. A child who is taught how to cross the street properly develops his hearing, seeing and reasoning powers.

Of course, we as mothers, must guide the child who is self-reliant in the right direction and the best way to do this is to put more faith in him. Let him realize that we expect him to do the right thing and in nearly every instance he will do it, because he feels his mother's confidence in him. In other words, we must always look for the best in our children instead of something with which to find faults and that if she would correct smaller faults, remembering that we are sometimes exasperating ourselves. A certain mother once complained that she did not know why her child was so naughty when she tried to punish him for every misdeed. His father told her that she saw too many faults, and that if she would correct the big evils, the little ones would disappear. Remember to praise the child whenever he accomplishes something new.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

By Thornton W. Burgess.

Thump! Thump! Thump!

When you hear a warning, heed it;
Never think you do not need it.

VERY wisely Peter had spent the night in the old bramble-tangle on the edge of the Green Forest. You see, Hooty the Owl had been hunting all around in that vicinity and Peter had not dared leave the safety of the old bramble-tangle. Just as the Black Shadows began to retreat and it was time for jolly, round, Mr. Sun to begin his daily climb up in the blue, blue sky, Peter heard Hooty's voice far over in the Green Forest and he knew then that he had nothing to fear from Hooty.

"It is high time for me to be getting home," thought Peter. "If I stay over here all day Mrs. Peter will be worried almost to death, and when I do go home I will never hear the end of it."

So, Peter crept out of the old bramble-tangle and started for the dear Old Briar-patch. It was still quite dark. He knew that Roughleg the Hawk could not yet see him hunt, and with Hooty the Owl deep in the Green Forest, there was little to fear. Of course Reddy Fox might be prowling around, but Peter had seen no signs of him and had a feeling that he was nowhere near. As there was plenty of time before it would become really light, Peter didn't hurry. He hopped along easily and every few hops stopped to sit up and listen.

He was doing this after having gone only a short distance when a sound came to him which made him prick up his ears and listen with all his might. It was a faint, thump, thump, and it came from back of him in the direction of the old bramble-tangle. Peter knew right away that there was another Rabbit back there in the bramble-tangle which he had just left. No one but a Rabbit could thump like that. It wasn't a loud enough thump to be made by his cousin, Jumper the Hare.

"Now, what can that be?" thought Peter. "It sounds for all the world like the signals of Mrs. Peter. But Mrs. Peter is over in the dear Old Briar-patch. There must be a strange Rabbit back there in that bramble-tangle, but it is queer I didn't see any signs of one when I was there. I don't want any strange Rabbits around here. I think I'll go back and look into this matter."

So Peter turned about, but before starting he thumped with his hind feet. It was a sort of warning signal to let the stranger know that he was there. Instantly he got a reply, and as he listened to the impatient, eager, thump, thump, he had the feeling more than ever that it was little Mrs. Peter who was doing the thumping. Peter thumped once more, then started back to the bramble-tangle.

The nearer he drew to the old bramble-tangle the louder became the thumps. Just before he got there he stopped long enough to thump in reply. Instantly a pretty little head with wide, frightened eyes was poked out from the old bramble-tangle. Peter nearly fell over backward with surprise. "Why Fuzzy!" he cried, for he always calls little Mrs. Peter Fuzzy. "What in the world are you doing over here?"

"Oh, Peter," sobbed little Mrs. Peter. "Oh, Peter, I'm so thankful that I wasn't too late. When I got over here and found you were not in the old bramble-tangle I was almost ready to give up in despair. I thumped because it was the only thing I could think of to do, and you can't imagine how I felt when I heard you thump back. Oh, Peter, I wasn't too late, and I'm so glad!"

Peter looked more puzzled than ever. "Wasn't too late for what?" said he. "You haven't told me how you happen to be over here."

Then little Mrs. Peter told Peter all about how Reddy Fox was lying in wait just inside the dear Old Briar-patch, and how she had slipped out on the other side and almost run her legs off in order to save Peter. Peter leaned over and softly rubbed his nose against the nose of little Mrs. Peter. "Fuzzy," said he, "you have saved my life and I never shall forget it. I think we better spend the day here in the old bramble-tangle." Then Peter chuckled. "I hope Reddy Fox will enjoy his long wait," said he.

The Runaway Prince Who Loved and Married "Zizi"

(Copyright, 1920.)

(In the introductory chapters have been recounted the circumstances under which Prince Carol first met Mlle. Jeanne Lambrino and the growth of their attachment. The following chapters are the personal narrative of Henri Serdici, who was their guide and friend during their elopement and their later troubles.)

CHAPTER III.

AT the time of Rumania's miseries, in the spring and summer of 1918, when families were divided and hearts wrung and when our army, ill clad and worn with fatigue, lay intrenched in the Capathians, I often saw Crown Prince Carol, who was then with his regiment at Targu-Neantz.

The Prince was very unhappy. He spoke continually of his post of inaction. He tormented himself with plans for escaping from it. At one time he wanted to form a small legion of devoted officers brave enough to cross German-Bolshevik Russia and reach the French front, there to continue the fight for the entente and for Rumania. Knowing these daring schemes that engrossed the ardent mind of the Prince, I was not surprised when one day upon my return from Moscow, whither I had gone on personal affairs following my demobilization, he came to me with the question:

"How can I cross Russia and reach France?"

We sat down together and I traced for him the route and acquainted him with other details of the manner of reaching the allied lines. My account made it clear that such a journey was not only not impossible, but perhaps even easy. Indeed, during my trip just concluded no one had asked to see my passports, no one had interfered with my movements at the Ukrainian frontier. Inspection was much disorganized and, at the worst, the Rumanian passport was respected. In the Bolshevist territory I had been asked no questions at all. Moreover, at Moscow there were at that time various allied military missions and in the Red Army, by special design, were three Rumanian officers personally known to Prince Carol. It would be easy for them to obtain for us a safe conduct to Finland.

This conversation with the Prince left no great impression on my mind. It took place June 20, 1918, the very day of my return from Russia. But the next conversation I had with him was different.

It was on July 13 that I received a letter brought in great haste by a messenger in a side car, inviting me to visit the Prince at Targu-Neantz as soon as possible. I stepped at once into the side car and he rushed across country, some 70 kilometers, to the residence of the Prince.

His royal highness himself opened the door to me. We went into his study.

"You must on no account repeat what I am about to tell you," said he.

He then said he had made up his mind, once for all, to go to France to fight. Continuing without giving me a chance to speak, he said, in substance:

"My mind is fully made up. My resolution is unalterable."

And then he asked if I would consent to conduct him.

I looked at the matter naturally as any officer would under the circumstances and assured the Prince I would assist him with all my might. It came to my mind that perhaps this project was undertaken in line with plans of the King and that it had to do not only with continuing our warfare, but with strengthening the Rumanian dynasty. Be it understood that I, like others, felt full confidence in the final victory of the Entente.

These thoughts passed vaguely through my mind while I was assuring his highness of my loyalty and willingness to use all my integrity. Then, in a different tone, he added these words, which came like a lightning stroke:

"But I shall not be alone. You know," he said, looking steadfastly at me, "you know with whom I intend to leave."

I was more astonished than I can describe; more than I should have been, I, who, as a friend of Mme. Lambrino and her family, had known of the attachment between the Prince and Mlle. Jeanne.

When I was able to speak calmly I remarked that what had just been said created a different question.

"If you arrive in France alone," I explained, "after having undergone all the vicissitudes of such a journey, your presence will be an important moral factor, and correspondingly a blow to the enemy. You will be hailed as a hero; you will, in Rumania, become one of the figures corresponding to the great ones in our history. But," I ventured to add, "if you arrive with your fiancee the high moral advantage I have mentioned will be lost."

And I explained as tactfully as I could, what I meant. He would be regarded simply as an adventurous Prince. He would not be taken seriously.

He reflected and admitted I was right. Yet he made it clear that some means must be found to render both his vital projects feasible.

It was a cruel situation. No one can fail to understand the drama then being enacted in the soul of the Prince. One does not need to have seen, as I did, the despair and resolution that gleamed together in his eyes; to have seen the fluttering of his eyelids as he strove for self-possession.

I sat regarding him, understanding, considering his nature—the nature of a military leader who knows the name of every officer and his standing in the army; the nature of a Prince who has deeply studied his duties as future King; and that of a Rumanian, devoted to his country, who even had recited to us long passages of Cerna and other native poets and exclaimed, "What harmony more wonderful than these sounds!"

Such was the personality confronting me. Perhaps the reader will come to understand him and to believe that he was indeed slandered after the marriage at Odessa, thus the reader will understand as well why I write these lines.

Well, after studying the problem for some minutes, I proposed a strategem by which—and the hopes of youth dwelt in it and made it seem adequate—his double ambitions might be realized. I proposed the following:

He should in no manner alter his civil or military status until, at the front in France, his actions should have won for him enough renown to outweigh the importance that might be attached to his marriage.

We should leave Romania via the Ukraine, and reach Moscow in six days.

There I myself should marry—for this was the private business on which I had just been to Russia—and there we should await our passports for Finland.

We were then to continue to France, myself as a friend of the Prince, and Mlle. Lambrino as a friend of my wife.

Prince Carol agreed. So much was worry lessened that on my way home he showed me his mechanical workshops, of which he was very proud. It came to me to ask him whether, after the life he had led, he might not suffer from the privations and troubles of the future. He replied earnestly:

"I shall regret nothing. It will be only right if I shall pay in some way—yes, even bitterly—for my great happiness."

It was with these almost prophetic words in my ears that I drove back over the hills.

As soon as possible I set about obtaining the passports. It took time, but I had little trouble in renewing my old passport, or in procuring another made out in the name of my sister, who was then in England. To this I attached a photograph of Mlle. Lambrino. It was the honest prefecture who delivered this false passport to me, and it troubles me when I remember that later, when our flight became known in Rumania, this kind and respectable official was punished, together with his family. One of his sons was denied the rank of officer and one of his daughters was discharged from her teaching position. It was some time before they were rehabilitated and the prefect forgiven.

But that is by the way.

I went to Jassy, where I succeeded in obtaining a second passport presumably for my own use. On this I changed one of my Christian names and, later pasted on a photograph of Prince Carol instead of my own.

These details disposed of, and others, consuming several weeks, I went to call upon Mme. Lambrino, who received me with her usual grace. This charming lady suspected nothing of the daring plans just formed. As I stood before her my conscience almost rose in revolt, just as during the last few days, my efforts to conceal the secret I carried with me had almost undone me. The secret had deprived me of sleep. It had given my face, I fancy, a look of preoccupation and dread, although in no word did I betray myself. I ached to lay the whole thing before my best friend and cry, "What would you do in my place?"

Before Mme. Lambrino my self-control almost gave way, and I nearly revealed the whole matter. But I managed to keep my self-control.

And then came the ordeal with Mlle. Jeanne. As soon as I found myself alone with her I broached the subject, describing my interview with the Prince.

"Yes, I have had a letter," said she. "I think you are all mad."

"What the Prince wishes to do is impossible—quite," and "One cannot reach France by way of Russia," are sentences I remember she spoke. I explained to her that I had traveled through the region a little while before, and that the journey contemplated was far from "impossible."

Next she objected that she could not so terribly deceive her mother; that her mother would never forgive her—and much of a similar nature. She was pale and shaken. In her heart, without doubt, there was a tumult not unlike that which I had seen pictured on the face of the Prince.

She said by turns, "I must do what the Prince wishes," and "The plan is utterly insane."

At length, feeling that the responsibility was too great for me, I left her, and drove away through the quiet streets of Jassy. I recall that as I went I put my head out of the window of my automobile, so that the night wind might cool my brow.

The adventure in contemplation, the difficulties in which we all seemed involved, made even the stars appear to whirl madly in their courses.

CHAPTER IV.

AT my interview with Prince Carol we had fixed as our meeting place for discussing final details of the journey the little village of Motca, between Targu-Neantz and Pascani, and about 70 kilometers from Roman. We went thither on motor cycles like madmen. For myself I traveled about 110 kilometers an hour, yet I arrived at our rendezvous back of the ancient church only a few minutes before the Prince.

This time he was calm and determined. He said again he had weighed everything; his decision was no hasty one and was irrevocable.

After handing him two of the passports—the two contrived to serve for him and Mlle. Lambino—and a certain amount of money I had changed into Russian currency at his request. I told him of Mlle. Jeanne's fears. I told him how she dreaded the journey to Russia; how she disliked to deceive her mother.

The Prince frowned.

"There is no need of waiting," he said. "Go back to Jassy and tell Zizi we leave next Wednesday. And tell her that if she hesitates further we two will go without her."

I shall never forget his look as he said this. He spoke with the air of a sovereign, and yet like a lover as well. I stood regarding him and thinking how much he might do one day for Rumania. And he seemed to read my thoughts, for he suggested that I tell Zizi that he, though about to risk everything, did not hesitate; that it was ungenerous in her to make things harder for him. I asked him if he expected to lose his rights forever. He replied: "Only for a time."

His belief was like that of the rest of us; that after the Entente victory many things would be changed.

So we went on to discuss details of the journey. The chauffeur was selected and we planned what we should do to quiet his suspicions. Then we tackled the more difficult question of how to keep the King and the Government in ignorance of his absence. I stipulated they should be thus kept in ignorance for six days, as in laying out the course, so to speak, I had calculated we could reach Moscow in that length of time. The trains were running fairly well and I was familiar with the routes. I knew the stations and their booking offices and everywhere I had friends. Once in Moscow we should be beyond trace; even beyond the radios of Jassy.

The Prince reflected.

"I have it," he said presently, "I shall give the letters I shall write to Michaelescu (a servant of the Prince). He shall deliver them in six days after I hand them to him."

He said he intended to write to the King and to his favorite sister, the Princess Elizabeth. His absence for the six days would not be noticed, we agree, because he often passed a few days with friends, unaccompanied by his adjutant.

"And further," he told me, "the adjutant is ill because of a fall from his motor cycle. Thus he will not be aware of my movements."

Following this we talked of our equipment. I suggested that we dress in sober colors and omit wearing jewels, which would tend to excite the suspicion and even the cupidity of the Bolshevists. But I opposed the idea of a downright disguise on the ground that if we were detected we should appear ridiculous. Perhaps it was here I committed an error. It may be that if the Prince had concealed his identity the wretched Bohemian who proved our undoing might not have recognized him. But who can tell?

Finally we discussed luggage down to the smallest detail even to the books Prince Carol insisted upon taking. He would not listen to my advice on this.

MANUFACTURES EXHIBIT OPENED AT COLISEUM

Products of Soil Also Displayed —Mineral Display From Chihuahua.

An interesting collection of manufactured articles, ranging f om rock crushers to near-beer and products of the soil, is on display at the Mississippi Valley Exposition, which opened at the Coliseum last night and will continue through March 13.

The exposition, arranged for the purpose of exploiting the natural and industrial resources of the Valley states, comprises about 100 exhibits, the majority of which have been provided by St. Louis manufacturers and dealers. The mineral and farm products exhibits, among the most attractive at the show, have been provided by the State of Chihuahua, Mexico, and the States of North and South Dakota, Minnesota and Louisiana.

Samples Free to Visitors.

Popular features of the exposition are the samples distributed free by manufacturers of beverages and foodstuffs. The near-beer stand of a Chicago concern and a lime-ade booth operated by a Milwaukee company vied with biscuit and cake exhibits in catering to those who attended last night.

Other exhibitors kept the visitors entertained and interested in various demonstrations of the articles on display.

The North Dakota farm products exhibit i a minature of the North Dakota exhibit at the San Francisco world's fair and is in charge of John Freyberger, who managed the fair exhibit, and Frank S. Fair, immigration agent of North Dakota.

Corn and Minerals Exhibits.

The development of corn by the North Dakota Agricultural College from the small vari-colored wild specimens planted by the Indians to the large white and yellow varieties of the present time is shown. Both Freyberger and Fair are members of the Non-Partisan League and assert that the progress of the agricultural institutions of North Dakota has been greater since the League gained control of the State than ever before.

The mineral exhibit from Chihuahua attracted many visitors last night. Samples in the exhibit include gold, silver, copper, zinc, lead and tungsten. Some fabulously rich gold and silver samples, assaying thousands of dollars per ton, are in the collection. A large bone of a huge prehistoric animal which was discovered in one of the old Spanish mines in Chihuahua also is shown.

Navy and Marine Displays.

Perfect models of the United States battleship Oklahoma, completed in May, 1916, and the light cruiser St. Louis, are shown in the exhibit sent from Washington by the United States Navy. The models reproduce every detail of the two ships. The exhibit also includes a display of naval guns of various sizes, which are explained by a detachment of sailors.

Competing with the naval exhibit for the attention of the visitor is the Marine Corps display, which includes a collection of weapons and equipment used by the marines in France and a number of official photographs, showing the marines in action.

The Exposition was promoted by Robert L. Burch, editor of the Merchant and Manufacturer, a trade journal published in St. Louis. Burch said that it is planned to make the exposition a regular event.

Tomorrow night will be "Missouri night," and addresses will be made by Mayor Kiel and former Senator Wilfley. Speakers interested in the good roads movement will attend Friday night.

ONE LITTLE PIMPLE SPOILS A BEAUTIFUL FACE

Not always can these little facial blemishes be prevented, for they may be caused by the too frequent use of irritating soaps, powders, rouge or possibly impure blood.

Every care should be taken to preserve the skin, especially the face, neck, arms and hands. Only the purest and best sterilized toilet soap should be used to cleanse the skin and when a face powder must be employed one of the highest quality should be selected.

When a pimple pops out on your face, you don't have to remain indoors or try to hide it. Simply touch the little spot with BLACK and WHITE Ointment and it will vanish almost like magic. This little aid to beauty should be kept on every woman's dressing table, because it is a necessary toilet requisite for removing other facial blemishes, such as rough, blotchy, sallow skin. The way it clears the complexion is marvelous.

BLACK and WHITE Soap should always be used with the Ointment. Both are sold and guaranteed by all good drug stores at 25c each a package, or the manufacturers will send postpaid on receipt of 50c.

A sample of BLACK and WHITE Ointment, literature and BLACK and WHITE Birthday and Dream Book sent free if you will clip and mail this advertisement to BLACK and WHITE, Box 913 Memphis, Tenn.

UNCLE SAM MAKES REAL MEN AND 'GOOD FELLOWS'

The U. S. Marine Corps Turns Out "Two-Fisted" Chaps Who Can Use Their Heads; Gives Plenty of Travel, Adventure and Excitement.

One I got in the Spanish War,
And one in the Philippines.
One I got in the Boxer brush
For makin' the Chinks be good,
And one for helpin' to block the Boche
In bloody old Belleau Wood.

Corporal, if I should join your corps,
O what would it do for me?
You'd learn "to range this wide world o'er"
By sky and by earth and sea—
To be at home in lands that lie
Where the East and West Worlds meet;
To front the best man, eye to eye,
And stand on your own two feet.

O Corporal, tell me, straight, what kind
Of a man the Marine Corps makes?
The sort of chap you're glad to find
At your side when a rough house breaks—
And laugh whe the sky looks black,
The 'tind who'll share his last lone smoke

Have you ever seen a Marine swinging by, and envied him his carefree air, the breadth of the shoulders and the depth of the chest under his well-fitting uniform? Is it any wonder the girls have a soft spot in their hearts for these "soldiers of the sea"?

That Marine didn't just happen to be the husky lad he is. He is merely a walking example of what the Marine Corps can do for the ordinarily healthy man. Maybe when he came into the service he was a little stoop shouldered, didn't have much "pep." Maybe he was working at a job he didn't care for, didn't have anybody to "pal around with."

The Marine Corps is a body of men, carefully trained to use both hands, both feet and their heads. They are the sort of men who can take Vera Cruz or form a guard of honor for the Prince of Wales, and do both jobs shipshape. They are blood brothers to the French Foreign Legion, the Pennsylvania State Constabulary, the Canadian Mounted Police and the Texas Rangers. They are princes of good fellows, and they're wildcats when they're riled.

No man does his best work unless he likes his job. And no man can do good work without plenty of recreation. It is upon these two principles that Marine Corps training is based.

The Marine must be something of a sailor and everything of a soldier. So he is always learning something new and intensely interesting. In addition to taking on quite a bit of seamanship, he learns to hike like an infantryman, ride like a cavalryman and handle guns like an artilleryman. He knows something of wireless telegraphy and mechanics.

In fact, when he comes out of the Marine Corps there are all sorts of big-paying civilian jobs that are waiting for a man who can do so many different kinds of things and do them well.

To keep a man fit there is nothing like athletic sports, and all Marines are encouraged to go in for boxing, football, baseball and swimming. Competent coaches and trainers are provided and every facility for a man to indulge in the form of sport that most appeals to him.

Good Fellowship of the Corps

A life of travel, adventure and outdoor work would naturally attract the man who has the makings of a "good fellow" in him. And nowhere do you find more "good fellows" than in the Marine Corps. If ever you have seen a bunch of Marines in their off hours in barracks, or out for a time in any of our large cities, or sightseeing in foreign ports, there is no need to tell you anything about that side of a Marine's existence.

And as for his chances of seeing the world—there is hardly a country on earth where Marines are not stationed at present. They are in Haiti and the Philippines. They are in London, Paris and in China. No big warship sets sail for foreign ports without a detachment of Marines aboard.

Any healthy young man who would like to learn a well-paying trade, and at the same time build himself up physically and see the world, should investigate the U. S. Marine Corps. Don't hesitate to call at the Marine Recruiting Office. You will not be urged to enlist, but you WILL be told THE TRUTH about the service. Send for booklet.

Give The Skin New Life

WHEN you first observe your complexion beginning to lose its youthful freshness don't neglect it. A little care each day will keep you youthful for years.

Try this simple formula—

"A little CREME ELCAYA rubbed gently into the skin does it if you need color, a very little Elcaya rouge spread carefully over the cheeks before the cream is quite dry; and after that the film of face powder over all."

CRÊME ELCAYA

Your dealer has ELCAYA and has sold it for years. Ask him.

KALICH

in "The Riddle: Woman"

"Bertha Kalich's art shines resplendent in "The Riddle: Woman." World famous actress wins new laurels in Jacobi's gripping drama. We have the KALICH art, like unto which there is nor can be any other, in all its power, finesse and fascination. The KALICH voice the KALICH pose, the KALICH gesture, what rare possessions they are for one rarely gifted woman to have.
RICHARD SPAMER,
Globe-Democrat.

Mme. KALICH portrays great emotional role. Star attains height of power in "The Riddle: Woman" at the Shubert-Jefferson. Her voice is a regal instrument upon which she plays every note in the register of intense feelings from symphonies of tenderness to dispassions of despair.
EMIL RAYMOND,
St. Louis Times.

KALICH powerful in tigress-woman, superfeminine resolution portrayed in drama of Ibsen Sardou type. Mme. KALICH'S remarkable voice has its finest use in a moment of telephone conversation, in her final defiance of her tormentor, and in the questioning of the young girl.
CARLOS F. HURD,
St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Mme. KALICH plays upon herself as if she were a musical instrument. Her voice is marvelous, deep toned as a man's when her emotion takes the form of fear or despair; sweet and fluid upon demand, and her whisper penetrates further than the loudest shout of a trained speaker.
IRVING BRANDT,

Tommy Teague to Meet Tucker at S.B.A.C. Tonight

Muncie (Ind.) Lightweight Has Shown Well in Two Previous Contests in This City.

Boxing Card at S. B. A. C. Tonight

SEMI-WINDUP—Pete Macklin and Willie Colonna of St. Louis, 8 rounds at 130 pounds.
PRELIMINARY—Jack Piovich, Benld, Ill., vs. Young Haney, St. Louis, 6 rounds, 135 pounds.
REFEREE—Walter Heisner.

Tommy Teague of Muncie, Ind., who has impressed St. Louisans as one of the cleverest fighters seen here in years, will make his third local appearance tonight when he meets Frankie Tucker of Tulsa, Ok., in the feature bout of the South Broadway Athletic Club show. In the other bouts of the evening Pete Macklin will box Willie Colonna eight rounds and Jack Piovich, the hard-hitting miner, will go six rounds with Young Haney.

Teague won the favor of St. Louis boxing fans by outpointing the hard-hitting Orb Jolly in eight rounds and by handing a terrible beating to Joe McMullen. In the McMullen fight Teague showed craft, an ability to punch and take a punch and a wonderful defense. Spectators agreed that few exhibitions ever staged here had been superior to the Teague-McMullen affair.

Tucker is not very well known in St. Louis, but has met some good boxers and claims verdicts over some who have been fighting among the best in the lightweight division. Tucker is managed by his sister, Miss Elizabeth Tucker, who says Frankie recently gave Arlos Fanning a sound beating. Miss Tucker says she is determined to see Frankie beat Teague, as Tommy Sullivan has promised to put the Tulsa boy on at the Coliseum in case he disposes of the slugging Muncie boxer.

The semiwindup tonight should furnish some good fighting. Macklin always works hard and packs a knockout wallop. In the preliminary the fans will get another look at the sleep producing punch of Piovich, the Illinois miner.

Tucker's sister-manager is eager to see Frankie matched with Harry Kabakoff. She said Frankie could make 128 pounds without weakening himself and that he would make that weight for the Ghetto Ghost.

Fans who have seen Tucker fight say he should bring out the best in Teague. The Oklahoma boy is fast and a hard hitter and his style is different from that of Jolly and McMullen.

The first bout tonight will start at 8:30 o'clock. Walter Heisner will referee.

CADDOCK AND LEWIS IN MATCHES WITH FOREIGN MAT CHAMPIONS TONIGHT

NEW YORK, March 2.—Four wrestling stars will go to the mat in Madison Square Garden tonight. Jim Londos, the stout little Greek, against "Strangler" Lewis, and Earl Caddock in a struggle with Salvatore Chevalier, who won the inter-allied championship in Paris.

Both of these matches will be to a finish. Londos, who seems to have suffered no great injury as a result of being locked in the rib-cracking Stecher "scissors" during their recent match, is sure that he will take all the "strangle" out of big Ed. As in the match with Stecher, Londos will be outweighed greatly, but this idol of the Greeks seems able to match strength with the hardiest of them.

W. ZBYSZKO WINS FROM PESEK IN MAT MATCH

DES MOINES, Io., March 2.—Wladek Zbyszko, heavyweight wrestler, won over John Pesek of Shelton, Neb., at the Coliseum here last night. Zbyszko won the first fall with a body scissors and bar armlock, in 41 minutes and 30 seconds, while Pesek pinned the Pole's shoulders to the canvas with a crotch hold and half nelson in 17 minutes and 30 seconds for the second fall. Zbyszko won the third fall and the match with a crotch hold and half nelson in 46 minutes and 55 seconds.

Manufacturers' League Meets.

Phil Kavanaugh, president of the Manufacturers' League of the Municipal Baseball Association, has called a meeting for tonight to be held at 415 North Ninth street, at 8 o'clock. Plans for the coming season will be completed at the gathering.

Last Night's Fights

O'Dowd Stops McCaron.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 2.—Mike O'Dowd, middleweight champion, stopped Jack McCaron, Allentown, Pa., in the second round of a scheduled six-round bout here last night. In the first round O'Dowd sent the Allentown boxer to the floor three times for the count of five. When he was knocked down in the second round his seconds threw a towel into the ring.

Herman Defeats Puryear.

Long and McKenny Draw.

Teague Defeats Nessler.

MUNICE, Ind., March 2.—Hope Mullen knocked out Perry Schaad of Flint, Mich., in the third round of their 10-round go; Battling Checkeye of Muncie fought a draw with Billy Vess of Cincinnati; Tommy Teague had the shade over Frankie Nessler of Cincinnati.

SPORT SALAD by L. C. Davis

HIGHER, still and higher.
Every day thou springest,
Like some intrepid flyer,
To further heights thou wingest;
And stinging still dost soar,
And soaring ever stingest.

From a half-a-dime—
An ordinary nickel,
Thou started in to climb,
Pursuing fortune fickle;
Which evolution from the jit
Our fancy doesn't tickle.

Till fifty cents a throw
At las' thou art demanding;
The why and wherefore of the same
Surpasseth understanding.

A WALKOVER.

The Kelly for President boom is gathering momentum. A straw vote taken in the apartment district on Pershing avenue showed 549 votes for the New York landlord as against none for the field.

Vote for Kelly and reasonable rents. A vote for Kelly is a vote for humanity.

A CLEAR CASE.

See where two cases of champagne were found in an alley by policemen. There is said to be considerable friendly rivalry among the Judges as to who will try both cases.

"Washington Needs Bigger Men, Lane Declares." Head line. Boy, page Fatty Arbuckle!

The well-known 5:15 will resume its old practice of pulling out at a quarter after five.

Westwood Due to Get Golf Tourney

St. Louis Association Will Name District Championship Course Tonight.

The Westwood Country Club expects to be awarded the St. Louis District Golf Association championship tournament for this year, when the directors of the local organization hold their annual winter meeting at the Racquet Club tonight.

The district tourney is passed by rotation to the clubs holding membership and Westwood is the only local club that has not entertained. The members are particularly anxious to bring the title competition to Westwood, as extensive couse and club alterations have been made since last fall.

Last year the district championship was held in the fall, but the association will return to the former policy of holding it in early June this year.

Municipal Will Try Again.

The Question of granting membership in the association to the Forest Park Golf Club will once again be brought up for discussion. This question has come before the district directors annually for the past five years, and each time the application has been denied. Conditions are more favorable this year.

The success of the inter-club play during the past summer will warrant the arrangement of another schedule, this year. Several members stated that there were some flaws in the system of conducting the event, because of the hurried manner in which it was arranged. These will be avoided for the coming season.

Election of officers for the coming year will also be held. Dr. Willis B. Hall of the Bellerive Country Club has held the presidency for the past year, while William F. Fahey has served as secretary.

Illinois Beats Michigan.

Puchta Retains City Honors By Beating Rivers

S. B. A. C. Amateur Wins Feature Bout of National Sporting Club Show.

George Puchta of the South Broadway Athletic Club last night retained his title of amateur lightweight champion of St. Louis and added the Busch trophy to his collection, by stopping Rex Rivers of the Wagner A. C. in the scheduled feature bout of the National Sporting Club amateur boxing show at the Armory. Rivers' seconds threw a towel into the ring just as the bell ended the round.

Puchta showed a clever left jab and a punishing right cross and outclassed Rivers from the start. In the second round the South Broadway boy opened up and had Rivers in distress throughout the frame. Puchta was almost untouched in the two rounds.

The show attracted a crowd estimated at more than 1500 persons, and was of a caliber to boost the amateur boxing game in St. Louis. The bouts were handled in good fashion, followed each other rapidly and except on a few occasions when it disagreed with the judges the crowd was well behaved. The tendency on the part of the spectators to judge a bout by the last round and the physical condition of the boxers resulted in the crowd's not understanding several of the judges' verdicts.

Judges' Decision Displeases.

In the 133-pound class, especially, Morris Mickey of the South Broadway A. C. gave Erwin Sicking of the Stag A. C. a sound beating for two rounds. In the third round Sicking raised a huge lump over Mickey's left eye, and had the round by a large margin. Because of this rally, the crowd booed when it was announced that the judges had awarded the verdict to Mickey. The decision was according to amateur rules.

Some knockout punches were displayed. Peter Winderman, a left-handed fighter, landed on the jaw of Stafford Hornsby of Company G, First Regiment, in the first round, sending the soldier to the canvas, and repeated in the second frame, neither round lasting a minute.

Steve English of the Senate A. C. so far outclassed Carl Payne of the Wagner A. C. that Referee Heisner stopped the bout in the second round to avoid unnecessary punishment. The bout between Will Reith of the S. B. A. C. and George Simpson of the National Sporting Club also was stopped because Reith far outclassed his opponent. Reith shows the style and coolness of a veteran.

An added feature was offered when "Red" Whalen of the Senate A. C. issued a challenge from the ring to any St. Louis boy in the 115-pound class, and an ambitious bantam in the audience left his seat to meet "Red" as he withdrew from the ring. It looked like the challenge was going to be accepted and the bout staged on the moment, but the belligerents were kept apart.

SEVEN AMATEUR BOUTS AT STAG ON THURSDAY

Seven bouts will make up the program for the amateur boxing show to be staged at the Stag A. C. Thursday night. The feature contest will be between Mike O'Donnell, Stag A. C. and Mike Konkowski, a soldier from Jefferson Barracks. The complete schedule:

100 pounds—William Trott (Southern A. C.) vs. Walter Knoke (Stag A. C.).
118 pounds—"Red" Whalen (Senate A. C.) vs. Elmer Hemingway (Stag A. C.).
125 pounds—Steve English (Senate A. C.) vs Norman Hoke (Stag A. C.).
133 pounds—Paddy Burke (N. W. T. V.) vs. Gus Becht (Stag A. C.).
140 pounds—Doughboy Konkowski (Jefferson Barracks) vs. Mike O'Donnell (Stag A. C.).

Referee—Eddie Randall. Judges—Robert W. Hall and Seneca Taylor.

BOLIN WILL REPRESENT SWEDEN IN OLYMPIAD

NEW YORK, March 2.—Anatole Bolin, Swedish middle-distance running champion, has announced that he will sail for Sweden March 11 to represent his native land in the Olympic games at Antwerp. Bolin, who was unsuccessful in competition during his four months here, plans to return to the United States in the fall to remain permanently.

GIRL BASKET BALL FIVES PLAY SHUTOUT CONTESTS

For the first time in the history of the girls' division of the Municipal Basketball League, two shutout games were played. The C. W. A. defeated the May Girls, 4 to 0, in the opening half of the doubleheader; while Rock Church easily won from Trinity M. E., 22 to 0. Misses I. Phelan and C. Cates scored the 22 points for the Rock Church team.

McAndless Again Victor.

BOSTON, March 2.—David McAndless of Chicago won his fourth straight victory in the national amateur 18.2 balkline billiard tournament at the Boston Athletic Association yesterday, defeating Edgar T. Appleby of New York, 300 to 265, in 28 innings. Appleby led until the twenty-second inning.

Pursuit Race Tonight.

A pursuit race, a new event, will be staged at the Winter Garden tonight. Harry Lang, city mile and two-mile ice skating champion; Joe Forshaw, Charlie Spencer and Howard Norton are some of the stars who have entered.

Rovers Win Hockey Game.

The Rovers defeated the St. Louis Hockey Club, 4—2, in the game played at the Winter Garden last night. Lionberger, two, De Penaloza and Magner scored for the winners and McMahon and Earl for the losers.

Results in Amateur Bouts at Armory

115 pounds—Johnny Ricks (S. B. A. C.) defeated William Cook; judges' decision.
115 pounds—F. Senne (Company G, First Regiment) defeated Isadore Roth (Company C, First Regiment); judges' decision.
100 pounds—Billy Reith (S. B. A. C.) defeated George Simpson (National Sporting Club); stopped by regeree in second round.
B. A. C.) defeated Irwin Sickling (Stag A. C.); judges' decision.

Cannefax Dropped From Cue Tour

Three-Cushion Champion Has Been Withdrawn, Letter From Benjamin States.

A letter received this morning from R. B. Benjamin, who is managing the tours of the balkline, pocket-billiard and three-cushion champions, announces that Robert L. Cannefax, the angle champion, has been withdrawn from the tour. No reason is assigned.

Willie Hoppe, world's 18.2 balkline champion, will give a two-day exhibition with Charles C. Peterson, local expert, next Monday and Tuesday. Matches will be played both afternoon and evening.

The balkline experts will be followed by Ralph Greenleaf, pocket-billiard champion, and Jerome Keogh, his traveling partner.

CANNEFAX WILLING TO PLAY KIECKHEFER IN ANGLE TITLE CONTEST

CHICAGO, March 2.—Robert L. Cannefax, three-cushion billiard champion, who recently was challenged by Augie Kieckhefer, former champion, today announced he would play Kieckhefer for the title on the following terms:

Kieckhefer to guarantee Cannefax $7500, which Cannefax says he can earn between now and the next championship tournament.

The contest to be held any time within the next 30 days.

IMPOSSIBLE TO ADVANCE OLYMPIC TENNIS DATES, BELGIAN OFFICIALS SAY

NEW YORK, March 2.—The probability of an American team competing for the Olympic tennis championship at Antwerp next summer received a severe setback yesterday when word was received from Belgium that the date of the tournament would not be changed. The Belgian Olympic Committee in its cable message to the American committee stated that the courts would not be ready for play before August.

The message was in answer to a request from the American Olympic Committee and the United States Lawn Tennis Association that the date of the tennis tournament be moved forward from Aug. 15-23 to the week beginning July 5. If the change could have been made the American team, which is expected to play in the English championships late in June would have gone to Antwerp for the Olympic matches. Competition by the first string players of the United States on August dates named is impossible owing to the National championships, which begin about the same time.

Dobie to Coach Cornell.

ITHACA, N. Y., March 2.—Official announcement that Gilmour Dobie, former coach of the Navy football team, has signed a three-year contract with Cornell was made yesterday. Dobie, who coached the University of Washington eleven before going to Annapolis, will succeed J. H. ("Speedy") Rush.

7 U. S. Skaters Entered.

NEW YORK, March 2.—Among the entrants who will represent the United States in the Dominion skating championships to be held at Winnipeg, Canada, tomorrow night, are Everett McGowen, St. Paul; C. Fitz and W. Steinmetz, Chicago; A. Leither, Jersey City; J. Stowell, Aurora, and Charles Jewtraw and Joe Moore of Lake Placid.

Johnson to Meet Rux.

Battling Johnson and Joe Rux of Memphis, a pair of 135-pounders, have been matched to meet in the feature bout of the Lafayette A. C. show Friday night. Benny Hall and Kid Yellow meet in the semiwindup. The other contests are as follows: Battling Johnnie vs. Kid Ashe and Young Sylvester vs. Kid Herman. All the contestants are negroes.

Purdue Trounces Buckeyes.

Cardinal Squad Goes Through Its First Workout

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., March 2.—Less than 48 hours after they had left the snow and cold of St. Louis, the Cardinals yesterday went through their inaugural baseball practice of the season at Brownsville, Tex. That the weather conditions changed in such a short period of time was a pleasing surprise to the athletes, and it became necessary for Manager Branch Rickey to caution some players lest they work too strenuously on their first outing after the long layoff from the 1919 campaign.

The one workout yesterday was taken in the parade grounds at Fort Brown, the military post here. Today the athletes will work on this same field in the morning, but will take the afternoon workout at the Brownsville baseball park, which has been laid out especially for the entertainment of the Cardinals. Incidentally, this is the place where the Cards will take on the Athletics in a majority of their 12 games in the Rio Grande Valley.

On their arrival here yesterday morning, following the long train ride from St. Louis, the Cards were met by a delegation of Brownsville citizens. The training stay here is an unusual one, as the club has chartered an entire hotel of 40 rooms.

Session for Pitchers.

Manager Rickey put all of the pitchers, save Schupp, Doak and Goodwin, through a short hurling session, pitching to the batters. Doak and Goodwin warmed up a bit, but put in their strenuous exercising in the handball court. Schupp was not permitted to pitch a ball and was stationed in the outfield and was told to lob the ball back to the infield.

"If it gets any warmer here I will have to guard against the players going stale," said Manager Rickey today. "This is a great place to train, and after one day's outing I am sure we made no mistake in coming to Brownsville."

Walter Lambrecht, the Decatur (Ill.) boy, failed to join the Cardinals on their getaway from St. Louis, despite the fact that he had accepted terms and received his transportation. He sent no word, after the getaway from St. Louis.

Ed Bogart, the outfielder, from Regina, who lives in San Francisco, and Jake Fournier, who is coming all the way from Seattle, are due today.

Bill Bolden, from the former Moonshine district of Tennessee, and Polly McLarry, who lives at Bonham, Tex., are also expected today.

In their news column and on the editorial pages, the Brownsville papers extended a royal welcome to the Cardinals. It is the first time a major league club has ventured this far South.

Training Camp News

Jackson Signs With Sox.

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 2.—Joe Jackson, the Chicago White Sox fielder, said yesterday he had concluded to sign up with the team for the coming season, but would not give out figures of his contract.

Giants Reach San Antonio.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 2.—The New York National League baseball squad, 26 strong, under the leadship of Christy Mathewson arrived last night and will train here in preparation for the 1920 season. The party was met at the station by Frank Snyder, Giant catcher, and Ross Young, outfielder, who live here.

Lees Signs Contract.

CHICAGO, March 2.—The signed contract of George Lees, utility catcher of the Chicago White Sox, was received by President Comiskey yesterday. With this signing of Lees, the White Sox have three catchers under contract, the others being Ray Schalk and Byrd Lynn.

Shorten in Tiger Fold.

DETROIT, Mich., March 2.—"Chick" Shorten, outfielder, who had been classed as a holdout, came to terms with President Navin yesterday and for the Tiger training camp at Macon, Ga.

Johnson Departs for Camp.

Schwedt Shatters Record.

PITTSBURG, Pa., March 2.—Fred Schwedt of the Detroit Y. M. C. A., in the water gala held in the Pittsburg Natatorium last night under the auspices of the Pittsburg Athletic Club, made a plunge for distance of 82 feet 9 inches, beating the previous record for the event of 80 feet held jointly by Schwedt and F. B. Willis of Philadelphia and the world's record of 82 feet 6 inches made 14 years ago by the English swimmer, Taylor.

Texas U. to Play Browns Today in First 1920 Game

Second String Men Will Be Given Chance to Show Against Collegians.

TAYLOR, Tex., March 2.—The Browns today will play their opening ball game of the season against the team representing Texas University. With the exception of four players, the American Leaguers are in fine shape.

It is well that the Brownies are in good condition, as it is said the Texas boys have been practicing hard for a little over four weeks. Manager Burke will use some of his regulars in the game, this afternoon, and fill with recruits.

Austin Is Injured.

Jimmie Austin will be unable to play, owing to a strained side. The "pepper boy" has been working a bit too strenuously in practice. He was unable to put on a uniform yesterday afternoon.

Another player who is not in the best of shape is Strong, who has a lame arm. Burke stated, however, that it will be necessary to play him at first base throughout the game, despite the fact that he is hardly able to make the throws across the diamond.

Other Browns on Hospital List.

Ernie Dudley yesterday afternoon hurt his leg while running out a hit, in the batting practice. The little fellow tripped over the bag at first. He continued play, however, until Manager Burke noticed that the Denver short stop was limping. The fourth member of the squad who is not in shape to play as yet is Allan Sothoron.

The pitcher, who has been traveling about the country looking after oil leases, arrived at the training camp yesterday morning, from Shreveport and it will be a few days before he is ready to take a turn on the firing line.

Practice yesterday was the best that the squad has indulged in since arriving here. Burke kept his men working for a little over two hours and without any question of a doubt everyone had their fill of batting and fielding practice. Urban Shocker and Dixie Davis started on the hill at 2 o'clock, each pitcher taking a turn. After this practice had worked for nearly an hour, Burke called upon Billy Bayne and Heine Schneider to serve up the ball for the batters to practice hitting against.

During the stay of Bayne and Schneider on the mound the pair were coached in fielding bunts. Neither Bayne nor Schneider seemed to know a great deal about this feature.

Burke's reason for not playing Joe Shepner in the game this afternoon is that the manager says he knows just what the former Mobile second baseman is capable of doing. Shepner is playing well in the practice work around the far corner of the diamond, fielding everything that is sent his way. He works like a veteran, displaying speed and grace. He has made a most favorable impression, especially with Manager Burke, Joe Gedeon, "Lefty" Leifield and Jimmie Austin. The latter is not a bit backward in praising his rival.

More Outfield Material.

Manager Burke is of the opinion that Strong possibly could be developed into a corking good outfielder and with this thought in mind the big first sacker was sent to the center field garden for a tryout yesterday afternoon. He handled himself in very good style and there is every reason to believe that he will be given a thorough trial in outfield work.

Pitcher Burwell, who has also played the outfield very frequently, was given a long workout in the field along with Harry Strong. From what can be learned about Burwell he is a great hitter. He bats left-handed and throws right-handed. It is certain he, too, will be given every opportunity to make good in the outfield, especially if he can live up to the reputation as a slugger which has preceded him among the players now in camp here.

Christ Church Five Honored.

The members of the Christ Church five of the Sunday School Basket Ball League, winners in Division C, were tendered a banquet at the M. A. A. Members of the team were Weinel, center; Hebberger and Dutton, forwards; Walsh, Williams and Zacharias, guards, and Mareck and Kronsbein, substitutes. Harry Jander acted as coach and manager.

Brave Texas Druggist Invites Brownies to Quench Their Thirst

TAYLOR, Tex., March 2.

A BRAVE man lives in Taylor, Tex. How long he will have the wherewithal to keep body and soul together remains to be seen. When the Browns returned from the ball park after their first workout in Taylor each ball player found a letter with a card inclosed, inviting the athletes to call at the corner drug store and bring their thirst. The card, the letter stated, would be honored throughout the Bowns' stay in Taylor for any drink the soda fountain could legally dispense.

Some of the cards are a bit frayed by now and several soda jerkers have collapsed trying to keep up with the order for egg flips and malted milks, but as this is given to the telegraph operator the drug store walls are still standing.

Tulsa Promoter Here to Bid for Wilde-Herman Go

John Reisler Will Confer With U. S. Champion's Representative This Afternoon.

Efforts to match Jimmy Wilde and Bantam Champion Pete Herman were renewed here today, at a conference held by John Reisler, a Tulsa oil man and fight promoter, and H. Schachner, local representative of Herman. Reisler's offer for the contest was not made public this morning. Herman is willing to make 118 pounds ringside for Wilde, who demands 116 ringside of all opponents, for contests held in this country.

Wilde has stated that he was under contract to a British promoter not to fight Herman, except in London.

Herman last night fought and outpointed Earl Puryear. Besides this contest, he has six other bouts scheduled for the month of March. The total of seven is nearly a record for a titleholder.

March 6—Knockout O'Donnell, Philadelphia.
March 15—Pal Moore at Newark.
March 17—Harold Feresc, Philadelphia.
March 18—Unnamed opponent, Baltimore.
March 24—Frankie Daly, Philadelphia.
March 31—Roy Moore, Detroit.

Class A Tourney Opens.

A Class "A" Three-Cushion tournament has been arranged at Peterson's Billiard Parlors, to be inaugurated tonight, consisting of eight players, who number among the best in the city.

The games will be 50 points each, played according to championship rules. The contestants are as follows: Dr. L. P. Macklin, Charles E. Conklin, Albert E. Hoppe, Clifford Johnston, William Schlamp, William Hellmich, W. Rippe and Ed Watkins. The contest tonight will take place between Conklin and Watkins, at 8 o'clock sharp.

Wednesday—Hoppe vs. Rippe. Thursday—Johnston vs. Dr. Macklin. Friday—Hellmich vs. Schlamp.

Clayton High Wins

"Toddy" Kamp's Clayton High School basketball five continued its winning streak yesterday, defeating the St. Louis U. High team, 14 to 7. Both teams played essentially a defensive game.

WHITE OWL

9¢ for 1
Box of 50—$4.00

Real Reasons

THE way money has shrunk in the last few years a man certainly gets a square deal when he buys White Owls at 9c or 3 for 25c.

Of course there are real reasons behind White Owl's value. The vast resources of the General Cigar Co., Inc., allow the purchase of leaf at most favorable prices. This tobacco is cured from one to two years by experts who release it for manufacture only when it reaches the very peak of mellow fragrance.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

NEXT!

Though grandfather had a remarkable mind,
He often, by appetite goaded,
Would yield to a failing we greatly repined;
He never did know he was loaded.
And when our great Congress declared it was wrong
To live on an alcohol diet,
We did not complain; our conviction was strong
That grandad would benefit by it.

To all of the plaints of a drink-loving chum
Who vainly opposed prohibition,
We firmly replied that the shortage of rum
Would better the old man's condition.
"What care we," we said, "if the world has to go
At once and for keeps on the wagon,
Or how it may holler thereafter, just so
Our relative lays off the flagon.

But alas for our hopes! When he couldn't get booze,
Or anything else alcoholic,
Dear grandfather scared us right out of our shoes
By eating himself into colic.
He took to his food as he took to his beer,
He ate twice as much as we'd let him,
And now we are worried to death with the fear
That acute indigestion will get him.

But still we have hope, for we know of a lot
Of victims of whisky and brandy
And who will eat every viand that's handy.
And we're trusting that Congress, which voted us dry,
And whose will there's no means of defeating

(The Modern Beauty)
With the aid of a plain delatone paste it is an easy matter to rid the skin of unsightly hairy growths. The paste is made by mixing some water with powdered delatone. This is applied to the hairs not wanted and after 2 or 3 minutes rubbed off and the skin washed, when every trace of hair will have vanished. When you go to your druggist for delatone, be sure you get the genuine article.
